Two Shot, Six Beaten In Union Rivalry Violence

C. I. O. Uuions Clash Over Strike Settlement And Bargain Rights At American Zinc Company Plant; 4 Arrested

FAIRMONT CITY, Ill., June 18.—(AP)—Two men were shot and six beaten severely when a long-smoldering rivalry between two C. I. O. unions broke into violence last night.

For about three hours some 300 striking workers of the American Zinc Company plant surged about the city hall. Wives of many of the union men were in the milling, shouting crowd.

Authorities restored an uneasy quiet around midnight and state police and sheriff's deputies began to patrol streets of the community—across the Mississippi river from St. Louis.

Most of the persons who took part in the melee are members of rival C. I. O. Unions—the Mine, Mill and Smelter workers and the Progressive Metal Workers' Council. The Smelter Workers Union has been on strike against the company for ten months. The rival union, favoring settlement of the strike, failed by a narrow margin last Tuesday to win bargaining rights at the plant.

Shot through the chest, Joseph Petroski, 35, and Epmenio Rodriguez, 58, were in a serious condition in an East St. Louis hospital. Petroski is a former financial secretary of Local 82 of the Smelter Workers' Union. Rodriguez is a member of the local's strike committee.

Among those beaten during the riot were Joseph and Angelo Verdu, brothers who head the Metal Work-

LEWIS WILL OPEN SOFT COAL FIGHT WITH OPERATORS

Northern-Western Block To Face Negotiation Talks Monday

STEEL OPERATORS WILL FIGHT PENSION DEMAND

By William G. Smock

PITTSBURGH, June 18.—(AP)—John L. Lewis takes on another batch of coal operators in a new series of wage negotiations next week.

And steel industry contract negotiators will bump into the formidable obstacle of pensions when they resume their discussions here Monday.

In the coal industry, a potent block of northern and western soft coal operators are scheduled to start bargaining with Lewis and his United Mine workers lieutenants as White Sulpher Springs W. Va., on Wednesday.

And on Thursday, contract discussions with the H. C. Frick Coke Co.—U. S. Steel Corp.'s coal mining subsidiary—are scheduled to resume. These discussions began in Philadelphia but unconfirmed reports circulating today said the new meeting place would be in White Sulphur Springs with the northern-western operators.

The U. M. W. is also in the midst of on again, off again, contract bargaining with southern operators at Bluefield, W. Va., and on July 7 the U. M. W. meets the operators from the head coal mines.

That makes four groups of operators Lewis will be negotiating with in an apparent effort to divide employers' rank. Some observers think Lewis will try to impose the best terms

HISS WILL TELL HIS OWN STORY

Government Ends Case; Defendant Will Fight For Honor, Career

By Arthur Everett

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Alger Hiss, his honor at stake and his future in doubt, fights back next week against a federal perjury charge that threatens his brilliant career.

His attorney, Lloyd Paul Stryker, said it may be late in the week before he calls Hiss as his own star witness. But the former state department official surely will get a chance to tell his own story, the lawyer promised.

The government rested its case against Hiss Friday, after 14 court days of trial.

They were 14 days of alternate high drama and routine court procedure before Federal Judge Samuel H. Kaufman and a jury of 10 men and two women.

They also were days of intense, legal battling between two colorful attorneys—stocky, white-haired Stryker for the defense, and tall, mustached Thomas F. Murphy for the U. S. government.

Mostly they were days of absorbing, head-on struggle between two men, lanky handsome Hiss and his pudgy, even-voiced accuser, Whittaker Chambers.

Chambers, self-styled former courier for a prewar Communist spy ring,

OAK GROVE MURDER TRIAL SET MONDAY

OAK GROVE, La., June 18.—(Special)—The trial of Robert Layton, 40-year-old farmer charged with the murder of a fellow farmer, Jim Ward, 39, is scheduled to open Monday at 9 a. m. in fourth district court here.

Sartis Bassett, Oak Grove attorney employed as a special assistant of District Attorney Harry N. Anders of Winnsboro, said summons have been issued to a jury venire and witnesses.

Ward was slain with a shotgun charge on February 17 after being called to his door at night. He was the father of three children, all boys, whose mother died a few weeks before the father was slain.

Sheriff J. E. Butler has attributed the slaying to "bad feelings" between the two men.

District Judge C. J. Ellis ruled Layton sane after hearing reports of two sanity commissions and 15 witnesses on May 17. Defense attorneys had contended that Layton was insane at the time he allegedly killed Ward and at the time of the lunacy hearing.

POSSIBLE GIVE, TAKE RED POLICY WILL BE TESTED

Progress Of Ministers On Germany, Austrian Agreements May Be Clue

BIG FOUR DELEGATES PLAN MONDAY SESSION

By Preston Grover

PARIS, June 18.—(AP)—Has Russia revised her policy to the point that she is willing to sort out difficulties with the west on a give and take basis?

Whether the foreign ministers council hammers out in the next two days limited agreements on Austria and Berlin may prove a clue.

A further test will be in the way Russian officials act on such agreements as may be reached in the four-week conference.

Tomorrow the four power ministers will meet in another secret session. Monday, in an open session, they will disclose in a communique or through press statements what they have been

TEXT BOOK CHECK IS HOT SUBJECT

Un-American Activities Committee Flares Into Controversy

By Douglas B. Cornell

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Angry members of the house unAmerican activities committee said today they weren't even consulted about a textbook checkup that has dumped them into their hottest controversy of the year.

Probably the maddest of the bunch is Rep. McSweeney (D.-Ohio). One of the schools picked at random and asked for a list of books was his Alma Mater, in his hometown—Wooster College, Wooster, Ohio.

The request to Wooster and to some 70 other colleges and universities, plus boards of education in all states, was intended to give the committee a start on finding out whether any Communist propaganda has gotten into schoolbooks. Five of the nine committee members said they were not told about the request in advance.

The members said McSweeney's reaction was so "violent" that it was mainly responsible for a follow-up letter which went out today assuring educators formally that:

"The committee does not desire to interfere in any manner with academic freedom, nor does it intend to censor textbooks."

Chairman Wood (D. Ga.) today took the responsibility for the original letter. He told reporters there was "no formal decision" on it by the committee but "it never occurred to me anyone would object." He said the committee did discuss the subject and suggestions were made that "we get what information we could on it."

A large percentage of schools and colleges are being "very cooperative" Wood said. He indicated there is no intention of calling off the survey.

"I can't for the life of me see how anyone objects to it," he said.

McSweeney told reporters that despite today's letter "the damage is already done." Rep. Velde (R. Ill.) said the original letter was a "serious mis-

Over in Texas, out Amarillo way, there's a man who for 41 years has attempted in vain to build a town. He came from Kansas, bought land at $17.50 an acre and named a townsite Progress. That was in 1908 but today there are only a half-dozen buildings so Progress has been delayed in its development. The town's founder, Joshua Blocher, blames the next town of Muleshoe for having stolen all the glory away from Progress.

He is quoted as saying: "If the damned thieves in Muleshoe and them other devils didn't tell everybody that comes through here that there is nothing between the state line but Lariat, more folks would know Progress is on the map."

The old man is so mad at Muleshoe he won't allow his mail to be delivered on a rural route from there so he walks four miles to Lariat. He'd ride a bus but he's mad at the bus company. A weather-beaten sign on his house proclaims "This Is Progress," but Progress seems to have given a wide berth to municipal development, state those who have wandered this far in their travels.

Monroe for several hours Thursday was honored by having in her midst W. Kerr Scott, governor of North Carolina, and Mrs. Scott. They came in their car en route to Colorado Springs where they are to attend the governors' conference. The executive and members of his party ate dinner here and departed shortly thereafter. Only a few in Monroe knew of the

Tearful Pleas Mark Last Stages In Babich's Trial

MILWAUKEE, June 18.—(AP)—A series of emotional outbursts, coming after 10 restrained days, marked the climax of Milton Babich's murder trial today.

The court recessed at 12:50 p.m. (C. S. T.) and asked counsel to return at 2 p.m. to discuss verdicts and instructions to the jury.

At that time, the only witness was Milton's young wife, Kathleen. Contradicting Detective Lawrence Papke's morning testimony—later stricken—she said she had not told him she wept at night on her honeymoon because she feared Milton had committed murder.

After the sur-rebuttal, the court excused the jury and set 8:30 a.m. (C. S. T.) Monday for closing arguments. A conference of counsel was called to discuss the form of verdicts to be submitted.

The jury of 10 men and two women will be asked next week to decide whether the 19-year-old defendant committed first degree murder in the death of his bride's younger sister, Patricia, 16. Alternative verdicts will be fourth degree manslaughter—causing the death of another through gross negligence—which carries a penalty of one to two years; and acquittal.

Babich testified tearfully yesterday it was an accident. The day marked his first breakdown.

Today there were more.

District Attorney William J. McCauley called several rebuttal witnesses in an attempt to impeach defense testimony. This led to a flare of tempers between counsel. Deputy District Attorney Joseph Tierney objected to the way Chief Defense Counsel Arthur Richter was objecting to the testimony. Richter said he'd like

Real Estate Official Fires Back At Truman

National Association Of Home Builders Claim Distortion In Lobbying Must Come From Federal, Local Groups If It Exists

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Real estate and building spokesmen fired back at the administration today the charge of misrepresentation President Truman made against the "real estate lobby" yesterday in connection with the pending housing bill.

T. H. Maenner of Omaha, Neb., president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, made the main argument in a statement issued through the N. A. R. E. B. office here.

He said his only purpose was to "cite substantial evidence that will show just who is trying to pull the wool over the eyes of the American people."

WAITKUS TO SEEK JUSTICE FOR GIRL

Wants Prosecution If She Is Sane; Confinement If Mentally Ill

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Eddie Waitkus, Philadelphia baseball star, was quoted today as saying he intends to press for prosecution of the young woman fan who shot him Wednesday.

The Chicago Herald-American quoted Waitkus as saying:

"They say it is divine to forgive, but I'm not going to be divine where she's concerned.

"If she is found sane, I'll prosecute her personally. If not, I will expect the authorities to see that she is placed in a mental institution.

"She seems to think this is a joke, but I don't. She should be taken off the street the same as a mad dog, because she is obviously mentally ill."

Waitkus was not allowed visitors this afternoon after undergoing a minor operation to drain an accumulation of blood from his right lung cavity.

His condition after the second such operation was reported "much improved" and one of his doctors said he may leave the hospital in three weeks, barring complications.

Meanwhile, the 19-year-old brunette typist who shot him last Wednesday to satisfy a twisted crush com-

KING FATHERS HAVE 21 CHILDREN EACH

LAFAYETTE, La., June 18.—(AP)—You can win in Southern Louisiana's "Father of the Year" contest if you've fathered 21 children.

Two proud papas from the heart of this French-speaking country will strut in new outfits on Father's Day tomorrow after a tie for the title.

Both fathered 21 children, and 18 are still living in each family.

The winners are 67-year-old August Boudreau, sweet potato farmer of Sunset, and Fabio Halphen, 58, of Arnaudville, sugar refinery engineer.

The contest was conducted by radio station KVOL in Lafayette. The two fathers were lined up before a microphone today to receive their prizes.

In his best English, Halphen said he would like a blue suit. But mama Halphen had other ideas—she said a gray suit. They compromised and took home a gray suit.

An interpreter was used for Boudreau, who is able to speak only French.

KVOL Manager Evan Hughes said 39 fathers entered the contest, and reported a grand total of 544 children. That's about 14 per father.

7 PLAYGROUNDS OPENING MONDAY

Parents Asked To Send Children To Campus Nearest Their Home

The Monroe recreation department will open seven playgrounds Monday at the following places: Sherrouse, Georgia Tucker, Lida Benton, Atkinson and Barkdull Faulk for white children; Monroe Colored High School and Bryant's Addition for colored.

The playgrounds will open Monday morning at 8:30 and close at 11:30 a.m. Parents are asked to send their children to the playground nearest their homes.

The supervisor at Lida Benton will be Mrs. Raymond Sweet; at Barkdull Faulk, Miss Geneve Castles will be supervisor; Atkinson playground will be supervised by Miss Pat Harbuck; Georgia Tucker will be supervised by Mrs. Marie Pohlman; Sherrouse will have as supervisor Miss Suzanne Phebus. Mrs. V. S. Garnett will teach handcraft and special events at each playground. Mrs. Garnett is well versed in this phrase of playground work and the recreation department is pleased at being able to get her for this work. All playground supervisors have been doing this kind of work for years.

The morning will be completely filled with activities from softball league games for both boys and girls, tennis, croquet, handcraft, dodge ball, track events, singing games, music and story telling. Each Friday will be a "High Day" or the day when there will be special events, which

FORD ATTEMPTS ECONOMIC SWAP WITH EMPLOYES

Wants Union To Withdraw All Demands For Next 18 Months

OFFERS TO MAINTAIN PRESENT PAY SCALES

DETROIT, June 18.—(AP)—The Ford Motor Co. asked the C. I. O. United Auto Workers today to withdraw all their economic demands for the next 18 months and to peg wage rates during that time to the cost of living.

In return, Ford offered to maintain its present wage rates for the same period.

Such action, said the company, would set a "stabilization pattern for the entire (national) economy at this critical time."

The U. A. W. promptly termed the Ford proposal "economically unsound and unrealistic and unacceptable to the union."

Union President Walter P. Reuther said the company suggestion recalled "the kind of economic patent medicine administered by the men who steered our economy into the catastrophic depression of 1929."

"The Ford workers, along with the rest of the American people, are not prepared to travel that road again," Reuther added.

He said Ford's proposal was "another in a series of propaganda handouts by the company rather than a genuine and sincere move in collective bargaining."

U. A. W. views on the matter were outlined March 10 in a letter to Ford Vice-President John Bugas, Reuther said. He said the letter, not made public, had never been answered.

Ford said unemployment is likely to

SEEK VETO POWER ON ATOMIC WORK

Measure Would Require E. C. A. To Get Permission Before Huge Spending

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Congress will be asked Monday to slap on veto powers over Atomic projects costing $1,000,000 or more.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn) said he will introduce the bill which would give his joint congressional Atomic committee the right to curb spending of the Atomic Energy commission.

The commission, currently asking $1,090,000,000 for the next 12 months, now is unrestricted in its spending authority. Some of its appropriations are described only in general terms because of the secret work involved. However it is required to keep the committee up-to-date in full—on its operations.

Only yesterday A. E. C. spending came under attack in the committee's investigation of commission methods. However, McMahon told reporters that the proposed legislation has no relation to the inquiry.

The bill would bar the A. E. C. from undertaking any project or activity costing $1,000,000 or more without first "coming into agreement" with the congressional committee.

The committee's investigation deals with charges of "incredible mismanagement" made by Senator Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) against the commission and its chairman, David E. Lilien-

SPYING CHARGED BY CHINESE REDS

Claim Espionage Ring Operating From U. S. Consulate In Mukden

SAN FRANCISCO, June 18.—(AP)—The Chinese Communists charged today that a "big American spy ring," directed by the U. S. consulate and army liaison group in Mukden, had been uncovered in Manchuria.

The charge was aired in a long and complicated broadcast by the Communist radio in Peiping and heard by the Associated Press in San Francisco.

The broadcast alleged that the spy ring was set up shortly after the Japanese surrender in 1945 and had continued to operate under-ground after the Communist capture of Manchuria was completed last October.

Sources of the report was given as the "public security department of the northeast administrative council." It said three men identified as "principal espionage agents" were under arrest, one had confessed and all "will be punished according to the law of the people's government."

They were named as "Sasaki, a Japanese; Po Yen-Tsang, a Mongolian; and Wu Jen-Chieh, a Chinese national Sino-American parents."

Sasaki was said to be the one who confessed. The three were declared to have been caught with six American radio transmitters, three generators, 16 secret code books" of the American espionage service," ten gold ingots "for espionage expenses," and quantities of military maps, directives and 'documents on the organization of the American 'T. S.' espionage organization."

"Evidence at hand," the broadcast said, "shows that the socalled American consulate in Mukden and the U. S. army liaison group in Mukden are American espionage organs. The American espionage service in Mukden made use of former Japanese secret service agents and Chinese and Mongolian traitors to conspire against the Chinese people and world peace."

Eleven "intelligence stations" were alleged to have operated from border to border of Manchuria.

STILL RAINING

Rescue 80 Marooned 4-HClub Youths From Small Valley

PETERSBURG, W. Va., June 18.—(AP)—New rains brought fresh threats of disaster tonight to the flooded Shenandoah - Potomac Valley lowlands. At least six persons already had perished in the raging waters and another 20 were missing.

The latest downpour led state police to predict branches of the Potomac and Shenandoah rivers—which first rushed over their banks last night—would reach high crests tonight in north Virginia and West Virginia's eastern panhandle.

Among those listed as dead was two-year-old Winston V. Beckwith, whose half-sister told state police she saw the boy and two others swept away by cascading water which had overturned their automobile.

Mrs. John Gaither said she and her husband were driving with the infant and two girls near Petersburg, about 55 miles south of Cumberland, Md. They identified the other young victims as Leota Redmond, 16, and Nata Walker, 18. All lived in Petersburg.

The Gaithers themselves were spared when a flyer spotted them after they had spent more than 12 hours with muddy waters swirling about them.

Also dead were Cpl. A. M. Hurst of the West Virginia state police and Mrs. Margaret Frances Bricker of Mount Crawford, Va. A sixth victim was listed by police as a man named "Moats" from Petersburg.

Fellow troopers came upon Hurst's body some 500 yards from the foundation of his crumbled home at Petersburg. His son was among the missing.

Clyde Shanholtzer, Red Cross chapter of Hardy county, said 18 persons had been reported missing in the Petersburg-Mooreville area alone. Moorefield is about 12 miles northeast of here, and neither town has a population of more than 3,000.

Besides these 18, at least two more were unaccounted for in Virginia's Shenandoah valley section. One of them was Mrs. Bricker's seven-year-old daughter.

Hemmed in by the alleghenies on the west and the great mountains on the east, Petersburg and Moorefield were virtually isolated. All telephone lines in the former city were down, and only one was in use at Moorefield.

All roads to Petersburg were blocked. Circular routes were open to Moorefield, where about 100 evacuees were quartered in the courthouse and drew food from a high school cafeteria.

But the brunt of the disaster struck Petersburg. Red Cross officials gave this account of conditions there:

Three hundred families evacuated, 60 homes destroyed, 300 homes damaged, 285 other buildings destroyed and 350 damaged; two businesses destroyed and 75 damaged; heavy livestock loss; 12 industrial plants damaged.

The Red Cross had unverified reports that two persons were drowned at Moorefield.

One of the big jobs faced by disaster workers was the rescue of 80 4-H clubbers marooned in a small valley below a Stokesville, Va., dam.

An earlier report had it that the dam had broken, sending a mountain of water down into the valley. Later, airplane flights showed the dam still holding.

National guardsmen tried to get through to the 4-H camp with an amphibious jeep, but failed. Rescue workers then set out on foot over a mountain to try to reach them.

Torrential rains preceded the floods. They hit drought-baked earth and Urges Battle To Prevent Censorship Trends In U. S.

GEARHART, Ore., June 18.—(AP)—A subtle form of censorship already is operating in this country, Frank J. Starzel, general manager of the Associated Press, declared tonight.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Oregon Newspaper Publishers' Association, he called upon publishers and readers to join in battling trends which encroach on true, accurate reporting of news.

Though this nation's difficulties are minor compared to censorship in other lands, Starzel warned they must be exposed at every chance, to keep them from growing.

Censorship in this country, Starzel said, isn't outright bluepencilling. More it is an attempt to control news at the source. He listed these examples:

1. "A notion that the free press guarantee is a sort of franchise to permit publishers to earn large profits." He called this idea "especially pernicious." and warned that in other countries it had led to a controlled press with publishers selling "favors to the highest bidders, private and governmental."

2. Government press agents who, by trying to display their department in a favorable light, provide controlled information rather than complete, truthful news.

3. Libel laws, which have been so severe in some cases that truth reports of official proceedings can not safely be published if they happen to speak unfavorably of someone.

"A little research would provide an impressive list of efforts to stifle complete and honest reporting," he told the publishers. "These are the tiny holes in the big dyke. They can be

MASONIC MEET SET IN FT. HILL

Third Annual Party Is Planned For 4th District Members June 26

The third annual Harrisonburg Fort Hill out-door Masonic meeting will take place next Sunday afternoon, June 26 at 1:30 o'clock. These meetings, under the auspices of the three Masonic lodges in Catahoula parish and the Fourth Masonic district lodge, were begun in 1947 and have met with approval of Masons throughout most of Louisiana as well as parts of Mississippi and Arkansas.

Fort Hill, at the edge of Harrisonburg, presents a site of natural beauty and historical interest. Topped with giant pines it overlooks the river and was a natural strong point in the defense of the river against naval advances during the Civil War.

Paul B. Habans, grand master of Masons of Louisiana has issued a dispensation authorizing the unusual out door meeting, and he will attend, accompanied by most of his staff of grand lodge officers.

After the district lodge has been opened, H. A. Taliaferro of Harrisonburg, district deputy grand master of the Fourth Masonic district will lead in the pledge of allegiance to the flag; followed by an address of welcome by W. B. Taliaferro of Sicily Island and a response by E. N. Camp of West Monroe.

As in preceding years, the principal item of interest will be a master Mason degree conferred by the Monroe Masonic degree team. This team, composed of members of Western Star, Graham Surghnor and West Monroe lodges, is under the captaincy of John E. Coon, and has acquired an enviable reputation in the portrayal of the ritual. Most of the cast of the 1947 and 1948 degree teams will take part in Sunday's meeting, assuring an interesting degree.

Preparations for the meeting are being made under the direction of a general committee formed by the three Catahoula parish lodges, as follows:

For Harrisonburg Lodge 110, H. A. Taliaferro, W. M.; Elmer I. Gibson, A. R. Buswell and Ernest Guinn.

For Keystone Lodge 213 of Sicily Island, W. L. Smith, W. M.; M. I. Salzman, Jesse Whitlock and W. B. Taliaferro.

For Four Rivers Lodge 369 of Jonesville, Kelly Breithaupt, W. M.; Henry Taliaferro, R. B. Fritz and D. E. Brown.

This meeting will be the summer communication of the Fourth Masonic district lodge, which was formed at Winnsboro in 1937 and is composed of members of the 20 Masonic lodges in the parishes of Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin, Ouachita and Tensas. Should bad weather make an out door meeting impractical, the program will be conducted in the Harrisonburg school gymnasium. Invitations have been sent to all Louisiana Masonic lodges and to many lodges in adjoining states and all indications point to a record-breaking attendance.

TO HONOR NEW CHURCH GROUP

Memorial Methodists Show Gain Of 34 Per Cent During Current Year

The 112 members joining Memorial Methodist Church during the church year, June 1, 1948, to June 1, 1949, will be honored at the 8:00 p.m. service Sunday, June 19. This represents a 34 per cent gain for the year bringing our resident membership to 363.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Wesleyan Service Guild have a total membership of 77. Officers of the W. S. C. S. are: President, Mrs. H. W. Williams; vice-president, Mrs. Harold Riggs; secretary, Mrs. Faheam Cannon; treasurer, Mrs. Joe Bruce. Officers of the Wesleyan Service Guild are: President, Mrs. E. S. Parish; vice-president, Mrs. J. M. Parkerson, secretary-treasurer, Mrs. A. B. Wilson, recording secretary, Mrs. Gurvis Coats.

The Sunday School reports an enrollment of 348, not including adult home department and nursery home department. The officers are: General superintendent, J. Herbert Walker; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. W. W. Stevens; adult superintendent, Mrs. Gladys Shook; youth superintendent, Mrs. W. W. Hathorn; children superintendent, Mrs. H. M. Moak.

The total amount of money raised by the church, Sunday School, and W. S. C. S. for local work, home and foreign missions was $15,598.

Be sure to dry fish fillets after you have washed them, using a paper or some other soft towel. To give the fillets a delicious crisp crust, dip them in slightly beaten egg and cracker crumbs before frying, or in milk and corn meal. Lemon wedges are a "must" when it comes to serving the fillets.

DR. WILL STUDY TWINS' DELIVERY

ROCKLAND, Ont., June 18.—(AP)—A 53-year-old doctor who has been delivering babies for 29 years said today he was going to make a thorough study of his latest deliveries—twins 47 hours apart.

"I guess we can call it delayed action," said Dr. W. C. Tweedie. "I've never seen the like of it before."

The twins, a girl and a boy, were delivered to Mrs. Lucien Cleroux, wife of the market gardener at nearby Navan.

Dr. Tweedie said he suspected that Mrs. Cleroux was going to have twins, but was taken completely by surprise by the time lag.

He called on the expectant mother at her farm home last Wednesday afternoon. At 7:30 p.m. a six-pound baby girl.

He waited, expecting the other child. The father hovered about impatiently. Nothing happened.

"Mrs. Cleroux was without pain," said Dr. Tweedie. "I finally decided to leave a nurse at the house and come back when I was called."

He wasn't called until Friday. At 6:30 p.m., 47 hours after the first child was born, Mrs. Cleroux gave birth to a healthy seven-pound boy.

The Cleroux couple are in their early 30's. They have two other children, the last one born six years ago.

"Mrs. Cleroux took the births very well," said Dr. Tweedie. "I've been speaking to her today and she wants to get up and go outside. I told her to take it easy for a few days."

Although the sun is much larger than the moon, the difference in distance is so great that from the earth they appear to be about the same size.

(By The World Staff of Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Just what are the economic danger points?

1. Unemployment: One top presidential advisor says it isn't any particular number. It's any persistent rise. It isn't so much where you are but which way you're going and how fast.

2. Consumer incomes: Another presidential advisor says the annual rate could go down to $200,000,000,000 and still not be too serious. That's approximately eight per cent below the rate for the first four months of this year.

Motoring

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Americans would be able to drive their autos in foreign lands with their home license plates under an international automobile driving agreement which will be taken up next month in Geneva, Switzerland. It will come up at the international driving conference, under the auspices of the United Nations.

To lure automobile travelers, some hotels, according to the American Hotel Association, are adding special facilities: Entrances and registration desks just for motorists, so that they won't have to pass through the lobby on their way to their rooms; "outpost inns" on the outskirts of town, with cabins, restaurants and other facilities.

A woman member of congress, Representative Bosone, Democrat, Utah, is worried because three states this year have passed bills to reduce drunk driving penalties and two more are considering such measures. Such bills, she thinks, will weaken the power of the law to curb drunken motorists.

Outpost

WHEELUS FIELD, Tripolitania—(AP)—in case of a Soviet sweep across Europe, this is the one American-run airfield in Africa to which our air forces in Europe could withdraw. It is being built up as a peaceful base for the military air transport service, and no bombers or fighters are stationed here. But in case of need, fighters could use the field immediately to protect Mediterranean sea lanes.

Soft Pedal

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Quiet waiting is the administration's new tactic on its plan to send arms to the Atlantic pact nations. Getting the senate to consent to the Atlantic pact treaty is the first order of business, and a loud plea for arms would give ammunition to anti-pact senators. Congressional leaders have advised that the two measures be pushed separately, and their advice will be taken. But the administration still wants the arms bill this session, and it will be vigorously urged later.

Air Notes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Speed six times that of sound is said to have been reached in the modified German wind tunnel at the naval ordnance laboratory at White Oak, Md.

"Hypersonic" is the newest term to creep into technical discussions of very high flight speeds. It refers to speed six times that of sound. But at least one government agency has barred its use as "impossible of definition." "Supersonic" is the word for any speed faster than sound. "Super" and "hyper" mean about the same thing in two different languages—Latin and Greek.

The nose section air intake seen in half a dozen jet fighters is likely to disappear. Instead there would be wing root ducts, such as those in the F-80 Shooting Star. The nose duct spoils the streamlining and creates more drag. Also, the nose is a good place to put guns and radar.

Worried

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The state department is worried about the increased tension between Jews and Arabs in the middle east. It's considered possible that the rising tempers may lead to a renewal of the war. Chief bone of contention: Shall Israel admit Arab refugees into its territory immediately, as the Arabs insist? Israel wants to wait until the peace treaties are written.

Jack's Back

SAN DIEGO, Calif.—(AP)—You have not heard the last of William S. Jack, former head of Jack & Heintz Company. The Cleveland industrialist, who made a big splash in war-time production, came out here to retire. But he got the itch to produce again. He's building a big plant at Solana Beach, near here, to turn out scientific research instruments.

Dead Men

FRANKFURT, Germany—(AP)—The 1,800,000 missing German soldiers may be legally declared "dead" after July 1 if their wives wish to remarry. A brief and simple court procedure will be all that is necessary. If the "dead" man later turns up and finds his wife remarried, she can apply for an annulment of her new marriage if she wishes, then marry her first husband again.

Capital Briefs

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Paul G. Hoffman, ECA administrator, is planning a flight to Europe early next month, or sooner if congress completes action on the ECA appropriation. He will confer with top government officials in most of the Marshall plan countries. (His aides say he has no immediate intention of resigning, despite some sharp congressional criticism of the recovery program.)

The maritime commission is going to build a new 20,000-ton luxury liner. It will be a passenger-cargo vessel, to be operated by the Mississippi Shipping Company, of New Orleans. It will be the largest Diesel-powered ship in American operation. The commission will ask for bids next week.

Babies

WARSAW, Poland—(AP)—Every newborn Polish infant will receive a layette, according to the program of the United Nations emergency children's fund. It has already provided cotton for 400,000 layettes.

SERIOUSLY BURNED CHILD TAKEN HOME

FOREST, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—Four-year-old Sally Tarrer is back at home today after six months and 18 days in the Jackson Baptist Hospital where she was treated for burns that covered 65 per cent of her body.

The trip home from the hospital last night originated rather suddenly. Sally had been previously scheduled to leave the hospital June 26. But shortly before noon yesterday she told her father over long distance telephone:

"Come get me this afternoon."

The tot's recovery is considered a marvel of medicine. For many days after she was burned in a floor furnace fire, she lay under an oxygen tent fighting the terrible burns. Doctors pointed out that persons with this much of the body area burned seldom survive. But Sally continued to fight.

She underwent forty blood transfusions and twenty skin grafts.

She was given a royal welcome here. The car bearing the Tarrer family was met near the city limits by a city officer and a state highway patrolman, who sirened them through the business section.

Three blocks from the Tarrer home the cars were greeted by a host of youngsters including two drummer boys. The throng blew whistles and waved welcome banners. A motorcade of neighbors and friends also joined the parade.

The procession moved to the Tarrer home where the entire group joined in a welcome song as Sally was lifted out of the car.

In the house the Tarrer's found all the makings for a homecoming banquet. The goodies had been slipped into the house by friends and neighbors while the family was gone to bring Sally home.

Tarrer, a wholesale grocer here, and his family were visibly overcome.

Mrs. Tarrer has been at Sally's bedside almost the entire six months' period.

JAYCEES START QUEEN CONTEST

One Entrant Already Reported In Water Carnival Attraction

Miss Thelma Higdon, 18-year-old Ouachita Parish High School graduate, became Monroe's first entrant in the contest for the selection of queen of the 1949 Louisiana Water Carnival, but is now looking for a sponsor in order to comply with the rules of the contest, Haynes Harkey, Jaycee Water Carnival chairman, said.

Miss Higdon's entry came simultaneously with the official announcement of the contest which will run through July 7. The technicality which holds Miss Higdon's entry unofficial is the ruling that each contestant must be sponsored by a civic organization or business group.

The contest, winner of which will become queen of the Jaycee-sponsored Water Carnival to be held July 31, is open to any girl living in Monroe or West Monroe. She must be unmarried and between the ages of 18 and 25. Further details, according to Harkey, are available at the Junior Chamber of Commerce office.

The queen's contest will be run entirely differently from the 1948 edition, Harkey continued. Competition will be based entirely upon the qualifications of each candidate and selection will be made by judges from towns other than Monroe or West Monroe. Last year each contestant was required to sell tickets to get votes.

"The Junior Chamber of Commerce is anxious to obtain the best qualified young girl to represent Monroe during the Water Carnival and in later events," Harkey said. "By throwing the competition open to anyone fulfilling the qualifications and by having judges who will select a winner based on beauty, poise, personality and talent we hope to find one of Monroe or West Monroe's most attractive and talented girls."

GOOD SAMARITAN IS LOCKED IN PRISON

HAMPTON, Va., June 18.—(AP)—Being a good Samaritan has proved very unrewarding to Zeke Branch.

Branch appeared in police court yesterday to bond two friends. He is in jail—and they received suspended sentences.

It seems the judge remembered that Branch got a 60-day suspended sentence on lottery charge in 1947. A year later, he ran afoul of the law again and was convicted of illegal possession of whiskey and the suspended sentence was ordered invoked. Imposition of sentence, however, was continued nine times as Branch submitted doctors' certificates proving illness.

And when the would-be-bondsman appeared in court yesterday, Justice John M. Bowen thought he was healthy enough to be confined.

Lake Providence Chamber Gathers At Big Banquet

LAKE PROVIDENCE, La., June 18.—(Special)—Right living and training at the family level would go a long way toward righting tangled international conditions, W. H. "Bill" Shepherd, Arkansas civic leader, told 200 persons present at the first annual Chamber of Commerce banquet here Thursday night.

Sweat and faith, Shepherd said, are the two great needs of today. He stressed the opportunity given every American, but deplored the prevailing habit of citizens to swap this opportunity for anything resembling security.

Earlier Frank Voelker, Jr., member of the board of directors of the chamber acting as master of ceremonies, declared that the presence of so many at the banquet indicated their interest in the growth of the city.

"Your interest," Voelker said, "is the same interest that has put over a program in nine months which usually takes two years. Multiply your accomplishments of nine months by three, and you can visualize what the town of Lake Providence will look like in 1950. A small measure may be had by looking at the changes in the e last nine months."

Voelker declared that cooperation of board members had aided the accomplishment of the first program tremendously. Members C. R. Evans, J. J. Ellis, John Hester, Golden Leigh Levy, F. H. Schneider, Jr., and Judge Frank Voelker were complimented.

C. L. Deare, manager of the chamber, was given a round of applause for his endeavors toward completing the program.

Retiring President George Lensing reported accomplishments of his administration. He listed Appreciation Day, Santa Claus parade, a survey of the parish resources and facilities voted by the police jury, Parish 4-H Baby Beef Show, parking meters, grain elevator's erection, clean-up campaign on town's streets, street markers, summer sports carnival July 3 and 4 on Lake Providence. The filling in of Grant's canal, north of the principal street in the town, and aiding the Pecan Grower's meeting were also pointed out by Lensing.

Mrs. T. E. Pinkston was accompanist for Peggy Schwartz, Patsy Myers, Martha Carolyn McClendon and Mary Katherine Babb who sang "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise" and "Sunny O'Mine."

Teddy Forte, Lake Village, Ark., sang three songs with Miss Patsy Evans accompanying.

Guests from out of town were: Sol Snyder, president of the Bastrop chamber; C. J. Scott, manager of the Bastrop group; H. R. Sessions, president of the Lake Village chamber; W. H. Farmer, president of the Louisiana Delta Council, Delhi; Lamar T. Loe, president of the Madison parish chamber, and Mrs. Leo; Chris Keller, vice-president of the Madison parish group, and Mrs. Keller; T. W. Bagot, president of the Eudora chamber; Joel B. Dickinson, president of the Oak Grove Lions Club, and Gale Gay, president-elect of the Oak Grove organization.

Shepherd is a member of the National Chamber of Commerce committee on education, chairman of a committee on the Little Rock Boy Scouts of America, and a member of the Methodist board of stewards, Little Rock. He was selected Pine Bluff's most distinguished young man in 1942.

ROMANIAN STAFF AIDED U. S. REDS

Former Diplomats' Testimony Names U. S. Romanian Newspaper Editor

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Three former members of Romania's diplomatic staff testified today that the legation here has been used by Communists to spread propaganda and direct the activities of leftist groups in this country.

They specifically accused Henry Fainaru, managing editor of the Romanul American, Detroit Romanian language newspaper, of receiving money from legation officials.

Fainaru, who appeared before the senate judiciary immigration subcommittee under subpoena, denied the charge, but admitted that he is a member of the Communist party. He blasted the inquiry as a "threat" to the freedom of the press.

The subcommittee, investigating subversive aliens in this country, heard Fainaru accused by Fanfil Riposanu, former first counselor of the Romanian legation; Mircea Metes, former first secretary, and Alfons Vogel, former press counselor.

The three also appeared in response to subpoenas. They were in the legation during the general period of 1946 to 1948.

Riposanu identified Alexander Lazareanu as the man who had directed the propaganda work among Romanian-Americans from the legation.

He said that Lazareanu came to the legation as "cultural attache" and was the "agent of the Communist party and the Romanian secret police" and the direct agent of Ana Pauker, Romanian foreign minister.

(Lazareanu was one of the two Romanian diplomats recalled last December at the request of the U. S. government. The U. S. demanded their ouster after Romania did the same to two U. S. diplomats in Romania.)

"Lazareanu was in the contact with and under the direction of the Soviet secret police (NKVD)," Riposanu testified. "He was always in contact with the Russian embassy in Washington. He used to travel many times to Detroit, Cleveland and Chicago and other places where there are many Americans of Romanian descent."

He said the "chief propaganda agency" through which Romanian Communist officials worked in this country is the Romanul-American.

Riposanu told the committee that in 1946 when he was charge D'Affaires of the legation, Lazareanu requested him to give Fainaru $300. He said he refused to pay it, but was told that the Romanian minister "had been regularly paying Fainaru $300 a month."

Fainaru told the committee he knew Mr. Ralea, the minister, but denied in answer to a question that he ever received money from him, "except perhaps for a subscription."

Metes later testified that he had "knowledge" that Fainaru received money from Ralea because he (Metes) had been bookkeeper and cashier at the legation. He said he had noticed one check for $600 made out to Fainaru.

Vogel generally corroborated the testimony of Metes and Reposanu.

Richard Arens, a subcommittee staff member, asked Fainaru if either he or his paper had registered under the foreign agents registration act. Fainaru replied in the negative, saying he is an American and the paper is an "American newspaper."

The subcommittee is headed by Senator McCarran (D-Nev.) who later told reporters without elaborating:

"I think someone tripped his trolley a little bit today."

Some types of banana must be cooked before they can be eaten.

A Good Investment

Ouachita parish and some of our good friends in neighboring parishes put up approximately $25,000 to send seventeen boys and girls, their talented director and chaperones, to North Wales to compete in the ancient music festival at Llangollen. Was it worth the price?

The answer is a resounding "Yes!"

Monroe, West Monroe and Ouachita parish received publicity that couldn't be bought for $25,000 or several times that sum. News stories, personal coverage by Associated Press staff writers overseas, news pictures, etc., of the kind that followed the doings of the Ouachita ensemble can't be bought. Neither can space devoted to the ensemble in newspapers throughout the nation be purchased unless it's by paid advertising, and the space given the Ouachita ensemble would cost a pretty penny.

What is the immediate, tangible, dollars-and-cents value to the community? None, perhaps. We won't sell any more dresses or shirts or automobiles or refrigerators tomorrow because our youngsters went to Wales and became the first American group to sing in the music festival.

But we will have become known as a community which has gained a distinct honor, both because of the excellence of our choir and of our civic pride in placing the name of our community before the nation in a most favorable light. We have often said, for instance, that a professional baseball team is an advantage to any town or city, if for no other reason than that it places the name of that city in newspapers and over radios before the public over a wide territory. Many cities and firms throughout the nation employ high-salaried public relations directors and spend hundreds of thousands of dollars to do just that.

The $25,000 we spent to send our young singers overseas is indeed a cheap price to pay for the returns the community has received.

President-Makers Face West

After the 1950 census, Americans will find that something new has been added to the presidential election formula: markedly greater power at the polls for the three Pacific coast states.

The wrenching westward shift of population that began with World War II has continued through its aftermath. Oregon's population has zoomed 49 per cent, California's 44 per cent and Washington's 41 per cent since 1940.

The coming census promises the political payoff on these changes. The law compels juggling the 435 house seats after every 10-year nose count, to reflect changes in the relative status of the states.

Unofficial estimates of the census bureau make plain a striking switch lies ahead this time. Two national magazines, Survey and the U. S. News, recently have devoted attention to the impending shift.

The big reason for their interest is that gains in house seats mean gains in a state's electoral votes, which are the sum of house and senate representation. Electoral votes measure a state's weight at the ballot box in presidential elections.

California, newly admitted to the 10,000,000 population class already occupied by New York and Pennsylvania, is expected to pick up seven house seats for a new post-census total of 30 and an electoral count of 32.

Oregon and Washington now stand low in the electoral vote scale, with four and six, respectively. But each state figures to add at least one in 1950. This would give them a combined 16 votes for the presidency.

The three Pacific states together then would have 48 votes, a sizable chunk of power to cast around, particularly in a tight election. After the 1930 census, their total was just 35.

What does this mean?

For one thing, the Far West's gain will be offset by losses in the South and East. Nine southern states will each drop one electoral vote. New York's probable loss is two and Pennsylvania's one. And Colorado will fall from four to three votes.

Fattening the Far West's electoral vote total at the expense of other regions clearly will force politicians to turn more frequently to the West for presidential and vice-presidential candidates. They will want men who can command those 48 Pacific votes.

The Republicans' 1948 choice of Gov. Earl Warren of California was an early recognition of the New Look in politics.

The westward migration took millions from their former voting residences. How many were Democrats and how many Republicans? No one really knows.

Democrats say most of the migrants went from states already safely Democratic, like those nine southern states. They say these voters, added to existing strong Democratic elements in the Far West, will help to land that region in their column in future balloting.

Republicans reply that Negroes bulked large among the westward migrants who came out of the south, and that they are not likely to vote Democratic.

They argue further that if Democrats were heavily represented among those who left populous New York and Pennsylvania, the effect will be to strengthen the G. O. P. in those important states.

Whatever the political outcome of this notable upheaval, it is apparent that our president-makers will have a lot more on their minds in 1952 than simply what shade of make-up to wear for the television cameras.

The Business Of Farming

Business and agriculture got a little closer look at one another recently through three pasture and forestry tours sponsored by the Louisiana State University agricultural extension service and the Louisiana Bankers' Association. Bankers and other businessmen and agriculturists from throughout the state paid a one-day visit to each of three typical farms in different sections of the state to see the results of pasture improvement, reforestation and good farm management. The idea was to bring about still better understanding of each other's problems on the part of business and agriculture and cement still further the increasingly good relations between the two.

It might be a great thing if all of us could pay a similar visit to some well-managed farm and get a new idea of the progress agriculture has made in recent years. Some of us might be surprised not only at the extent of farm diversification and the better farming methods now in use, but at the extent to which farmers are becoming business men. Better business management on the farm is not merely a matter of the postwar boom or higher farm prices. It is a matter of better bookkeeping, the kind of bookkeeping that enables the farmer to know exactly where he stands financially, which farming operations are paying off and which are not, how much he is getting for his labor, and how much return he is getting on his investment. Good business management will pay whether prices are high or low.

At first thought, some of us might be surprised also to find that farmers and bankers really have a great deal in common. They might at first thought seem to be men of entirely different interests. But actually it would be hard to find two groups that share more basic interests than bankers, who are considered the very symbol of capitalism and free enterprise, and farmers, who through their ownership of land, buildings and equipment, are the largest group of capitalists in our entire population.

Thurman Sensing,

Director of Research, Southern States Industrial Council:

DOWN SOUTH

INDUSTRIAL ADVANTAGES

One of the most enlightening and encouraging reports that has been presented to the people of the south in a long time is the one that has just been released by the National Planning Association's committee of the south, entitled, "New Industry Comes to the South." It is a fine antidote to the old "Economic Problem Number 1" report back in the early days of the new deal, a report that was fallacious even then but a report which received widespread publicity.

The committee of the south, under the able chairmanship of Colonel E. W. Palmer, president of the Kingsport Press, Kingsport, Tennessee, has made a very thorough survey of the enormous industrial development in the south in recent years, both of those industries that have moved to the south from other locations and those new industries that decided to locate in the south.

The committee found there were three main factors that determined this southern industrial expansion. The one ranked as most important was the fact that a southern location would place a plant near a great southern market that had heretofore been almost totally supplied with manufactured goods from a distance. The second factor in importance was that a southern location would place the industrial plant nearer to its source of raw materials, a recognition of the fact that the south furnishes a large percentage of these materials for the nation.

The factor ranked third in importance was the labor supply. And what may prove startling to those who think otherwise or who would like to have us think otherwise is that industrial plants locating in the south were not after cheap labor, they were seeking good labor. One of the great complaints of the proponents of federal regulation of wages and of organized labor has been that southern industry made its profit out of paying low wages, lower wages than in similar plants elsewhere in the country. However true this may or may not have been in years gone by, the committee finds it is not true now. For similar plants in similar communities, the wage scale is now about the same in the south as it is in other regions.

But the factor that should be most satisfying to all those interested in in the south and its people is that southern industrialists are finding southern labor is better labor than in most other sections of the country. Better labor, of course, means lower labor costs, and lower labor costs place an industry in a good competitive position.

The committee finds that southern labor has less turnover and less absenteeism than the national average. This cuts labor costs. It finds that southern labor, if not already skilled, can quickly be trained and once trained is even more efficient than labor elsewhere, one concern experiencing a 25 per cent greater output of highly precise work by employees in its southern plant than by the employees in its northern plant. This also cuts labor costs. It finds that labor unions in the south, with their membership composed of almost one hundred per cent native born labor, are less susceptible to disturbing influences and foreign ideologies, are more reasonable in their attitude, than organized labor in other regions. There are, therefore, less strikes—and this cuts labor costs.

The south is to be congratulated that its people and the people of the whole nation now have placed before them by a responsible group the real facts concerning the industrial advantages of the region. This report should make clear to those not already familiar with the facts the reasons why the south has been progressing at a more rapid rate than the nation at large for the last several decades; it should also make clear to everyone why the south is destined to continue this progress in the years ahead.

NOTEBOOK

LUXEMBOURG—(Via Airmail)—(AP)—The best foxhole in Europe in the event of an atomic war is the grand duchy of Luxembourg.

This tiny postcard country has been prepared for 200 years against the dropping of the atom bomb. Deep beneath the breath-taking hills of its capital, one of the world's most picturesque cities, lie 17 miles of defensive tunnels.

"They were dug in the early 1700s, and they could easily hold everyone in the country," said David Ned Blackmer, 33, of Binghamton, N. Y.

The little monarchy, ruled by Grand Duchess Charlotte, is only 999 miles square and has a population of about 300,000.

Blackmer, an ex-G. I., decided after the war—like many another American soldier—he wanted to learn more about the lands he had fought across. So when he had recuperated from a severe head wound he came here to study the culture of Luxembourg to win his doctorate degree.

"The people have been extraordinarily friendly and cooperative," he said.

Luxembourgers have had a weary time trying to live up to their national motto: "We want to remain what we are."

The country is a natural stronghold, a crossroads for invasion armies moving across Europe, and its name means "Little Fortress." It has been a military outpost since Roman times.

More than most small countries Luxembourg knows the cost of being a football to the big powers. It agreed in 1867 to demolish its fortifications in return for a guarantee of "eternal neutrality." Since then German troops have wheeled across it in three wars.

German commanders took what they wanted, even forced Luxembourgers to serve in their armies.

But this tiny door mat of Europe is beginning to bristle. It has found "neutrality" doesn't pay.

"They are a little imperialistic now," laughed Blackmer. "They want a slice of Germany. That is they want the land—but not the Germans who live on it."

And Luxembourg has raised its prewar army of 300 men to 10,000. This is really a token gesture, however, to give a legalistic basis to its claim that its soldiers should be treated as war prisoners rather than impressed into foreign conquering armies.

How long Luxembourgers could hold out in the event of another invasion attack is problematical—unless they were quickly reinforced.

"But they are wiring the old tunnels again," said Blackmer.

A showdown on how badly split the Democratic partly is in the house of representatives may come when the rural telephone bill is considered.

Democrats from urban centers outside the South have been angry for a long time while they have watched southern Democrats line up with Republicans to defeat legislation with big city appeal.

The coalition of southern Democrats and Republicans prevented Taft-Hartley repeal, and it is expected to endanger the public housing bill and administration minimum wage legislation. Rent control extension was also curbed by the coalition.

All of these measure are dear to the hearts of the big city Democrats from non-southern states.

They've carried the grudge for a long time and have mumbled threats of revenge on legislation the southerners want.

The rural telephone bill is primarily a southern measure, and its author, Representative W. R. Pouge, of Texas, is a southerner who usually sides with the Republicans on labor, housing, rent and other each "fair deal" measure.

Representative Chet Hollifield (D-Calif.), who has publicly said on several occasions that the "fair deal" Democrats should "get even" with the southerners, has disclosed that he will fight the rural telephone bill. The bill provides for an expansion of rural telephone service with government loans styled after the R. E. A. plan.

The rural telephone bill will reach the house because of the new house rule which permits legislation to be called to the floor for action by a committee chairman after 21 days if the house rules committe bottle-necks it.

The rules committee has placed the telephone legislation in the deep freeze, with Rules Chairman Adolph Sabbath (D-Ill.), a faithful administration follower ordinarily, being one of the main opponents of it.

A large bloc of Republicans are opposed to the telephone bill because they consider it to be an unnecessary government invasion into private enterprise.

It will be interesting to see if a coalition of northern and western Democrats with Republicans can defeat southern Democrats.

Very rarely do members of the house have critical words to say on the floor about the senate.

It is customary, in public speeches at any rate, for representatives to speak in terms of highest regard for the body of legislators across the capital which some persons occasionally refer to as "the upper house." (Such references, incidentally, are seldom indulged in by members of the house.) And through the years it has been customary for the house, which has the responsibility for initiating appropriation bills, never to question or quibble over items suggested by the senate as being necessary for its own operations.

The other day, though, a number of representatives let it be known in a plain-spoken manner that they looked askance at this "sight unseen" approval of unitemized senate expenditures totalling about $600,000.

In particular did the several gentlemen disapprove of the explanation

JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—The hot days are here, a good time to keep cool, but this country still will be excited over communism for a while yet.

The trial of Alger Hiss, former state department official charged with perjury, goes into its fourth week Monday and will last another week or more.

Whittaker Chambers, one-time Communist by his own admission, said Hiss gave him secret state department papers when Chambers was working in Washington as a messenger in a Communist spy-ring.

And on Monday the trial of Judith Coplon, which has been going on for two months, will drag on a little longer, and will probably make some headlines before it is over. It's made plenty already.

Miss Coplon, charged with spying for Russia, is now on the stand and when her own lawyer, Archibald Palmer, gets through having her explain why she took F. B. I. reports, the government prosecutors will tear into her.

Miss Coplon, 28 years old and 100 pounds in weight, says she collected secret government reports the way a novelist collects notes for a book, and for the same reason: She wanted to write a book.

In New York the trial of eleven top Communist party officials, charged with teaching conspiracy to overthrow this government by force, will drone on, maybe till the end of July.

The eleven Communists have been sitting at their trial for months and, in spite of their many wrangles with the judge, theirs has been a pretty dull trial so far.

There's no telling what the house un-American activities committee may do during the hot summer days. It's unpredictable.

The committee—acting after receiving a petition from the Sons of the American Revolution — has asked a number of schools and colleges for a list of the textbooks they're using.

That brought a roar from educators and editorial writers worried about academic freedom.

The S. A. R. charges in its petition that a number of educators—either because they're misguided or contemptuous of the American capitalistic system—have put stuff in textbooks that will slant students' minds toward socialism and communism.

The S. A. R. doesn't make much distinction between socialism and communism and wants the committee to examine the books for evidence of either.

At this point the committee has asked for the lists of books. It will decide later whether to have an investigation.

The Paris conference between Secretary of State Acheson and the foreign ministers of Russia, Britain and France doesn't seem to be getting anywhere and probably will break up on that note.

For some time after that break-up there's likely to be quite a bit of news on relations between this country and Russia.

So, all in all, it looks like the weather will be warm for a while.

All The World's A Stage — Washington Is No Exception

By Peter Edson
(NEA Washington Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(NEA)—If you pick up your paper any day soon and read that some congressman has challenged some bureaucrat to a duel with sabers at dawn, don't be too surprised. For the summer theater now playing in the nation's capital is running strictly to the grade-B melle-drammer of the "Curse You, Jack Dalton" school.

Washington has had no legitimate theater this past winter, with real-life actors from New York or Hollywood. But it hasn't been missed. The ham acting that goes on here every day gives the people all the entertainment and emotional outlet that's needed.

As a matter of fact, if some of the acts now going on here were put on the stage, audiences would probably say that the situations were too improbable for belief.

Take the current Hickenlooper-Lilienthal investigation over the loss of an atom. It could easily be billed as "Much Ado About Nothing," only the plot is so unlikely that William Shakespeare would probably have rejected it. And the roles are all mixed up. It looks now as though "Claudio" Hickenlooper will turn out to be the villain of the piece, while "Don Pedro" Lilienthal will be the hero.

Playwriters are always dreaming up crazy plots based on cases of mistaken identity, like Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors." In that one, Dromio of Ephesus and Dromio of Syracuse wander around in scene after scene with nobody but the audience ever catching on.

Stranger Than Fiction

But is that any more improbable than the army's recent "Comedy of Errors," in which it confuses an "unemployable" Dromio Clapp of Moscow with the real Gordon Clapp of TVA? Again you come to the conclusion that the real thing in Washington is a lot stranger than anything the make-believe dramatists create out of their heads.

It must be admitted that New York is giving Washington quite a run for its money on this stuff. The trial of the American Communists politburo leaders and the Alger Hiss-Whittaker Chambers case make pretty good theater. The real life people in these casts make most of the odd characters in New York's current stage hit, "The Mad Woman of Chaillot," seem completely rational by comparison.

In that play, "the Mad Woman" lures all the crooked politicians and power-hungry capitalists into a Paris sewer to search for oil. Then she shuts the door tight with a remark that this is nothing any busy woman couldn't do of an afternoon before tea, if she put her mind to it.

This makes complete sense as a solution for many of the things that are wrong with Washington. As a matter of fact, a couple of good duels around here would be a good idea, if both sides would agree to use poisoned rapiers or ball ammunition.

But for pure "drama"—with a broad "a" and an English "h"—the acts now being put on in Washington beat anything they have behind the New York footlights for fantasy, whimsy and good clean fun.

The Show Must Go On

Here Dixiecrats and Democrats play "The Great Divide" every day in the year. The controversy over health insurance is a perennial performance of "Doctor's Dilemma." The wrangle over the Taft-Hartley law could easily be billed as "Love's Labor Lost"—well—"Labor's Love Lost," anyway. The capital "Corousel" never stops. In Washington it isn't just a streetcar that's named "Desire." That's the middle name of every lobbyist.

Harry Truman remodeling the White House and trying to put over his fair-deal plan is cast in the title role of Ibsen's "The Master Builder." Sen. Allen Ellender trying to stop construction of a $20,000,000 S. O. B.—Senate Office Building to you—is the hero of "Mr. Blanding's Dream House."

Writers of mystery plays have for years corned up their offerings with reports from secret agents X-9 or QT 131-Plus. Of course there aren't any such characters in real life. Or have you been reading the lines of the Judith Coplon spy trial?

What do you find there but that the great F. B. I. itself had reports from secret PT-1 on a barber in White Sands, N. Mex., and from agent T-2 on a woman who went to Baltimore to buy Polish sausage.

You can't find anything in "Sherlock Holmes" to beat that.

Washington doesn't need a theater. It has one.

Where in Shakespeare, Moliere, Calderon de la Barca, Goethe, Dante, Dostoyevsky, Sheridan or George Bernard Shaw can you find characters like Falstaff McKellar, Cyrano de Bergerac Pepper, Julius Caesar Hoey, Cassius Rankin or Samson Connally?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK—Frank Glenn, of Kansas City, is one of those rather remarkable western publishers. When he publishes a book it knows it's been published, and no foolin'. He now has on the market "How I Cook It," by Virginia McDonald, and numerous as cookbooks are, I believe most housewives in America will want this one. In nearly 260 pages of well-arranged copy, Mrs. McDonald tells practically all there is to tell about cooking.

Duncan Hines tells the inspiring story of Virginia McDonald and her tea room, far off the beaten paths of tourists, in Gallatin, Mo., as an introduction to the book. This woman cooked such good food that the tourists changed the beaten paths, and went to Gallatin to eat the steaks and corn bread that the lady of the house cooked so well. She had to pay off $8,000 in debts, contracted during a long illness, and, of course, she did.

The book makes me want to drive all the way to Gallatin.

This is the season for Long Island duckling. With frying chickens at 46 cents a pound in the supermarkets, ducks at the standard weight of four to six pounds are selling ten to eleven cents a pound cheaper, and the demand is heavy. Most New York restaurants feature the duck on their menus, roasted with dressing, and I eat it at least twice a week while the season lasts.

The ice show at Center theater is the big show of the town. The enormous theater is packed nearly all the time for the long show of grace and beauty. Skating is such a natural sport that everybody in the show seems to be having a grand time. As for me, I'd rather sit through a couple of hours of this gaiety than snooze through one of the red propaganda shows on Broadway.

I was delighted the other day when a patron of one of the Broadway shows sued for his nine dollars back, alleging that he had been cheated by a show that advertised itself as a comedy and actually was a hunk of Soviet propaganda. More customers should do that until Broadway learns that the country is fed up with this kind of stuff.

In St. Petersburg, Fla. a shaggy cattle Scottie dog had ten pups, and when her master gave them all to his friends the mama dog adopted three young raccoons that she found in the woods near her home. Just let somebody to take these babies away, says Poochie, snarling viciously at strange visitors.

William Sauls, animal lover, sends me the story.

A nasty man who is disliked by all his neighbors in the suburban town of Bellmore, L. I., just outside New York City, shot and killed a cute little puppy that belonged to a little boy living across the street. The puppy came into the nasty man's yard, and the N. M. slammed the gate to keep him there while he went into the house and got his double-barreled shotgun. Then, in the presence of several of the children, including his own, he discharged both barrels at the pretty little pup.

A fine of $100 and six months in jail are penalties possible under the law. I hope this N. M. gets both barrels and that the judge then throws the book at him.

Dick Hyman has collected some thousands of foolish and seemingly foolish quirks of law from many places and put them into a book called "It's Against the Law." (A. & S. Pub. Co.).

Many of the alleged laws and regulations are set down without quoting verse and chapter, and one wonders whether somebody didn't pull Dick's leg just a tiny bit in telling him these grim jokes. An excellent law which Dick says exists in Massachusetts forbids putting tomato into clam chowder. I am in favor of passing such a law in New York.

William E. Gilroy, D. D.:

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Light, glory and triumph soon followed upon the darkness and apparent defeat of the trial, humiliation and cruel death of Jesus on the cross. Resurrection joy and new faith, courage and inspiration came to the disciples as they first heard the amazing news of the opened tomb, and then met their risen Lord face to face.

The glorious experience that was theirs may be yours and mine. The Resurrection of Jesus has a direct and personal message for each of us. The word that it brings to us is the word that Jesus had already spoken to the disciples before His death: "Because I live, ye shall live also" (John 14:19).

That word of faith, and hope, and life, does not come from the Resurrection as a single, or isolated, event. It is the message of the whole life and mission of Jesus. He rose from the dead because of the life that was in Him, and it is because He imparts that life to us that we have hope of immortality. "The gift of God is eternal life."

We tend to think of immortality chiefly in terms of continuing existence; we should think of it in terms of the quality of the life and the living. What the Resurrection attests is the indestructibility of the good life—the life that the New Testament calls "eternal" or "everlasting."

Life, of course, is more than just good deeds. It is the spirit, the character, the source from which good deeds flow. But even good deeds, the outward expression of the life, are indestructible. Even the minor acts of love and graciousness are as pebbles cast into the water that radiate in ever widening circles. Nothing in God's universe is lost. The Bible itself emphasizes this very figure in its reference to the bread cast upon the water that returns after many days.

The future life is related to the present life, not in mere continuance, but in the preservation, fulfillment, and enlargement of all that is best here. The noblest expression of it is in 1 John 3:2: "Beloved, now are we the sons of God, and it doth not yet appear what we shall be; but we know that, when He shall appear, we shall be like him; for we shall see Him as He is."

And John proceeds to give this its immediate and practical application, calling for the purification of the heart, and the purging of the life from sin.

Paul speaks of "the power of the Resurrection." The Resurrection of Jesus is not an ancient, isolated instance of a man surviving death, but the persistent, ongoing power of a life-giving life that offers to man eternal horizons and illimitable outlets of growth, achievement, and triumph. It is a call to be "always abounding in the work of the Lord, forasmuch as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord" (I Corinthians 15:58).

What Others Say:

EDITORS' ROUNDTABLE

LEWIS' STRATEGY

Most editors condemn, without qualification, John L. Lewis' one-week stoppage of coal mining. To the majority Lewis' principal motive is to reduce coal stocks to improve his position in new contract negotiations. But a large minority notes that some mine owners seem favorably disposed toward this "price stabilizing" by Lewis, and that unless the miners' pre-contract, 10-day vacation runs into a period of "no contract, no work," the supply of coal will not be endangered; many in this group think Lewis' involved strategy actually may be to try to preserve the Taft-Hartley act as an issue in the next congressional elections.

Buffalo (N. Y.) Courier-Express (Ind.): "Mr. Lewis says the stoppage is a 'stabilizing period of inaction.' . . . In other words, there is too much coal above the ground and a week's lack of production is calculated to strengthen Mr. Lewis' position in negotiating new contracts with the coal mine operators. Maybe it will, but it will do anything but strengthen the likelihood of Taft-Hartley act repeal, something Mr. Lewis has been loudly demanding."

St. Louis (Mo.) Post-Dispatch (Ind.-Dem.): "So often has John L. Lewis used his power in defiance of the public interest that everything he does is regarded with suspicion and hostility. . . . But this time it appears he has some foundation for his action. In fact, some West Virginia mine owners think a week shutdown is a 'pretty good idea' and they hope it will strengthen a falling coal market. . . . But the dictatorial nature of his action and its poor timing from the standpoint of labor as a whole bring down upon him another wave of wholesale resentment."

Washington (D. C.) Post (Ind.): "There is no denying that the strike call has directed attention to a really serious problem. But it is not one that the industry can solve to the satisfaction of the general public by entering into collusive agreements with the miners' union to curtail production and spread the reduced volume of coal output among high as well as low cost mines for the sake of providing steadier employment for all mine workers."

Newark (N. J.) Star-Ledger (Ind.): "This (stopping of work) he (Lewis) is able to do because he succeeded last year in forcing the coal operators to agree that the miners need work under their contract only when 'able and willing.' . . . If Lewis succeeds by this method in obtaining higher wages . . . and protecting the profits of the employer through higher coal prices, his example will be followed by other aggressive labor leaders. This could result in a dangerously rigged economy . . . ."

Milwaukee (Wis.) Journal (Ind.): "The . . . work stoppage may exert some pressure on the . . . mine operators . . . but it cannot be considered too direct when 52 days of coal supplies are already above ground and summer is coming on. . . . We now see a monopolistic union trying to control supplies, and thus control price, just as we have seen monopolistic employers try it in the bygone days of the truss. . . . This is ammunition for those who would keep every restrictive part of the Taft-Hartley law or would impose even greater restraints on labor . . ."

Peoria (Ill.) Journal (Ind.): Mr. Lewis must have been fully cognizant of the impact of his action on Congress . . . Apparently he doesn't care. Perhaps he is so bitter at the C. I. O. and A. F. L. that he doesn't mind if he upsets their plans to get rid of the injunction provisions of the labor law. Perhaps he believes that it will be to labor's advantage to wait until after another congressional election and try to get complete T-H repeal then than to accept a compromise now."

San Diego (Calif.) Union (Rep.): "For several years he (Lewis) has resented the influence of William Green of the A. F. of L. and Philip Murray of the C. I. O. at the White House. With these rival leaders staking their prestige on the repeal of Taft-Hartley . . . their defeat might be highly satisfactory to Mr. Lewis. Incidentally, it might demonstrate to President Truman and the administration leaders in the upper and lower houses his superior power and political acumen."

Davenport (Iowa) Daily Times (Ind.-Rep.): "In . . . recently denouncing both the C. I. O. and the A. F. of L. for agreeing to compromise . . . he gave his support to those . . . who believed that labor can best increase its membership in the next congress if it can project the Taft-Hartley act into the congressional campaign of next year. . . . The present attitude of labor . . . may recreate the atmosphere . . . of 1936 and defeat the strategy . . . ."

given by the subcommittee handling the legislative branch appropriation for not providing any further information about the senate item in their report, which simply said:

"Following the usual custom, the committee has excluded from its consideration all items set up under the senate which relate solely to that body. No hearings were held on such items and the bill carries the full amount of the budget's estimate therefor."

First to bring out by indication the fact that senators get a number of "extras" that house members do not was Rep. Edward H. Rees (R-Kan.), who inquired whether "there is anything in this bill that provides free shaves and shines and haircuts for members of the house?"

"No," replied Rep. Karl Stefan (R-Neb.), "for members of the house of representatives."

"Not for mineral water?" Rees asked.

"Not for members of the house of representatives," said Stefan.

"I have noticed items in the newspapers," observed Rees, "that members of congress are furnished refrigerators for their offices."

"Not for members of the house of representatives."

"And that they receive free telephone service for long-distance calls continued Rees.

"Not for the house of representatives," echoed Stefan.

Rep. Gordon Canfield (R-N. J.), suggested that, if the house is expected to follow the custom of not examining the senate items in detail, then the senate—and not the house—should be responsible for tacking on the catch-all item for senate operations. While several other house members voiced this same opinion, the senate item was left in the bill.

In this discussion, it should be noted, there was no hint that the house would attempt to eliminate the senate item. The argument was that the house should let the senate add the item to the appropriation bill and thus bear full responsibility for it.

Later the same day the house approved an a provision of this same appropriation bill calling for an additional $3,000 for each member for clerk hire and an annual sum up to $500 for telegraph and telephone service in connection with official business.

At present house members are allocated $9,500 a year for clerical hire, as compared with $50,000 annually allocated to each senator for this purpose.

HEARING SPECIALIST TO HOLD CLINIC HERE

BUELL H. BROWN

A revolutionary new hearing development, the Acousticon Hearette, will be demonstrated in the offices of Acousticon of Monroe, 209½ DeSiard St., (Amman Building), Monday, June 20, from 10 A. M. to 6 P. M.

The new Acousticon Hearette does for the hard of hearing what reading glasses do for those with defective vision. There is nothing to wear! There is no receiver in the ear! And there are no cords or extra batteries to carry around!

This instrument is so different that the services of the above hearing expert have been secured. This authorized Acoustician has a record of wonderful results in fitting difficult cases, especially those who have never been able to successfully wear the usual type of hearing aid. All of the hard of hearing are invited.

George E. Sokolsky:

THESE DAYS

DECORUM

A lawyer is a licensed officer on any court in which he practices. He is personally responsible for the good name of that court and for the respect of the people for it. The continuation of his license is dependent on his good behavior. Every lawyer is familiar with the ethics of his profession. He knows beyond doubt what is order and decorum. He knows that a lawyer who is contemptuous of the court, of the processes of law, and of the judge before whom he appears is not serving his client but is impairing the judicial system of our land. Such a man has no right to be a lawyer, no right to continue in his profession.

The Communist cases in New York and Washington are distressingly conducted by the lawyers involved. In Judge Medina's court in New York, the lawyers have deliberately insulted, abused, exasperated, attacked, maligned the judge in his own court. They have shouted, sneered, ridiculed. They have used the court as the sounding board in a mass meeting. Their supporters have picketed the courthouse. They have sent delegations of Communist front and labor union organizations to intimidate and frighten the judge. They have invaded the privacy of his home. No criminals, not even murderers, have acted as indecently in an American court as these lawyers.

The patience of Judge Medina is beyond understanding. Yet he has pursued his course, even permitting the shameless delay and waste of the taxpayers' money, because he wants the record right and he does not want the defendants to have occasion for further delay, if they had to engage a battery of new lawyers.

In the face of the foully insulting conduct of the lawyers in this case, it is even less important that the defendants be found guilty than that the entire legal profession of this country be taught to behave in court like gentlemen, even if it is only in imitation of the real thing, and that order and decorum be preserved.

In Washington, the lawyer for the defendant, Judith Coplon, has apparently taken it upon himself to do what all the New York lawyers are doing collectively. Twice. Judge Reeves has been forced to fine him for his contemptuous conduct. Those fines, like Judge Medina's strictures, are insufficient. These judges are dealing with a type of lawyer with whom they are seemingly unfamiliar. Nothing will teach such men propriety but extreme measures. And the American people will support a judge who upholds decorum in his court. The howling, yelling lawyer has no place in the American judicial system.

In the Hiss case, Judge Kaufman apparently forgot himself and testified to what he believed to be a fact, namely, that Whittaker Chambers once called himself "Crosley." I am sure that the judge had no intention of testifying, but it was a grievous error, as Chambers has always denied that he called himself "Crosley" and Hiss has often so stated. The judge's use of the name "Crosley" gave the impression that he believed Hiss and doubted Chambers—which is the business of the jury and not of the judge. Those who do not like Judge Kaufman's handling of the case say he did it purposely, which they cannot know and I do not believe. I think it was a slip, but it was a slip to Alger Hiss's advantage. And the judge has no right to slip to anyone's advantage.

These cases are of tremendous importance and there is a growing feeling that they are not being handled to the best advantage and reputation of our judicial system. There is an increasing assumption that leaning over backward to prove that our courts are just is so much hokum if we permit little lawyers to pull skull-duggery in the courts. The public wants no injustice, no star chamber proceedings, no railroading persons to jail. But the public also expects a lawyer to act decorously and decently in our courts. And it expects judges to rap the knuckles of those who believe that, because they represent Communists or are involved in suspected Communist cases, they enjoy the special privilege of acting like hoodlums in our courts.

Billy Rose:

PITCHING HORSESHOES

A few blocks away from where I live and let live on the East River drive they're digging a big hole, and eventually—Allah and the atom willing—what they're digging will become the diggings of the United Nations.

Now, as everybody knows, there are two kinds of people in the world—those who dig holes and those who stand around watching them. The latter are known to the trade as sidewalk superintendents, and the most interesting of the peepingtomes-trists in my neighborhood is an old boy named Charlie Grainger.

It was a sunny afternoon a few weeks back when Mr. Grainger took up the station next to mine on the rim of the excavation, and I couldn't help but notice his Herbert Hoover neckband and high button shoes.

"That's a pretty sizable hunk of hole," said Mr. Grainger by way of openers, signaling to the steam shovel to move a little to the left. "They got plenty of nothing down there and it's getting bigger all he time."

"Kee-rect," was my neighborly comeback.

"My boy," Mr. Grainger continued, "the world's got one goshamighty throb of a toothache, and you're looking at the cavity. As I see it, it's gonig to take a heap of international dentisty to plug it up right and proper."

Then, there and on the spot, I decided that my construction-casing colleague was an hombre worth knowing.

"How come you aren't producing any shows this year?" he asked me the other day when we both reported for work at the usual hour. "Does it get in the way of your duties down here?"

"That's part of it," I said, "but the chief reason is the depression I see creeping up on us. It's my theory that when people are worried about bread, they won't lay it on the line for circuses."

"Son," said Mr. Grainger, "you've got a good head on your shoulders, and here's a little story that proves it. . . .

"For the past twenty years, a friend of mine in Indiana has been selling hamburgers and making a right pretty dollar at it. He's hard of hearing, so he never listens to the radio, and he's had so much trouble with his eyes that he never looks at a newspaper. But the hamburgers he sells are good hamburgers, and so his inability to keep up with the times has never interfered with his business.

"A few weeks back, the old man's son got out of college after majoring in economics, and when he got home he said, 'Pop, I think you ought to start watching your pennies. The European situation is all messed up and we're beginning to feel it over here. According to the Dow-Jones index, this country is facing a big depression.'

"'I don't know this Dow Jones,' said his father, 'but any friend of yours is a friend of mine. Besides, you figure to know what you're talking about, seeing as how you've been hanging out with professors for the past four years.'

"The next morning, the old man canceled the billboards on which he had been advertising his roadside stand for years, and that night switched off his neon sign at 8 o'clock. And a week later, he laid off most of the girls who had been carrying the trays out to the cars.

"Encouraged by these savings, he next eliminated his famous piccalili sauce, stopped throwing the sale buns away, and substituted cheap meat for the U. S. prime he had always used. His only capital investment was for a newfangled gadget, guaranteed to get twenty slices out of an onion.

"Well last week his son's predictions had all come true. In fact, there was one day when not a single car drove up to the stand.

"'Thanks for tipping me off,' said the old man to his son that evening. 'There sure is one helluva depression in this country.'"

In my mail the other day was a letter from Henry Hamilton, Jr., director of public relations for the Texas Hearing Aid Dealers Association. He has a "beef" against the movie makers, and a very legitimate complaint it is, to my way of thinking. Almost invariably, he points out, hearing aids, when shown at all in pictures, are made comedy "props." Such ridicule, he contends, prevents millions of sensitive persons from using the various mechanical aids which, by improving their hearing, could make their lives a lot happier. I'm forwarding his letter to the Johnston office, and I hope it will get the attention it deserves from that organization. Surely there should be some way of injecting laughs into motion pictures without ridiculing those who suffer from the affliction of deafness.

No sooner did Dan Dailey and his wife announce a separation than most of the Hollywood columnists unlimbered their most dependable tear-jerking adjectives and opined that the rift could be blamed on "career troubles." Dailey, they argued, has made one picture after another and worked in a number of benefit shows: he's been too busy to devote much time and attention to his family. Well, that seems to be routine comment whenever a Hollywood couple are having marital difficulties, but it doesn't make sense. I doubt that there is an actor or an actress in the entire movie industry who spends as much time "on the job," during any given year, as is spent by the millions of everyday Americans who work eight or ten hours, six days a week, and feel lucky if they can arrange a two-week's vacation each summer.

A columnist recently returned from France tells about the French habit of staging celebrations on every possible occasion, cites as an example a gala event at the famous cafe, Tour d'Argent, to celebrate the cooking of its 200,000th duck, and suggests that Hollywood, too, would be smart to go in for more celebrations. In view of the fact that ducks are comparatively scarce here, I have a suggestion. We could set aside one day each year to commemorate the filming of the 100th turkey.

DeWitt Mackenzie:

MACKENZIE'S COLUMN

By DeWitt Mackenzie
(Associated Press Foreign Affairs Analyst)

The government of Nationalist China finally has been strapped on the aging shoulders of the country's oldest warlord—Marshal Yen Hsi-Shan of Shansi province—who has been made premier of what is widely regarded as a "last straw" regime.

From Canton, the great southern metropolis which now is capital comes the grim word that most Nationalists feel if old Yen fails to hold the onrushing Red advance from the north, they will have lost their last chance. The premier, invoking the great fighting spirit of his younger days, has pledged himself to lead what remains of the Nationalist armies in "a fight to the end for independence."

In the background, of course, is Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek who still makes the Nationalist governments. If the Nationalists should by chance be able to withstand the Communists, the real leader will be Chiang.

Do the Nationalists have any prospects at all of standing off the Communists? If you had to wager your last cent on that question, the odds would compel you to bet on the Reds. They already have great reaches of northern China firmly in their grasp.

However, southern China is a vast and difficult area for conquest. Many observers feel that the fighting may continue for years, especially in isolated areas.

And who can say what might grow out of a civil war of attrition? The very vastness and unwieldiness of China might be enough to stop the Communists from making a complete conquest.

Marshal Yen is one of the most colorful figures among the old war lords. At one time he was vastly rich—the feudal lord over territory about the size of Great Britain.

Yen came into power during the Chinese Revolution of 1911 which resulted in the overthrow of the Manchu dynasty. He then was a dashing young general of about thirty. Within five years he became known in Shansi as a model "governor" of his 12,000,000 people because he built roads and schools, suppressed bandits and arrested opium dealers. He became vastly rich.

All that "glory" belongs to the past, however. The 68-year-old marshal no longer is that dashing young general of nearly forty years ago. Still, he has a great reputation and his fiery spirit is willing though the flesh is weak. Moreover he long has been a foe of the Communists.

Yen may prove to be a very useful figure-head for the ship of state at this critical juncture. Chiang's preparations to meet the enemy remain obscure. However, as reported in a previous column, the Nationalists are said to be preparing to re-establish their government in the ancient city of Chungking, which was capital during the world war. This would give them quick access to India by air over the notorious war-time "hump."

Angelo Patri:

OUR CHILDREN

SPACE FOR LIVING

It is possible to crowd a child's day so that he has no time for living. It is possible to live a child's day so completely as to shut him out of communion with himself. It is possible to do so much for him, or with him, that he can do nothing for himself.

In order to develop the abilities that arelatent in him, a child must be allowed to look to himself for strength, for desire, for hope to do and to become a person in his right, according to the pattern nature set in him. He won't find that pattern nor develop that way if he is not granted time and opportunity to search for his own road to success.

Most people have no faith in the ability of a child to think for himself, and are quite certain of their own ability in these directions. They take over the child's life and do their best to live it for him, according to their pattern. Something they wished to do, somebody they longed to be, becomes their goal for the child who is completely ignorant of the goal and, more likely than not, is without the least hint of ability to gain it. It is that situation that causes so much trouble between children and their parents.

"But what I want him to do is make something of himself. That's all. And all he thinks of is this silly notion that has gotten into his head of being a diplomat. Why can't he be sensible and be a doctor?"

Maybe it is he who is being sensible. Every child has one strong quality or gift set in him by nature, and that strength is what drives him to investigate and develop interest in some other direction and not in another. Some of these drives seem to lead nowhere. "He starts something, goes just so far, drops it and starts something else."

He is likely to do just that. Every fulfilled experience feeds another still to come. That is how children acquire power. Guide them, encourage them, and in time they find the strength that is their own.

This search carried on in trial and error, trial and success is the child's road to maturity. To get the most out of it, he must be allowed time, space and opportunity to find that road. Don't fill his every waking hour with work of your choosing. Leave some room for him to move about in and stretch himself by using his imagination, his wish, his ability. He cannot nourish his mind by using yours any more than he can nourish his body by watching you eat.

Give a child some room each day for himself that he may dream, create and develop whatever there is in him of peculiar treasure.

KLAN GUARD IS DEPUTY SHERIFF

State Police Nab 'Honorary' Deputy Outside K. K. K. Meeting Place

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 18.—(AP)—State investigators today said they found a special deputy sheriff serving as an armed sentry at a Ku Klux Klan meeting.

The deputy, identified as C. A. (Brownie) Lollar, 34, surrendered his badge and commission to Sheriff Holt McDowell today.

The heavily armed state officers said they found Lollar in front of a store in nearby Adamsville last night. They said Klansman—not in robes—were meeting inside.

Sheriff Holt McDowell said the commission as a special deputy held by Lollar was a "courtesy" one. McDowell said it was given in 1947 because Lollar was operating a mine and handling a payroll.

Lollar told reporters he was hired to "watch cars at the meetings." He said he had served as a guard at five such meetings and was paid $5 each time. The investigators were ordered here several days ago by Gov. James E. Folsom after three incidents involving hooded and white-robed gangs. A 31-year-old navy veteran was flogged, and a 42-year-old woman and a cafe operator threatened and forced to watch crosses burned.

These investigators have been working undercover here. They refused to be identified by name.

The investigators said they found automobiles parked in front of the Klan meeting place with their license plates covered. This is prohibited by state law with convictions penalized by fines of up to $100.

The state senate yesterday passed a bill prohibiting the wearing of hoods and masks. It now goes to the house.

Governor Folsom also has requested State Atty. Gen. Albert A. Carmichael to bring legal proceedings to revoke the charter of any hooded organization.

The state investigators said they went to Adamsville last night after receiving a telephoned tip that the Klan there was preparing to ride. The officers were heavily armed. Their armament included a submachine gun, large gauge repeating shotgun, carbine and other weapons.

They said Lollar told them:

"If this was county officers, it would be a different story."

Lollar denied saying that when he came to the sheriff's office to surrender his badge. He said he was not a member of the Klan.

KLAN DENIES ACTIVITY

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., June 18.—(AP)—The two top officials of the federated Ku Klux Klan said tonight their organization had not been involved in recent night riding activities here.

The joint statement was issued by Dr. E. P. Pruitt, Birmingham physician, and William Hugh Morris, a roofing contractor. Pruitt is chairman of the board of governors and Morris is director of the federated Klan.

They said the organization had Klans in every county in Alabama, except in one or two. Its membership is entirely in Alabama.

Their statement:

"The federated Ku Klux Klan, Inc., welcome and urge the fair and impartial investigation into the recent night riding activities of unknown persons allegedly masquerading as Klansmen.

"We feel that any fair investigation stripped of its headline hunters and newspaper hysteria will not only prove our organization, but its members as well, blameless and free of any law violation.

"While the newspapers and some of our renegade politicians are howling for the revocation of the Klan's charter, we note their strange silence on condemning any labor organization for the alleged mob violence committed in Shelby county."

(This was a reference to a raid by an armed mob on a small non-union coal mine last Monday. Four men were roughed up by the raiders who demanded that the mine be shut down. The Shelby county grand jury has been called into special session next Tuesday to investigate the raid).

"If the scalawag politicians will cease their political propaganda aimed at the hoped for Negro vote in 1952 long enough to prove the Klan condones mob violence, with facts and not propaganda, we will voluntarily surrender our charter.

"However, until such time as this is proven, we fell that we are to be at least entitled to as much consideration as a common criminal.

"We should be presumed to be innocent until proven otherwise."

FIREFLIES TO BE SHOWN IN TOKYO HEADQUARTERS

TOKYO, June 18.—(AP)—General MacArthur is going to get some of Japan's overgrown fireflies. Don't know what he can use them for—electric service being reliable at his headquarters—but he'll get 'em anyway.

Seems the folks in Gifu prefecture, west of Tokyo, are mighty proud of their fireflies. To hear their Chamber of Commerce tell it, no other place on earth grows 'em as big or as bright.

There are no statistics on their Candlepower. Some of the Gifu boosters hint, however, that the blackout in the old days didn't mean a thing when the fireflies fell on warming up their dynamos. Lit up the countryside like a forest fire.

Right now the fireflies of Gifu are stoking up and blazing away. So, the Gifu boosters decided it was high time that Tokyo citizens and MacArthur saw what a Japanese firefly can do when he sets his mind to it.

They had a firefly roundup out there in Gifu and today a delegation arrived with whole herds of them.

They will give MacArthur some and some to Crown Prince Akihito. What they don't want will be turned loose to glow around Tokyo's parks.

Maybe, if the Gifu boosters haven't stretched the truth too much, this is the answer to Tokyo's electricity shortage.

Stones were used for cannonballs in early artillery.

State Police Arrests

One person was charged with negligent homicide and seven others were charged with drunken driving by state police of troop "F" who made a total of 34 arrests during the last week.

Arrested as a result of a fatal accident in West Carroll parish was Henry Kirby, 24, Cherokee, Ala. He was charged with negligent homicide.

Facing prosecution for drunk driving were Robert Bonner, 36, Negro, Rayville; Vester H. Whitten, 30, Grayson; Westley Cockrell, 25, Bastrop; David T. Vonner, 21, Negro, Monroe; Charles L. Smith, 24, Bastrop; R. L. Wright, 43, Winnsboro and Arthur Kriger, 40, Monroe, who faced an additional charge of driving without a chauffeur's license.

Seven faced trial for reckless driving. They were: Marshall L. Edwards, 20, Negro, Monroe; James F. Foster, 19, Rayville; George E. Calloway, 21, Rayville; Belma R. Burks, 27, Negro, Ruston; Otho L. Morgan, 35, charged additionally with causing property damage, and Teddy L. McKiethen, Jr., Monroe, facing a no driver's license charge.

Arrested for speeding were: James E. Johnston, 25, Monroe; Cleve A. Jenkins, Jr., 21, North Little Rock, Ark.; Milton A. Childers, 26, West Monroe; Jessie James Stringfeller, 25, Negro, Shreveport and Afret Murray, 45, Negro, Monroe.

Driving without state driver's licenses caused seven persons trouble with troopers. Given tickets were John Marak, 56, Lake Providence; Robert Bonner, 36, Rayville; Willie Thompson, 46, Lake Providence; Ben Quinn, Jr., 38, Lake Providence; Enoch E. Wright, 27, Fort Necessity; S. Z. Olds, 35, St. Joseph and Ray McMurray, 18, Winnsboro, who is charged additionally with driving a car with no brakes. Joe Faulk, Jr., 23, West Monroe, was charged with driving a vehicle with a revoked license.

Five persons were caught operating vehicles without brakes. Arrested were: Sam Kirby, 22, Lake Providence; Bobby L. Halley, 20, Eros; Sam Mathews, 45, Negro, Jones; Warren T. Jones, 49, Negro, Mangham and Audrey R. Douglas, 23, Rayville.

Delmas P. McCarty, 29, St. Joseph, was given a ticket for improper lights and Dudley Threas, 39, Negro, of Lake Providence a summons for improper parking, resulting in property damage.

METHODISTS SET PASTORS' SALARY

Mississippi Methodists Conference Scheduled To End Sunday

GULFPORT, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—Minimum salaries for pastors were approved today at the 137th session of the Mississippi annual conference of the Methodist Church.

Minimum salaries are $1,500 for unmarried pastors; $1,800, married, with no children, and $2,000, married, with children.

Bishop Marvin A. Franklin announced the appointment of the Rev. W. S. Cameron, pastor of the West Park Church, Jackson, as executive secretary of the Mississippi Methodist Church Council for alcoholic education.

The conference, representing Methodist churches of southern Mississippi, has been in session since Wednesday, attended by more than 425 pastors and lay delegates. The conference adjourns tomorrow afternoon when Bishop Franklin reads the appointments of pastors for the new church year.

Upon the recommendation of the commission on world services and finance, the conference apportioned $83,100 for work of various boards, commission, hospitals, homes and other agencies within the conference, and $48,000 for the general benevolent and missionary work of the church for the new year.

Likewise, the conference apportioned $50,000 annually for the next six years to the retired ministers fund; $4,000 for promotion of the Mississippi church council for narcotic education; and $24,000 to the six districts for the Memorial Mercy Home Hospital in New Orleans.

The plan of support for the Methodist Orphan's Home, Jackson, was continued with churches asked to give from 5 to 20 percent of the pastor's salary to this cause. The larger churches would be apportioned the greater percentages.

It was reported that during the eight-month conference year, 2,767 members were received into the churches on profession of faith. This compared with 2,967 members in the previous twelve-month year.

P. Stafford, Cary, was elected leader of conference laymen, and Dr. J. M. Sullivan, Jackson, was named lay leader emeritus.

Ordination services are scheduled tonight when Bishop Franklin ordains the following: Deacons R. E. Wilson, Clinton; R. I. Moore, Jr., Laurel; Joseph W. Jones, Quitman; Sam S. Brefield (home address not given) and Carl A. Fox, Gordon R. Childress and Hollis H. Youngblood, all senior students in the theological class at Emory University; Elders Thomas L. McCurley, Jr., Marion; Marshall E. Sharp, Williamsburg; Warren E. Pittman, Monticello, and Roger Bernard Walton, Simrall.

NEGRO YOUTH KILLED BY RUN-AWAY MULE

LAUREL, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—A 10-year-old Negro ploughboy was dragged to his death by a runaway mule in the Eastabutche community yesterday.

Jones County Coroner J. Wesley Watson said a coroner's jury found that the boy, Charles Grafton Walker, worked the animal all day, then unhitched and got on the mule's back to ride him to the barn. The animal became unruly, threw the rider, but the boy's feet caught in the horness. The boy was dragged about 300 yards.

ARMY REJECTED BOY IS SUICIDE VICTIM

LAUREL, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—A 23-year-old Jones county farm youth committed suicide apaprently because he could not pass the physical examination for enlistment in the army.

Coroner J. Wesley Watson said today that Garrett Gray, whose body was found in a pine-hole cabin near his home last night, shot himself to death with a 32-caliber revolver. The youth had been missing from home since early yesterday morning. Members of the family found the body in the cabin, which was erected recently on the banks of a creek by young Gray and other youths of the community.

Watson said Garrett's father, H. M. Gray, reported his son had been despondent after several unsuccessful attempts to enlist in the army.

ELDERLY OIL WORKER FOUND DEAD IN APT.

Frank J. Grosse, 78-year-old former employee of the Stovall Drilling Company here, was found dead at his apartment, 2701 DeSiard street, shortly before eight o'clock yesterday morning.

Dr. J. T. French, Ouachita parish coroner, said the man "apparently died of a heart attack shortly before his bedtime Friday night."

Grosse's body was discovered by John Yarber, owner of the Yarber Machine Works, situated directly below Grosse's second-floor apartment.

Grosse was last seen at approximately 6 p.m. Friday, neighbors said.

His body was taken to the Mulhearn Funeral Home. Funeral arrangements were incomplete late last night. There are no known relatives.

First use of gunpowder in artillery was to batter fortifications and it was not used in the field until late in the 15th century.

LT. KENNY CALLED FOR ACTIVE DUTY

Second Lt. Jewel Mae Kenny, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Kenny, 210 Winnsboro road, Monroe, last week received active duty orders in the Army Nurse Corps.

Miss Kenny is scheduled to report at her station, Brooks Medical Center Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, Tex., July 5.

A graduate of the St. Francis School of Nursing, she has since served as headnurse of the first floor at the St. Francis Sanitarium.

Miss Kenny was chosen to represent Louisiana during Nurse Week on the Kate Smith program broadcast over radio WNOE in New Orleans.

ANGLO-ARGENTINE WILL GO AHEAD WITH PLANS

By Regional Wood

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, June 18.—(AP)—Britain and Argentina are going ahead with plans to sign a five-year two-way trade treaty next week despite United States displeasure.

Unreliable sources say no changes are anticipated in the pac which Britain will supply the bulk of Argentina's imports ranging from vital necessary oil and coal to automobiles and whiskey.

In exchange the British will get an estimated 300,000 tons of meat as well as cereals and other supplies.

American businessmen believe the pact will cut off one of their important South American markets. However Argentine-British-United States three-corner trade has been practically impossible since the British blocked pound convertibility in 1947.

Blocking the pound meant Argentine could not exchange the pounds she earned by selling to Britain for dollars to buy from the United States.

There was no immediate comment from the Argentine foreign office on a statement in Washingtoin to United States senators by Paul Hoffman, director of the economic cooperation administration (ECA), yesterday that ECA will use "every presure we can" to block such bilateral agreements as the one between Britain and Argentina.

Britain's commercial minister in the United States, meanwhile, told U. S. Assistant Secretary of State Willard Thorp the projected trade agreement is vital to British recovery.

Sir John Balfour, Britain's ambassador to Argentina who headed the four-month-long negotiations preceding the deal, conferred for an hour and a quarter last night with Argentine Foreign Minister Juan A. Bramuglia on details of the pact. Informed sources said United States objections were not considered.

After the meeting Sir John was quoted as saying "we are working hard on the final details of the agreement."

He could not guarantee, however, that the signing ceremony would be held June 21 as previously scheduled.

2270 PLAN TO ATTEND SOUTHERN UNIVERSITY

BATON ROUGE, La., June 18.—(AP)—The quest for knowledge will bring an estimated 2270 Negroes to the campus of Southern University this summer.

The figure is almost double Southern's regular enrollment of 1742 last fall and includes 1100 summer school students and 1170 others for workshops and similar conferences.

The estimate was made in a report this week by J. J. Hedgemon, registrar for the university.

The nine special events scheduled range from bayou boys state for high school juniors, to a safety conference on Negro educators from seven southern states.

Already completed is a six day youth leadership institute, which ended June 11. It drew outstanding Negro youngsters from Louisiana high schools for special training in speech, journalism and radio and library work.

Negro principals presently are attending a workshop, which began June 13 and ends July 1. The three week session brings together 25 principals who are studying philosophies and effective procedures for administering school activities.

During the same dates, school librarians from 25 parishes are attending sessions aimed at solving problems of their jobs. Dr. Felton G. Clark, president of Southern, at their opening session counseld that their task is to teach people to "secure that great ideals illustrated in books" rather than to be "mere book custodians."

Bayou boys state, sponsored by the American Legion's Louisiana department, is another project currently underway. Its high school "citizens" learn government by holding mythical offices during the nine day session. It ends Wednesday.

A health education workshop, which opens Sunday for four days, will attract 70 teachers selected by parish school superintendents.

Representatives from Negro colleges in seven southern states are expected for a safety education institute scheduled for July 18-22. The conference is designed to teach educators safe driving techniques to be passed on eventually to high school students.

Other scheduled meetings include a 4-H Club short course, July 4-8, and conferences for library custodians, July 10-16, and for vocational agricultural teachers, July 28-30.

EXPECTANT MOTHER HELD IN SLAYING

ALBANY, N. Y., June 18.—(AP)—A young mother known back home as a crack shot was held today in the slaying of her sister's deserted lover.

District Attorney Julian B. Erway said Mrs. Donna H. Robinson, 27, claimed Richard N. Bard, 27, of Ilion grabbed the sister yesterday in a driveway next to child's hospital. Mrs. Robinson emptied her revolver at him, Erway said.

She was held without charge overnight for appearance in police court today.

The sister, Miss Ruth Hathaway, 26, was released in her own custody as a material witness.

Mrs. Robinson, a school teacher's wife who is expecting a third child, and her sister drove here yesterday from Morrisville, in central New York, to visit their mother in the hospital. With them were Mrs. Robinson's daughters, Susan, four, and Deedee, one. The family lives in Otego but had been staying in Morrisville because, they told police, Bard had threatened to harm them.

The district attorney said Mrs. Robinson gave this version of the shooting:

Bard grabbed Miss Hathaway and tried to choke her as she walked from the automobile to the hospital, which is near the state capitol.

Mrs. Robinson was walking behind, carrying Deedee. She put the child down and tried to halt the struggle. Bard shoved the sister to the ground and went after Mrs. Robinson. But she got away, pulled her .25 caliber colt revolver from a pocket of her dungarees and fired six shots.

Two young boys witnessed the fracus, police said.

Bard, an unemployed butler-chauffeur who had a small dance band before the war, died five hours later in Memorial Hospital. One bullet was lodged in his head. Another pierced the right thigh.

Miss Hathaway broke up with Bard about ten days ago, the district attorney said.

His mother, Mrs. Georgia Bard of Ilion, said Bard had been married and was the father of two children, now living in Lawrence, N. Y. He and his wife were divorced, she said.

B. R. BUS DRIVERS WILL REOPEN CONTRACT TALKS

BATON ROUGE, La., June 18.—(AP)—City bus drivers today announced their willingnes to resume contract negotiations broken off last March.

T. B. Clement, president of the Baton Rouge Bus Co. employes association (CAPS), an unaffiliated union, issued the announcement. He said it cancels a previous notice that drivers would strike June 21.

The Baton Rouge city-parish council last week voted to recognize the franchise held by the company. It also expressed approval of having a single bus company operate in the city.

KORS IS NEW B. R. C. OF C. MANAGER

BATON ROUGE, La., June 18.—(AP)—Preston V. Kors, 36, of Odessa, Texas, is the new general manager of the Baton Rouge Chamber of Commerce.

His appointment was announced today by President J. W. C. Wright. He said Kors presently is manager of the Odessa Chamber of Commerce and was formerly associated with the Tulsa, Okla., Chamber of Commerce.

Kors succeeds Caye Nelson, who recently resigned.

Wright said Kors holds a law degree from the University of Tulsa and is a graduate of the American Chamber of Commerce Executive Institute. He served in the army air corps during the war.

'UNWED WIFE' TO FACE CONVICTION

All-Woman Jury Hands Down Guilty Verdict To Manslaughter Charge

RIVERSIDE, Calif., June 18.—(AP)—Tall, statuesque Mrs. Agnes Garnier, described by her attorney as the "unwed wife" of 68-year-old John E. Owen, faces a term of one to 10 years in prison for his fatal shooting last April 22.

An all-woman jury convicted the 53-year-old divorcee of manslaughter last night after deliberating seven hours, 34 minutes. Superior Judge Russell S. Waite set next Wednesday for sentencing.

Mrs. Garnier's lawyer, Samuel Houston Allen, criticized the verdict and said he would ask for a new trial.

"Women are sometimes unkind to their own," he said. "The verdict is contrary to public sentiment, and obviously a compromise."

Owen died of a chest wound inflicted by a bullet from his own revolver at his Jurupa Hills Ranch home here. The prosecution charged that the shooting followed a bitter quarrel that began over a set of cocktail glasses given to Owen by Actress Irene Rich. Mrs. Garnier claimed Owen threatened to kill her, that he was drunk, and that the revolver was discharged as she sought to wrest it from him.

From the outset of deliberations the jury voted against Mrs. Garnier. The first ballot was 7 to 5 for conviction, and those convinced of her guilt were divided between manslaughter and second degree murder.

Owen, president of the National Apartment House Owners' Association, had employed Mrs. Garnier as his secretary and manager of some of his apartment houses for the last 12 years. He was estranged from his wife, Mrs. Florence Owen, who, as the final prosecution witness, charged that Mrs. Garnier broke up her home and that Owen went to live in an apartment managed by the divorcee in 1937.

District Attorney William O. Mackey told the jury that jealousy was the motive—jealousy not so much of Miss Rich or Owen as of Mrs. Garnier's own position. He said Owen had decided to discharge Mrs. Garnier as manager of his exclusive Los Angeles apartment house.

Mrs. Garnier's counsel introduced scores of letters Owen wrote her over a period of years. They bespoke an intimate relationship, and the woman's lawyers argued that it was evident Owen was the pursuer and that Mrs. Garnier was not a home wrecker.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE

State Democrats To Deal With Patronage Question

FOREST, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—The state Democratic executive committee today was called to a meeting in Jackson June 23 to deal with an ever-increasing furore over federal patronage within Mississippi.

The call was issued by Chairman J. Knox Huff. It is the first move by States' Rights Democrats in the squabble.

The convention started shortly after the presidential election last November. The pro-Truman Democratic faction laid claim to it because of its support of the Truman-Barkley ticket. They polled 19,000 vote and carried one precinct, Mound Bayou, an all-Negro area.

The regular Democrats, lead by Huff, supported the States' Rights ticket on which Gov. Fielding L. Wright was vice-presidential nominee. They polled 167,000 votes and carried more than 1,500 precincts.

Four of the pro-Truman leaders held several Washington conferences with national Democratic leaders during the winter and spring. They were Frank Mize, Forest, chairman of the pro-Truman central committee; Phil Mullen, Oxford, vice-chairman; Curtis Rogers, secretary; and Clarence E. Hood, Meridian, the group's national committeeman.

They returned from the last meeting and called a conference in Jackson July 15 "to find out who is who and unite the Democratic party in Mississippi." Mullen said privately he hoped "true Democrats" could be weeded from "those who think and act and vote like Republicans" and that others could be persuaded to take over the organization.

The States' Righters maintained their silence until today.

Even then, Huff's statement did not say specifically whether they would declare open war or consider the pro-Truman olive branch. It said merely that the meeting is called "in order that this matter may be dealt with in the manner which wisdom may indicate."

Huff said the executive committee had "renounced its federal patronage claims in favor of the congressional delegation" many years ago. This was to give them greater influence and prestige in Washington, he said.

"The only time until now that federal patronage has ever been the subject of barter, intimidation or racketeer methods has been when the Republicans were in control," the statement said.

Here are some other excerpts from Huff's formal call:

"The voyage of the triad, Mize, Mullens and Hood, was as fanciful but not as successful as that of Wynken, Blynken and Nod (a trio featured in a children's bedtime poem) * * * their boss, McGrath (National Democratic Chairman Sen. J. Howard McGrath), * * * told the pie-seeking Trumanites they did not have sufficient influence * * * to justify their recognition.

"A conference cannot clarify the confusion as to who is who in Mississippi * * * I am sure Mr. Mize and Mr. Hood * * * are utterly without legal status * * * the national (Democratic) convention utterly ignored the principles to which our delegation was committed (anti-civil rights, F. E. P. C., pro-poll tax and states' rights) * * *

"These principles (of civil rights, etc.) now constitute the 'framework of the national committee' within which Mize, Mullens and Hood want us to work * * * they are the same as those who carpet baggers, scalawags and Yankee bayonets attempted to enforce in the days of Lamar and George * * *."

(Lucius Q. C. Lamar was a Mississippi representative in congress in pre-civil war days. He was chairman of the "committee of 15" which drew up the secession ordinance adopted by the Mississippi convention Jan. 9, 1861. Three days later he withdrew from congress, along with the remainder of the delegation. In 1885 he was appointed secretary of the interior by President Cleveland.

(J. Z. George was another political leader who played a prominent role in events leading up to secession. He, too, was a member of the "committee of 15.")

Huff charged that passage of the administration program would leave Mississippi "an outlaw state."

"Our very constitution and 14 distinct laws made to promote domestic tranquillity and guarantee racial integrity would be against the law," he said. He cited the requirement for equal but separate schools as one.

So far, the pro-Trumanites have announced only three recommendations for federal appointments. They've received one—Miss Louise Lacey was named Jackson district supervisor for the business census.

They have suggested Curtis Mullen, the vice-chairman's father, for collector of internal revenue to succeed Eugene Fly. And they have recommended re-appointment of Chet Sumners of Oxford as U. S. attorney for the northern Mississippi district.

Sen. John Stennis, an avowed states' rights supporter last November, has recommended appointment of Circuit Court Judge J. P. Coleman of Akerman. The president has not acted on either suggestion.

ACT QUICKLY—and in your neighborhood it might be you.

For there's no doubt that this exciting new Riviera model — styled and executed by Buick — is the very last word in new body types.

It has, as you see, the swift and racy lines of a Convertible, made even more distinctive by a bold new sweep of chromium along its fenders.

But the top is solid—a single sheet of stout steel, neatly finished off inside with chromium bows. And a broad rear window curves gracefully around, giving really abundant rearward vision.

Push-button controls drop all windows out of sight at a touch, leaving not even a doorpost to block your outlook. And the interior trim is the richest yet — a really stunning creation inside as well as out.

As pictured here the Riviera is now in production on the Buick ROADMASTER chassis — which means 150-hp Fireball power, the silken luxury of Dynaflow Drive, and the matchless levelness of the Buick "dream ride." That means "the last word" in brilliant performance as well as in luxurious dress and styling.

Production on this high-styled road star is limited, as you might expect.

To be "first with the last word," therefore, it is wise to see your Buick dealer soon about getting your order in.

BERAN RELEASED FROM CAPTIVITY

Issues Daring Statement Against Reds; Won't Violate Church Laws

By A. I. Goldberg

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, June 18.—(AP)—Catholic Archbishop Josef Beran emerged from semi-captivity tonight and issued a defiant statement against the Communist government here in its war to gain control of the church.

The chunky little 60-year-old church leader told a congregation which packed the Strahov Monastery:

"I come to you and swear to you that I will never sign an agreement that violates the laws of the church."

These were the first words the Archbishop spoke as he appeared in a high pulpit to address his congregation after four days in the police-ringed seculsion of his palace.

About 3,000 people jammed the church and afterwards gave a rousing demonstration of loyalty in the church yard and in the square fronting the Archbishop's palace within sight of the offices of Communist President Klement Gottwald.

"We will not ever let them take you," the crowd cried. They raised their arms and extended two fingers side by side in token of pledges of faith.

Speaking excitedly and striking his breast, the Archbishop said "I may not be able to talk to you very many more times. But if you hear anything on the Prague radio saying that I have signed an agreement, don't believe it because I will never sign any agreement against the laws of the church and human rights."

This was a reference to his resistance to any church-state agreement which he contends would reduce the church to a puppet of the state.

(The statement had a striking similarity to the declaration to aides by Josef Cardinal Mindszenty of Hungary who said before his arrest that any confession of his should be considered null. The Cardinal later repudiated the declaration in the court in which he was sentenced to life imprisonment.)

Some of the women and children in the crowd were in tears and near hysteria. Then waved their hats and all sang spirited hymns.

"We believe in you," they chanted. From his balcony the prelate smiled and answered, "I believe in you. We believe in each other. But you had better go home. Do not let them try to represent this as a provocation."

Thus Archbishop Beran's first public statement in weeks indicated he had not budged from his firm position against the Communist government's proclaimed intention to bring all church education under state control.

Despite a police guard stationed at his palace, the Catholic leader's car swung out of the court yard for the short drive to the Monastery. Police were manning the palace telephone switchboard and reception desk, but there was no visible indication that any attempt was made to prevent him from leaving the building.

As he drove through the streets scores of Catholics were streaming into the Monastery for services marking the eve of the celebration of Corpus Christi, the solemn holiday of Christ's being.

During the past week police had raided the palace consistory and seized church records and printing equipment. There were reports that the Archbishop's mail was withheld. Most palace callers were turned away by Czech authorities.

Minister of Interior Vacav Kopecky today addressed a conference of workers acting as industrial correspondents and denounced the Roman Catholic Hierarchy in Czechoslovakia as the remnants of reaction. He charged the Hierarchy, under Vatican influence has spun schemes against "onr people's democratic order."

A week ago, so-called "government Catholics" created their own action committee. The secretary of the church'c Catholic action committee was arrested.

The Archbishop penned a letter saying none of the persons in the government Catholic action organization could be considered "Catholic."

In mid-week police entered the Archbishop's palace and arrested palace officials.

The Roman Catholic church represented the only organized group left in Czechoslovakia to furnish a nucleus of opposition to the "peoples democracy" government controlled by the Communist party.

The Communists won control of Czechoslovakia in a coup d'etat in February 1948. Then they began to accuse those who opposed them of being Fascist reactionaries, imperialist warmongers and plotters.

There was some evidence that Premier Klement Gottwald—who became the country's first Communist president last June— and other leaders were willing to go slow on the church question.

But from many quarters the Roman Catholic church was singled out for attacks which charged that the Vatican was a tool of reactionary warmongering and Anglo-American Imperialism. The priests, these accusers said, are the tools of the Vatican.

From all over the country during the latter part of 1948 came reports of spy plots being discovered. In many instances priests were accused. Most were found guilty and sent to jail.

A series of governmental press and radio campaigns used as a theme: "Traitors cannot hide behind clerical robes."

Church leaders were able to present their views to the people only in Diocesan Gazettes. No newspaper would print their viewpoints.

During the February, 1948, coup, Archbishop Beran wanted to talk to the nation by radio. He was not allowed near a transmitter.

Then the Diocesan Gazettes were stopped. The Archbishop was reduced to writing private letters to his priests.

Peace talks between church and state were attempted early in the year.

The Archbishop wanted the church to keep control of its own schools and benefit from the funds which the government promised when church lands were taken over for distribution to peasants.

Then, in March, at a Bishop's conference, recording devices were found hidden in the heating plant of the room. That ended the talks.

During the recent Communist party congress, Information Minister Kopecky said the Czech government insisted on the right to control all education on Marx-Lenin lines.

The Archbishop, in a private letter to his priests, said the church would never tolerate that.

A cry raised at the Communist congress furnished the theme of the present campaign. It was: "The Vatican is a tool of reaction, it attempts to interfere with our state sovereignty. We cannot tolerate a foreign state issuing orders and letters and publishing on our soil."

The first man-made balloon is believed to have risen from the earth in 1782.

UNCONSCIOUS NEGRO GIRL FOUND IN POND

A seven-year-old Negro girl narrowly escaped drowning late yesterday afternoon in a five-foot pond near the intersection of Twelfth and Oak streets.

The girl, Beatrice Tyler, daughter of Sam Tyler, Tenth street, New Town, was unconscious when she was taken from the pond by a Negro, Maxwell Dunn, 1210 Washington street. In the water for nearly twenty minutes, the young girl was given artifical respiration.

Bystanders, a group of children, said Beatrice fell into the pond at approximately 6:30 p.m. Participating in the rescue was another Negro, George Davenport, of Lieber's Quarters.

For the large number of Latin-American students who are attending Louisiana State University this summer there has been arranged a special course of orientation. Among other things it includes:

A trip to New Orleans for a sampling of its famed cusine.

A look in at the ante-bellum homes of Natchez, Miss.

A study of North American culture, home life, conversation and grammar.

A recording of their voices speaking English.

This curriculum is just announced at the university and comprises a six-week course which will be initiated July 5. For official hostesses, 27 Latin-American students who were at L. S. U. last summer will be utilized.

The visitors will live in university dormitories and will have meals in the Pan-American house.

Miss Barbara Ann Self, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Self, of Monroe, has been awarded a sholarship at Louisiana Tech. The award was given in recognition of high scholastic rank in the senior class of Neville High School. Miss Self will persue a course in commerce.

Dear Jes' Ramblin':

In your interesting column Sunday in connection with the razing of St. Matthew's rectory, it stated that the second story was added after removal. I believe there must be a few old-timers, like myself, who recall when it was built on the Wood street location. The Altar Society ladies raised money to furnish the added rooms and themselves sewed the curtains.

The front gallery extended to the sidewalk so the bansiter really made the fence. Steps were on the east side and the gallery extended the length of the building on the west. Where it now stands is at the front for the building was placed to face south. Painting and decorating were done by H. C. Downs, my brother-in-law.

The front room upstairs was the bishop's room. When it was made ready for the bishop, Father Enaut invited Mr. Downs to view it, remarking that all that was needed was a "bootjack." Mr. Downs at once went and purchased one. Father Enaut said: "I'll try it, Harvey." As he did so the bootjack broke into pieces. Mr. Downs then bought a second one which the priest tried out. It also broke. When Mr. Downs bought the third one, Father Enaut said: "We'll let the bishop break this one himself!"

We were little girls then. Mr. Down's daughter, Lizzie, and I had some laughs over the happenings.

Yours very truly,
MRS. RUBY BENOIT BIRD.

A Texan is taking a "tall tale" home with him about Catahoula fishing, and the funny thing about it—it's true, witnesses say.

Ross Boyd, of Stamford, Tex., visiting relatives in Catahoula last week end, was taken to popular Jones' bayou to fish. Something suddenly pulled on his line, and his boat began moving up and down the bayou in a mad ride. Finally, the "something" got tired, and when Ross pulled it in, he found that it was a five-foot gar. He whacked it over the head with his paddle and rowed to shore.

And as someone remarked: "It would be nice if we could train these big Catahoula gars. Then everybody could have a free 'outboard motor.'"

Ouachita cotton fields are bursting into bloom. From the west side of the river, across from Bosco, Lee Anding who has a field of 150 acres planted in cotton last April 10, brought in red and white blooms which he said are abundant. At the same time Saturday, George Fluitt and Edward L. Saucier, who operate the old Phillips place on Sterlington road, reported that they also have a field that is blooming profusely. They have 400 acres which was planted from the tenth to the twelfth of April.

Three hours later Carl Frost turned up with a whole stalk, with blooms prevailing. He reports that he has 18 acres blooming. The Mrs. J. L. Frost farm is in ward nine at the Luna Observatory Tower. So far these are the only blooms reported in Ouachita parish.

1 DEAD, 2 HURT IN AUTO MISHAP

Three-Year-Old Girl Killed In Truck-Auto Crash Near Hico

HICO, La., June 18.—(Special)—Three-year-old Christine Houck of Hico was killed and two others slightly injured in an auto-truck wreck near here about 5:30 p.m. Friday.

Investigating officers said the wreck occurred when Claudius Brazzle, about 28, skidded his Chrysler coupe more than a 100 feet on a hard-surfaced road and rammed into a new pickup truck driven by Holland Houck, uncle of the dead girl.

Houck, a tank worker in the Hico gas fields, told officers that he had just left his home with Christine and his son, Willie, 10, and was turning off into a road leading to a corn field when hit by Brazzle's car. Brazzle was approaching from behind and swerved to the left side of the road in an apparent attempt to avoid striking the truck.

The impact of Brazzle's striking automobile turned the truck on its top and threw Christine from the cab. Investigators were unable to determine how the girl got out of the cab.

Christine was picked up by neighbors who rushed to the scene and taken to a Ruston hospital. Physicians there attempted to save her life with an emergency operation but were unsuccessful. Death was attributed to a fractured skull and brain injury.

Houck and his son were only slightly injured.

Taken to Ruston for questioning, Brazzle was released and allowed to return to Hico. No charges had been filed Saturday afternoon.

Funeral services for the girl will be held at 4 p.m. Sunday at the Harmony Chapel Church near Hico. Interment, directed by the Darby Funeral Home of Ruston, will follow at the church cemetery.

Christine is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alvie Houck, Hico, and three sisters, Brenda, 4, Charlotte, 2, and Patsy, one.

LOCAL RADIO GROUP LEADING IN CONTEST

Local amateur radiomen were doing okay for themselves last night in the National Radio Amateur contest, a national-wide affair, Naval Reserve Commander T. C. Pipes revealed.

According to Pipes, the local group were running first place early last night. Last year, the Monroe radiomen came in fourth place and got honorable mention in a national publication, Pipes said.

The objective of the contests is simply to see which group can contact the largest number of other local amateur radio units in the country.

The various units paraticipating in the contest are sponsored by naval reserve stations, the national guard and other organizations and radio clubs throughout the United States.

ers' Council, and Palmer Ryan, 33. Ryan was arrested at the scene and later charged with assault with intent to murder.

The crowd gathered outside the city hall while Joseph Verdu and two others were making bond. They had been arrested and booked suspected of carrying concealed weapons, on complaint of members of the rival union. Angelo Verdu, learning of the arrests, arrived on the scene with three other men.

"All hell broke loose then," said Police Chief Arthur J. Wylie.

"The crowd was definitely in a lynch mood. The women in the crowd were like wildcats. They were screaming hysterically, and shouted 'let us at them.'

State police and sheriff's deputies were summoned here from nearby communities.

Wylie reported members of the rival unions engaged in several neighborhood fights earlier in the day.

Ryan suffered a head injury in the fighting and was placed under police guard in a hospital at East St. Louis. Member of a union affiliated with the Metal Workers' Council, Ryan said he fired when several members of the crowd attacked him.

Employes of the Big Zinc plant voted last Tuesday 373 to 339 against the Metal Workers' Council as their bargaining agent. The Smelter Workers' Union was not on the ballot because its officers have not signed non-Communist oaths as required by the Taft-Hartley act.

Angelo Verdu promised before the election, conducted by the national labor relations board, that a vote for his organization would end the strike. The Metal Workers filed a protest yesterday with the N. L. R. B., seeking a new election. They charged the rival union with "intimidation and improper electioneering."

Howard I. Young, president of the company, announced after the election the plant will be closed unless negotiations are begun before June 25 "by a qualified union representing a majority of the workers." The company has refused to bargain with the Smelter Workers.

The International Smelter Workers Union described the Verdu brothers as "front men for the strike breaking agency in the Fairmont city strike." It said they were expelled from the Smelter Workers Union two years ago "for anti-union activity."

The statement, issued in Chicago, said: "After official representatives of the National C. I. O. gave open support to Angelo Verdu of the Progressive Metal Workers' Council, an affiliate of the C. I. O. Shipbuilding Union, * * * it was not surprising that the strike breakers became bold enough to resort to firearms."

The prolonged strike has been marked by other violence. Joseph Verdu and four other members of the Metal Workers' Council are under $4,600 bond each on several charges, including assault with intent to murder.

POSSIBLE GIVE

doing in the series of secret meetings of the past several days.

Western delegates have been voicing more optimism in recent days on the possibility of getting some agreement. They are not sure yet, for they recall previous experiences when agreements, on the verge of being concluded, were blown up by some unexpected difficulty.

Some points remain to be smoothed out, but western spokesmen seem to expect;

1. An agreement on a way of getting along together in Berlin.

2. New agreements that may speed along the treaty for Austrian independence.

3. Arrangements for a further meeting of the ministers after a few months, perhaps in New York this fall.

The first indication of a Soviet shift in policy was the New York agreement to lift the blockade of Berlin. There has been little Soviet softening at the four ministers' conference. Yet some western delegates have reported signs of Russian willingness to give a little in return for getting a little.

Even so, not a western diplomat contacted thus far believes this means Russia is ready to make friends with the west on a permanent basis. They believe Russia has merely changed tactics.

One American diplomat expressed this view:

Having failed with the mailed fist tactics of the blockade, the Russians will not stir new trouble immediately. They want to lull European nations and especially America into a quiet state of indifference.

"They know that America lulls easily on European questions," he said.

That would be especially true if a recession in America made congress more wary of spending in Europe, this diplomat suggested. It costs about a billion dollars a year to occupy Germany and is taking another billion a year to get it going again. Nearly a billion and a half is contemplated for military aid to nations in the Atlantic pact. More billions are pouring into American rearmament.

All these things, this diplomat pointed out, resulted from or were speeded by the Berlin blockade and Russia's attitude in general.

The blockade increased Russia's troubles in the satellite countries. It convinced the western powers they must meet eastern pressure with cooperation under the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Pact. It caused U. S. military aid to western nations to be projected.

The failure of the blockade caused it to be lifted, this American delegate reasons.

But western delegates think Russia will not rest as long as the west is in Berlin. It is a sore spot of democracy right in the middle of the Russian sphere of Germany. But the delegates think it unlikely the blockade will be imposed by Russia again soon.

Soviet foreign minister Andrei Vishinsky was believed in close contact with the Kremlin over agreements reported to call for a four-power negotiating committee in Berlin to iron out trade relations and to implement in writing the New York agreement lifting the blockade.

Vishinsky had tossed out the window the demands of the western powers for guarantees giving them full use and control of rail, road and canal routes into Berlin.

Western diplomats feel that they have held their lines intact and proved the stability of the three-power association of Britain, the United States and France.

They stood fast on insisting that any agreement for bringing Germany back into one piece must be on western terms which would give Russia no voice in the Ruhr and western Germany.

The western powers feel they have a real bargaining unit in a solidified western Germany which will soon have its own government and whose production is rising and whose currency is being stablized.

The presure generated between east and west could go on for years while each side waits for a break such as a "palace revolution" in the Soviet politburo or a recess an economic recession in the west.

LEWIS WILL

he gets from one, onto the other three groups.

At Bluefield, W. Va., Lewis has yet to lay his contract demands on the table for public scrutiny. After three weeks of talks and recesses, the operators are now implying the union leader is purposely stalling.

President Joseph E. Moody of the Southern Coal Producers' Association said agreement was being blocked by the U. M. W.'s "continued evasion of making any proposals to us."

On Monday, the miners are scheduled to return to work after a week's idleness ordered by Lewis to "stabilize" the industry. Next Saturday the nation's nearly half-million diggers begin their annual 10-day vacation.

And June 30, five days later, the current contract with all coal operators expires.

The miners are due to return to work from their vacation July 6, but if no contract settlement is reached by then, the miners will probably stay home in line with their traditional policy of "no contract—no work."

In the steel industry, bargaining is underway on several fronts, but attention centers on the conferences in progress here between the U. S. Steel Corp. and Philip Murray's C. I. O-United Steelworkers. The union's settlement with "big steel" usually sets a national pattern.

On the second day of the steel sessions, last Thursday, the conferees deadlocked on the pension issue. The company said the contract could be re-opened this year only on wages and insurance.

But the union maintained the exact language of the contract said wage provisions could be reopened to negotiate "for a general uniform change in rates of pay. The union argued pensions were rates of pay, and, therefore, were bargainable this year.

The steel contract conferences resume Monday with the obstacle to surmount.

JAIL TRUSTY WALKS CALMLY TO LIBERTY

Freedom must have meant an awful lot to a Monroe city prisoner yesterday.

Around noon, the prisoner, A. J. Bradley, 19-year-old Negro of 1114 Washington street and an acting trusty, walked calmly away from the city hall.

Three hours later, an alert Monroe police officer escorted the Negro back to his cell.

Bradley was serving a 15-day sentence on a recent charge of vagrancy.

Still at large was H. B. "Frog Shorty" Booker, 60, also a Negro. Booker, like Bradley, left the city hall Wednesday while acting as trusty. So far he hasn't been heard of.

TEARFUL PLEAS

to be able to object without mumbling from the prosecutor.

Municipal Judge Herbert Steffes quelled the two by observing that the temperature was very warm, but he'd like to see counsel continue on a friendly basis.

Kathleen Birmingham Babich, recently turned 18 and soon to become a mother, broke down and wept several times, needing support on some occasions.

Mrs. Albert Birmingham, mother of Kathleen and the slain Pat, collapsed in a witness room during a recess, while talking with Kathleen and Defense Lawyer Edward Berkanovic. She had to be carried to the clerk's office to be revived.

Then Ruth Miller, 17-year-old girl friend of Pat's fainted on the witness stand as McCauley questioned her about talks with Kathleen concerning Milton. She also was carried away by court officers and revived.

She testified that Kathleen told her, "Milton never cared for Pat."

She returned to the stand and repeated, to a rephrased question, that Kathleen told her "Milton hated Pat and would do anything, even kill her, because he hated her so much."

White and shaking, she was unable to tell whether Kathleen had obtained the information. Finally Richter asked that all the Miller girl's testimony be stricken and the court acceded, ordering the jury to disregard it.

The court ordered stricken a further quotation, to the effect that Kathleen told her "Milton hated Pat and would do anything, even kill her, because he hated her so much."

Patricia disappeared on her way home from school Feb. 10. Her trussed and weighted body was dragged from the Milwaukee river March 17. The state charges Milton killed her deliberately.

Milton's defense rests on the contention that Patricia was shot accidentally while he tried to frighten her into keeping silent about Kathleen's pregnancy.

Detective Lawrence Papke, recalled by the state, said that on April 22, while bringing Kathleen downtown to see Milton, he heard her say that "she had a hunch ever since Pat disappeared that Milton had a part in it and she was playing a pretty good part in covering up for him."

The pretty darkhaired young bride told the jury earlier she had entertained such a thought but dismissed it as "incredible."

McCauley also endeavored to have Papke tell of Kathleen's alleged story about crying herself to sleep on her honeymoon, but the court stopped this line as not bearing on impeachable testimony.

Dr. L. J. Van Hecke, state pathologist, told the jury that the grand average temperature of the Milwaukee river during Pat's submersion was "ideal" for the preservation of a body. Pat's body, he added, had suffered little decomposition.

Van Hecke earlier testified that the two bullets which struck Pat had been fired a minute or more apart. A defense physician, Dr. Thomas A. Carter of Chicago, had said it was impossible to make such a deduction with dissection on a body submerged so long.

McCauley and Richter agreed that their closing statements should be delayed until next week.

The maximum penalty for first degree murder in Wisconsin is life imprisonment.

rapidly filled up the small mountain streams.

The rains stopped shortly after noon, but waters were still rising in some sections.

The Shenandoah river went on a rampage and inundated Bridgewater, southwest of Harrisonburg. Fire Chief Allen Harvey, Sr., said the town was "in a state of hysteria."

A hasty evacuation of the town was ordered after state police were told North River dam had broken and new flood waters were sweeping down on the sea. This report also proved false.

Hundreds of persons were driven from their homes here in Petersburg. Small homes disappeared into the churning, muddy torrent. All roads in and out of town were blocked by several feet of water.

Red Cross disaster workers set up food kitchens and are trying to get hundreds of cots and blankets in by foot.

The local Red Cross disaster chairman, James Breathed, estimated 500 of the townspeaple need a dry place to sleep tonight.

Seven hundred loaves of bread were being carried across slippery planks laid over a 15-foot gap in a road into Petersburg.

At least two dozen Potomac river cottages were washed into the river near Romney, W. V. Their occupants had been evacuated by state police.

Twenty-three families huddled all night in the Lanesville, W. V. school house after Red Creek, a Potomac tributary, sent 15 feet of water through the little town, about ten miles from Davis, W. Va.

Observers said they did not expect the floods to spread to other areas. They said the water in the lower Potomac would rise, but would stay within its banks as the crest passed Harper's Ferry, the District of Columbia, and emptied into Chesapeake Bay.

take and has reflected on the committee that has tried to keep things on a high standard."

A member who didn't want his name used remarked that:

"It's just a case of somebody getting a bit trigger-happy. The staff received a petition and thought it should gather information to present to the committee. It is unfortunate that the thing happened at all."

The petition was sent to the committee by the National Sons of the American Revolution. The committee said in its after-thought letter that the petition contained "serious allegations" about textbooks. So it picked some schools and colleges entirely at ranrom and asked for:

"A list of textbooks and supplementary readings, together with author, which are being used by your institution in the fields of sociology, geography, economics, government, philosophy, history, political science and American literature."

There was a quick uproar among educational organizations and prominent educators. There were widespread complaints that the committee was attacking academic freedom.

Both the original letter and the follow-up effort were signed by Chairman Wood.

Rep. Moulder (D. Mo.) said Wood did mention the Sons of the American Revolution petition to the committee, but the committee took no action and made no decision to do anything about it. He said the first letter went out and:

"That created quite a furor. There was a violent reaction."

Moulder said he was sure a check of the rest of the committee membership would show that nobody knew ahead of time the letter was going out. Velde, McSweeney, and Reps. Walter (D. Pa.) and Nixon (R. Calif.) said they didn't know about it.

McSweeney was described by fellow committeemen as the angriest of anyone.

He was graduated from Wooster College in 1912. He has taught there at summer sessions. He has been on the board of trustees. And to make things worse, he said:

"I was out at my college during commencement week when this letter arrived. The effect was terrible. Everyone was asking for an explanation and I couldn't give one. I didn't know anything about it."

The follow-up letter, he said, provides some sort of an explanation—after the damage has been done.

"There were parents at the commencement exercises," McSweeney said, "who are wondering now whether they should send their children there. There is no basis for their suspicions, but no amount of explanation can undo the damage completely."

One of the reasons for reorganizing the committee at the start of the present congress in January, he said, was to prevent the smearing of innocent people.

"Perhaps," he said, "it did not occur to us at the time that an innocent college could be smeared also. But we are certainly going to have to take steps to see that it doesn't happen again."

McSweeney's tone of voice was even harsher than his words.

REAL ESTATE

Builders said in another statement:

"If there is any lobby guilty of distoration or misrepresentation it is our opinion that it is the swarm of federal and local housing authority personnel and their agents who for many weeks at taxpayers' expense have been pressuring the congress for this legislation to perpetuate their jobs."

The quotation was from a statement by Rodney M. Lockwood, president of the builders' organization, in a report through the N. A. H. B. office here on the association's convention in Oklahoma City Okla. The report said delegates were "profoundly shocked" at the president's statement on what it called "the pending socialized public housing bill."

The builders expressed pride in having produced nearly 3,000,000 homes since the war and declared that the administration housing bill would add $19,000,000,000 to federal expenditures already "gravely endangering the economic welfare of the country."

Maenner, for the real estate boards, commented on Mr. Truman's statement point by point, first taking up the president's claim that the actual cost of the housing program would be only about half the real estate interests' estimate of $19,300,000,000.

He said the actual authorization figure, worked out by Snyder, Farr & Company, Washington public accountants, is $19,312,500,000 over a period of years.

The measure should be cut in half right now, he said, "if those persons behind the public housing bill really believe that the politicians operating the program would leave untouched half the money they are permitted by the bill to spend."

As for Mr. Truman's figure of "at most" $8,465 per dwelling unit, Maenner divided $16,000,000,000 in subsidies by 1,050,000 proposed units and said:

"I don't know how the president divided 16 by 1 and got an answer of 8."

He declared the measure lacks any definite dollar income limit for families to occupy public housing and said proponents brushed aside efforts to write in such a limit.

In connection with Mr. Truman's denial of any socialistic trend in the proposal, the N. A. R. E. B. head commented:

"There is no unsocialistic method by which you can socialize the ownership of 1,050,000 dwellings. * * * it (socialism) always moves in bit by bit."

Before the real estate interests came out with their statements, Representative Martin (R.-Mass.) took issue with the president's accustation that real estate lobbyists have launched a "deliberate campaign of misrepresentation."

Martin told a reporter it was a surprise to him; that "the only lobby that has contacted me is the lobby trying to put over the bill."

The G. O. P. leader added that opposition mainly is from persons concerned over government spending.

MONROE FIREMEN GO BACK TO WORK

Monroe firemen were beginning to get a little confused last week, and slightly worried about their jobs.

But yesterday, smiles were back on their faces, and belive it, the cause was a fire.

For the first time since Wednesday, firemen boarded their trucks and went rushing downtown to a car which was reported afire. The automobile, a sedan, parked near 811 DeSiard street, was damaged just slightly.

The previous fire occured in Bosco at 9:42 p. m. last Wednesday. When Thursday and Friday passed without a single alarm, firemen were beginning to think that something had gone wrong, and that possibly there would be no more fires. But they were wrong.

HISS WILL

says Hiss gave him state department secrets for Russian agents.

Hiss denied this. He told a New York grand jury last December that he had not even seen Chambers since Jan. 1, 1937.

The grand jury indicted Hiss on two counts of perjury. Conviction brands him a liar, makes him liable to 10 years in prison and a $4,000 fine.

Chambers is not on trial. But the case rests on his testimony against Hiss. If the jury rejects it, an acquittal can be interpreted as making Chambers a liar.

Here is what the government tried to prove:

Chambers said he met Hiss and his wife in 1934. In 1937, he said he introduced Hiss to Col. Boris Bykov, a Russian agent.

Over a table in a Chinatown restaurant in New York, Chambers said Hiss agree dto steal state secrets for Bykov.

Hiss, 44, then was a rising young official of the state department. He later went to Yalta with President Roosevelt and had a role in helping to organize the United Nations.

Later, Hiss took a $20,000 a year post as head of the Carnegie endowment for international peace. He withdrew from this position after Chambers made his accusations.

Chambers, 48, said Hiss and his wife were practicing Communists when he knew them.

Chambers, who said he broke with the party in 1938, rose to a $30,000 a year post as senior editor of Time Magazine but withdrew from that job to press his case against Hiss. He said he did so as a service to his country, to atone for 14 years in the Communist underground.

Hiss began a $75,000 libel suit against Chambers. Late last year Chambers came up with his "pumpkin papers," microfilms and copies of state department documents. He had them hidden in a hollow pumpkin on his Maryland farm. He said he got the papers from Hiss.

Mrs. Chambers backed her husband's story of a friendship with Hiss that lasted almost a year beyond Jan. 1, 1937.

Besides Hiss, Chambers named four other government aides who he said fed him secrets for the Russians. One of these was Henry Julian Wadleigh, who quit the state department in 1946 after 10 years.

Wadleigh calmly backed up Chambers' story by testifying that he was a Communist sympathizer before the war and gave Chambers state department documents from his own office. He said he never took papers from other offices, however, and never passed on typewritten copies to Chambers.

This last was important.

Much of the government's case rests on the typewritten copies that Chambers said he received from Hiss.

A government expert said all but one of the copies in evidence were made on one typewriter. The same machine, he said, was used to type four personal letters sent out by Hiss and his wife.

FORD ATTEMPTS

hit 5,000,000 persons this summer, living costs are coming down and the market for cars may drop up to 32 per cent after this year.

"The postwar buggy-ride of ever-higher wages, costs and prices is over," said Vice-President John S. Bugas.

Bugas made this three-point proposal in a letter to U. A. W. President Walter Reuther:

1. The U. A. W. withdraw all general economic demands for pension plans, health and welfare programs and wage increases for 18 months starting July 16, when the company-union contract expires.

2. The company maintain present wage rates for the same period.

3. But wage adjustments could be negotiated next Jan. 15 and again July 15, 1950, if the government bureau of labor statistic cost-of-living index fluctuates four points or more in either of the next two six-month periods.

Bugas' letter noted the cost-of-living wage agreement in the U. A. W.'s contract with General Motors Corp. This provides for a one cent an hour raise or cut for each 1.14-point rise or fall in the B. L. S. index.

"The average rates paid by our major competitor," said Bugas, "will in all likelihood be reduced. As a result we face the prospect of being at continually greater competitive disadvantage in labor costs—even at our present rates."

Ford said it would reject "any change in our contract which would mean higher labor costs—whether in the form of wage increases or pensions, and other welfare funds." It claims its average hourly wage of $1.65 is above the industry average.

"We must oppose any program which means higher wages but fewer jobs," said Bugas.

The U. A. W. has asked Ford for $100-a-month pensions for workers 60 years old and five per cent of the payroll for health and welfare benefits. It also is demanding a wage increase, estimated at eight to ten cents an hour, to restore auto workers' purchasing power to the level of June, 1946, when price controls were wiped out.

Deaths

MRS. ALETA B. PARRISH

Mrs. Aleta B. Parrish, 36, registered nurse, who was employed at the E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for some time, died Saturday noon after a lingering illness.

The funeral will be held at her home, Old Natchitoches road, Sunday at 2 p.m. The interment will be in the Latter Day Saints Cemetery near Eros. The Hall Funeral Home will have charge.

Mrs. Parrish is survived by her husband, O. M. Parrish; a son, Jack; and four daughters, Sue, Joan, Aleta and Priscilla Parrish.

CHARLES REX SCOTT

NATCHITOCHES, La., June 18.—(Special)—Funeral services for Charles Rex Scott, 67, who died at his home here today, will be conducted at 5 p.m. Sunday at the Blanchard Funeral Home.

The founder and co-owner of the Scott Motor Company, Scott, a native of Saline, came to Natchitoches parish in 1905 to manage a plantation near Lake End. He later operated a service station before entering the motor business.

He is survived by his widow, the former Mary Lou Taylor; a son, Mercer Scott; a brother, O. W. Scott, of Duckhill, Miss., and two sisters, Mrs. J. O. Banks, of Teague, Texas, and Mrs. Alma Carnahan, of Shreveport.

MRS. W. F. CHOAT

Funeral services for Mrs. W. F. Choat, 57, lifelong resident of Alto, La., who died at her home yesterday morning, will be conducted at the Bethleham Baptist Church Church Sunday at 3 p. m. with the Rev. P. M. Gaddis, officiating. Interment, under the direction of the Hixson Brothers Funeral Home, will follow in the Hixson Cemetery. The body will remain at the family residence near Alto until 2:30 p. m. Sunday.

She is survived by her husband, W. F. Choat; a sister, Mrs. Alice Bronson, of Mangham, and three brothers, Edwin Boies and Robert Boies, both of Alto, and Willie Boies, of Mangham.

MRS. ALETEA B. PARRISH

Mrs. Aletea B. Parrish, 36, West Monroe, died Saturday at her home.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home, with Elder Connie Fuller, officating, assisted by Elder Ervin Phillips. Interment, under direction of Hall Funeral Home, will be in the Latter Day Saints Cemetery, Eros.

She is survived by her husband, O. M. Parrish; three daughters, Joan, Priscilla Mae and Aletea Jeanette, all of West Monroe; two step-children, Dorothy Sue Parrish, West Monroe and Jack Parrish, Baton Rouge; three brothers, Henry Blazier, West Monroe, Oscar Blazier, West Monroe, Tom Blazier, U. S. air corps, stationed at Barksdale Field; four sisters, Mrs. W. B. Cawthon, West Monroe, Mrs. O. M. Fowler, Kennett, Mo., Miss Gladys Blazier, West Monroe, and Mrs. J. E. Windham, New Orleans; her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Blazier, West Monroe; and one step-grandchild.

Pallbearers will be Lloyd Salter, Elbert Moore, Teddy Blazier, W. G. Dorris, George Hagler and Paul Fuller.

Mrs. Parrish was a well-known registered nurse, having practiced in Monroe for a number of years. She graduated from St. Francis School of Nursing in 1933. She was employed at E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for 2 1/2 years.

MRS. ODELL HUGHES

Mrs. Odell Hughes, 41, Bastrop, died Friday night at her home.

Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Assembly of God Church, Bastrop. Interment, under direction of Hall Funeral Home will be in the City Cemetery.

She is survived by her husband, E. D. Hughes, Bastrop; two sisters, Mrs. I. V. Tait, Fort Worth, Tex. and Mrs. Velma Harper, Kilbourne, Tex.; one brother, Ervin Stanley, Lovell, Wyoming; one step-son, E. J. Hughes, Arkansas and several nieces.

Pallbearers will be Bill Warner, Gus Tharp, Walter Mathews, Ben Muse, Murial Hayes and John Carter.

MRS. TAMAR S. ROANE

RUSTON, La., June 18.—(AP)—(Special)—Mrs. Tamar Sanders Roane, 73, life-long resident of Lincoln parish, died in a Ruston hospital this afternoon following a long illness.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Choudrant Baptist Church Monday at 10 a. m. with the Rev. Mr. Wiley, assisted by the Rev. M. C. Burns, officiating. Interment, under the direction of the Kilpatrick Funeral Home here, will follow in the Greenwood Cemetery, Ruston.

She is survived by four sons, Dr. Henry S. Roane, Jr., U. S. Roane, both of Ruston ,and W. Russell Roane, of Arlington, Va., and H. C. Roane, of Atlanta, Ga.; two daughters, Mrs. T. L. Read, and Mrs. T. G. Wade, both of Monroe; a stepdaughter, Mrs. Charles Schofield, of Merryville, La., and Mrs. J. A. Griffin, of Alexandria.

cemented shut only if aroused public opinion demands it."

He urged publisers to make the problem clear to their readers, and enlist support behind freedom of the press.

Readers, he said, should get mad "when governmental officials progressively build up at public expense over many years effective barriers against reporters seeking the truth about governmental matters."

The associated press general manager looked over the news situation outside the United States and found it rather grim.

"Censorship still controls the streams of information out of and into a large part of the world," he said. "An analysis of the situation, country by country, shows that we have today almost world-wide suppression of information by governments, in one form or another."

'BIG NAME' GOLFERS DUE AT BAYOU DESIARD

LOCKE, HARRISON TO APPEAR HERE ON JULY 26 CARD

Famed Professionals To Give Country Club Fans Exhibition, Clinic

Big time golf will be on display at Bayou DeSiard Country Club here July 12 when Bobby Locke, the South African star who is making his third U. S. invasion in quest of tournament gold, and E. J. "Dutch" Harrison, veteran Little Rock tournament ace, appear here for exhibition play and a golf clinic.

Bobby Locke

Pro Milo Mattinson of Bayou DeSiard yesterday announced completion of arrangements between representatives of the country club and the well known traveling pros.

Harrison, native of Arkansas, has long been a follower of golf's tournament trail. Locke is relatively new to American fans, making his first invasion of the States two years ago. Both are consistent money winners.

Locke, a really superlative player, pocketed $24,327 in purses alone during his brief 1947 visit to the United States. He came back last year to win prize money totalling $23,468, and he's claimed well over $6,000 so far during his current tour with his most recent plum being the $3,000 money check for bagging the Goodall Round-Robin at New Rochelle's Wykagyl layout the middle of last month.

Hailing from Johannesburg, South Africa, LLocke has added quite a dash of color to the tournament trail as he wears knickers and other attire familiar to American links of the 1920s.

The failure of the Professional Golfers' Association to invite Locke to participate in the P. G. A. Championship caused quite a stir in professional ranks recently. Most of the superior pros would have welcomed Locke to the tourney, and apparently the South African was disappointed that he was ignored when the invitations went out.

Mattinson said the general public is invited to attend both the golf clinic and the match. The "clinic" will be conducted for about half an hour before the match play begins over the Bayou DeSiard layout. A small admission fee will be charged.

TOUCHSTONE WINS

Dick Touchstone, coming from behind on the back nine, defeated E. S. "Shep" Girault, 2 up, to win the first annual Cramer Haas Memorial Handicap Tournament at Bayou DeSiard Country Club yesterday.

Touchstone, one down through the 15th, won holes 16, 17, and 18 with par-birdie-birdie to win the finals match.

This afternoon Bayou DeSiard golfers will go to Bastrop for their first inter-city match with the Morehouse Country Club linksmen, beginning at 1 o'clock. DeSiard Pro Milo Mattinson last night said members of his club planning to participate and who have not yet registered should contact him as soon as possible this morning.

MRS. HEDGE IN FINALS WITH MRS. DOLLARHIDE

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Hedge, slender Biloxi champion, swings off the first tee on the Gulf Hills course tomorrow with Greenwood Star Mrs. Roger Dollarhide for the Mississippi Women's Golf crown.

But they may have to dart in and out of cover, as scattered thundershowers may dampen their struggle with par.

Mrs. Hedge, 1948 Biloxi titlist, who has been playing golf only two years, neatly disposed of Mrs. Harold White of Jackson 3 and 1 today. She carded an 86 for the 18-hole semi-finals match.

Tourney attention was focused on Mrs. Hedge yesterday when she tripped the medalist and favorite, Susan Rogers of Greenwood.

Mrs. Dollarhide, who stroked a 90, defeated Mrs. Felix Harrell of Biloxi 3 and 2 in the other semi-finals match today.

The Biloxi contender tomorrow is formerly of Helena, Ark., but has been a Biloxi resident for four years.

Mrs. Hedge took the first flight title in the Houston City Women's tourney last year and captured the second flight of the southern amateur in New Orleans a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Dollarhide is Greenwood city champ and also won the individual trophy in the Delta tourney this year. She is the wife of a Greenwood music shop operator.

Jack Curtis Risks Light-Heavy Title Against Al Getz

HURLS FOR GOODFELLOWS

Carl Russ (above), stellar City Softball League pitcher for Nichols Motors, leaders of the local circuit, will show his talents for the benefit of the Goodfellows' Fund when he pitches for the Fairbanks softball team against the mighty Buck Miller and Standard Parts of Memphis, Tenn., at Fairbanks next Saturday night. Miller, considered one of the nation's foremost softball pitchers, and Standard Parts, runners-up for the world's softball championship last year at the Seattle, Wash., tournament, will appear in another Goodfellows' benefit game in Monroe next Sunday afternoon against Spatafora's Pharmacy of the City Lague.

RUSTON, La., June 18.—(Special)—After having perfect playing conditions throughout the first round of play, old man weather has stepped into the picture and has caused the postponement of seven Big Eight League contests.

Hodge and Dubach, victims of wash-outs more than any other team in the loop, each have three games to make up, while Simsboro is the most successful by having played all 12 of their scheduled tilts. The Ruston Rebels, Marion, and the Sterlington Solvents were each rained out twice, and Bernice and the Ruston Volunteers have had only one league tilt postponed.

Originally scheduled for Wednesday at Marion, Bernice maintained their slim half-game over the Rebels by downing Marion 10-1 under the lights Monday in Bernice. The game was played at the league-leaders' park because of the seriousness of polio cases in Marion. Right-Hander Calvin Tanner went all the way to gain credit for the win.

"Slim" Cassibry pitched the Ruston Rebels into undisputed possession of the runner-up spot in the league standings with an 8-3 triumph over the Commercial Solvents of Sterlington in an arc light tilt at Fraser Field in Ruston.

Wayne Williamson, Reb leftfielder, struck the game winning blow in the sixth to break a 3-3 deadlock after the first two men up in the inning had been retired. Humphries beat out an infield hit and went to third on a single through the box by Cassibry. Johnny Williamson was purposely walked to fill the bases, then W. Williamson banged out a triple to clean the bases and put the Ruston team out in front to stay.

After the Solvents had taken a 3-2 lead in the fourth, First Baseman J. Williamson deadlocked the count in the fifth with a four-bagger over the centerfield fence to lead off the inning.

A single by Dick Weir, scoring two runs, proved the margin of victory as the Simsboro Devildogs cut a ninth-inning rally short by one run to defeat the Ruston Volunteers by a close 4-3 score.

Pipes led off the last frame with a triple and scored on an outfield fly. Fallin singled, but the next two batters were retired to end the game.

Simsboro was able to collect only four safeties off the offerings of Lewis Pipes, while Harrison, Long, Taylor, and Pipes each got two safe blows to pace the Vols' ten-hit attack on Kent Colvin, who racked up victory number one for himself in league play.

'FLASH' CLIFFORD SLATED ON SAME SHOW WITH GRAY

Match Originally Scheduled As Non-Title Changed Last Night

After completing arrangements aarlier for a non-title match, Champion Jack Curtis last night changed his mind and decided to risk his world's light heavyweight mat crown against the challenge of Al Getz, Pittsburgh toughie, here Tuesday night at Gus Kallio's Arena.

All arrangements for the non-title scramble had been made when Curtis contacted Promoter Kallio last night.

"I've decided to give Getz a title match. That's what he's really after," Curtis announced. "I'm feeling fine and can see no reason why I should object to giving Getz his chance. If he's a better man than I am, then he deserves to win.

"The only thing I ask is a fair deal for both of us from the fans and the referee.

Getz, claiming he is fully recovered from a smashing blow delivered by an irate fan at Kallio's arena a couple of weeks ago, is all ready to go.

The Pittsburgh villian had five stitches taken in a scalp wound and missed his wrestling appointment for nearly two weeks as a result of the lick over his head with a chair.

Kallio said Getz had informed him that he "doesn't want to cause any trouble for the chair-swinger."

"I have been advised to sue for damages," Kallio said he was told by Getz. "It sounds like easy money, but I'm used to making my living the hard way and I don't like to see anyone in trouble. I don't know who hit me, and as far as I'm concerned let's forget it. What I'm after is Jack Curtis and the championship.

Getz wanted Dave Silverstein, district wrestling commissioner to order Curtis into a title match, but Silverstein refused, saying he couldn't see where Getz had a real claim, and that it would be left up to Curtis to determine whether or not he wanted to risk his belt.

Curtis earlier had said he was sorry about what happened to Getz in their last match, "but it wasn't my fault and I don't feel like I should do him any special favor and give him a chance at my title."

But Champion Jack changed his mind last night and Getz gets his big chance.

Curtis and Getz are to battle over a 90-minute time limit distance with two falls to win.

Semi-final will bring together "Flash" Clifford for one of his rare appearances here against Sergeant Cary Gray, a newcomer.

Clifford, hailing from Louisville, Ky., and Gray, from Milwaukee, Wis., are coming into the southern mat circuit on the trail of Curtis and title matches for themselves. So far they havn't built up for a Curtis date.

The curtain-raiser, beginning at 8:15 o'clock, will have an hour time limit.

Kallio has been assigned by Commissioner Silverstein to referee the main event. Another referee will be named for the semi-final.

PAT ROONEY, WAVE STAR, SIGNS YANKEE CONTRACT

NEW ORLEANS, June 17.—(AP)—Pat Rooney, member of the Tulane University pitching staff, has signed with the New York Yankees and has been assigned to the Greenville, Miss., farm of the Cotton States League.

Rooney, a southpaw, was signed by Atley Donald, former Yankee moundsman, and Stanley Dobard, also a Yankee scout.

Middlecoff Set Sights On Open Early, Beat Blindness To Do It

By Ralph Warner

BRADENTON, Fla.—(NEA)—Here is a fresh angle on Dr. Cary Middlecoff.

The new U. S. Open golf champion nearly lost his sight as recently as five years ago—during the war.

The specialist in charge of the case told Dr. Harry Schulstad at one time he doubted that Lieutenant Middlecoff would ever see again.

The threat of total blindness hung over Middlecoff for four months.

This little-known chapter in the life of Middlecoff is revealed by Dr. Schulstad, Bradenton dentist who was the friend of America's new golf king and senior officer in the Army dental corps.

Upon his graduation from the Tennessee Dental School in 1944, Middlecoff entered the Army, and was assigned to Camp Croft at Spartanburg, S. C. There he started his brief dental career in the crown and bridge department. Unlike most dentists, Middlecoff did not wear protective glasses.

While he was working on a patient, a bit of debris flew up, and became embedded in Middlecoff's eyeball. Dr. Schulstad washed out the eye, then sent Middlecoff to the hospital to have it examined. The minute bit of debris was not detected. Middlecoff returned to his job, but several days later the eye still pained him. He returned to the hospital, and spent two months there with the eye gradually getting worse. Then he was sent to the Army Eye Hospital at Valley Forge, Pa.

After two more months there, the infection had spread to both eyes and Middlecoff was on the verge of blindness.

Then specialists tried a new treatment, and it worked. Middlecoff slowly regained full vision.

When the worst was over in the spring of 1945, and while he still had only partial vision in his right eye, Middlecoff, then an amateur, took time out to win the Atlantic City Invitational.

It was then that Middlecoff, now only 28, set his timetable. Discharged from the Army in 1946, he gave himself three years to make good in professional golf. If he failed it was back to the dental drill.

But Middlecoff got the golf bug early—at the age of eight, as a matter of fact. At that early age did he set his sights for the U. S. Open. His father, also a dentist, suffered a nervous breakdown. A physician told him to take a year off from work, take up golf, go on a trip.

This Pop Middlecoff did. An out-and-out duffer, he bought little Cary a set of clubs so he would have someone to play with.

Middlecoff filled something like 10,000 teeth during his abbreviated dental career. Now he's filling cavities on the greens to the tune of crinkling greenbacks.

With his U. S. Open victory worth a good $100,000 in exhibitions, endorsements, appearances and whatnot, Middlecoff will pick up something like $150,000 this year.

That ought to be enough to earn him a new nickname, "Cash and Cary."

And Dr. Cary Middlecoff beat total blindness to do it.

RUSTON JUNIORS WIN THREE MORE

Lincoln Parish Boys Nose Out Rayville, 2-1, In Game Yesterday

RUSTON, La., June 18.—(Special)—Three triumphs the past week make the Ruston American Legion Junior baseball club a good bet to appear in the Fifth District's championship playoffs.

Running second in the West League race behind the Monroe-West Monroe club with six victories, two defeats, and one tie, the charges of Coach Larry Fox copped their third win of the week this afternoon when they defeated Rayville in a closely contested scrap, 2 to 1.

Jack Smith, hurling for Ruston, hooked up in a hurling duel with Carroll of Rayville in which each chunker allowed only five hits. Barham knocked home both Ruston runs, while McClain turned in a sterling game at second base, handling eight chances without a flaw.

Yesterday afternoon Ruston took the measure of Columbia's Legion Juniors, 9 to 2, behind steady pitching by Tony Johns and the timely hitting of T. Head Edwards and Jesse James Edminston.

In a night game at Bernice Wednesday, the Fox-coached boys turned back their arch-rivals from Farmerville, 5 to 2. Till went all the way on the mound for Coach Tinsley's Farmerville charges, while Edminston and Smith shared the pitching honors for Ruston.

Ruston meets Bastrop next in a game scheduled for tomorrow night at Jones.

SHREVEPORT GETS EX-DALLAS HURLER

SHREVEPORT, La., June 18.—(AP)—The Shreveport Sports of the Texas League have purchased Quentin Altizer, former Dallas hurler, from Los Angeles of the Pacific Coast League, Bonneau Peters, president of the Sports, announced today.

Altizer, a lefthander, won 14 and lost 11 with Dallas last year and this year was sold to the Angels by the Eagles. However, he refused to report and obtained permission to work with the Sports.

To make room for Altizer on the staff, Ralph "Bruz" Hamner, who injured a finger on his pitching hand in a pre-game fight with Manager Jimmy Adair of the Dallas Eagles last night, has been put on the injured list, Peters said.

Earlier in the week, the Sports put Pitcher Ed Kowalski, obtained on option from Los Angeles when the Chicago Cubs recalled Warren Hacker, on the active list and optioned Infielder A. B. Cross to Anniston of the Southeastern League on a 24-hour recall basis.

SKEET SHOOTERS CATER TO YOUTH ON RANGE TODAY

Special Event Slated For 'Teen-Agers; Women Getting Encouragement

With the sport of skeet shooting on the boom here, 'teen-agers, men and women are being encouraged to take advantage of the facilities at the skeet range on Plum street this afternoon to improve their shooting and compete for the several awards offered.

"Even with the rain last Sunday we had a good turnout," Range Manager J. B. Thoman said, "And with better weather we're looking forward to increasing response from the shotgun owners of Ouachita parish.

"We want it understood that the range is available to any sportsmen in this section who want to come out and shoot with us although the Ouachita Skeet Club, headed by "Toby" Beircroft, is the guiding organization. New members will be accepted into the organization at the regular Sunday afternoon shoots."

In an effort to create interest among the 'teen-agers, three awards will be made today to the best of the youthful shooters, and fathers, whether they're shooting or not, are being encouraged to have their boys on the lot today.

The No. 1 award for the best youth score will be a western knife, with five-inch blade, and scabbard. Other awards include a pair of skeet glasses and a set of camouflage casting lines.

For the second straight week awards are being offered the high shooters in the open division, but those who won last week won't be eligible today under range provisions that will restrict presentation of awards to any shooter to not more than one per month.

Best score today will entitle the shooter to a casting reel and case offered by Gene's Sporting Goods. A reel is also offered for the No. 2 shooter by an anonymous donor, and for the third best score there will be 5 gallons of gasoline from McCain-Richards Motor Company.

Women shooters are also getting special encouragement to show what they can do.

"All ladies have our special invitation to join in the skeet range recreation and sport," Thoman said. "Actually, this is a sport for all the family and we want everybody to feel free to join us."

Refreshments will be served on the grounds during the course of the afternoon's activities.

ST. JOSEPH INDIANS ROUT WINNSBORO LEGIONNAIRES

ST. JOSEPH, La., June 18.—(Special)—On a wild batting spree Thursday the St. Joseph Indians exterminated the Winnsboro Legionnaires 15-0 for their third consecutive victory.

Rip Duncan hurled a neat three-hit shutout, fanning fifteen in the process. He was aided by errorless support afield, combined with heavy hitting by the entire team.

The Tribe clouted eleven solid safeties, including six extra-base blows, but also were aided by numerous Winnsboro errors.

Any teams desiring to arrange games with the Indians should contact Coach Leslie McConathy in St. Joseph.

FARMERVILLE'S NEGROES PLAY ALL-STARS MONDAY

The Monroe All-Stars and the Farmerville Black Eagles, Negro semi-pro clubs, appear in a night contest at Cloyd's Park, West Monroe, tomorrow night at 8:15 o'clock, All-Star Manager Joe Gulledge said last night.

The Black Eagles, victors over the All-Stars at Farmerville, 3-0, last Sunday, have lost only two of 15 games, one to Grambling College and the other to the Crossett Tigers.

Gulledge said his Monroe club was not at full strength for the game last Sunday, but would be ready for the Farmerville Negroes this trip.

NO TALENT SIGNED AT TRYOUT CAMP

The baseball tryout camp conducted here by the Fort Worth Cats and Brooklyn Dodgers closed yesterday after three days of looking over talent in this area at Cloyd's Park, West Monroe.

Bob Tarleton, scout in charge of the camp, last night said no prospects had yet been signed to any contracts.

"We had some promising prospects to report for the tryouts," he said, "but so far we haven't signed anybody."

The Cat-Dodger talent hunters move on to Texas City, Tex., for another camp July 16-17.

AGING WALCOTT FAVORED TO WIN CHARLES SCRAP

Jersey Joe, Between 35 And 40, Pronounced In Top Condition

By Charles Chamberlain

KANKAKEE, Ill., June 18.—(AP)—At an age when most fellows get winded just running for a street car, Jersey Joe Walcott has run 300 miles.

This road work, plus 131 rounds against sparring mates, has left him as solid as a bull and as fire-breathing eager as one preparing to toss a matador.

Jersey Joe, age 35-40, is a trim 196-pounder and confident he will chill 27-year-old Ezzard Charles and win the N. B. A.-version of the world heavyweight boxing championship.

They tangle in Comiskey Park, home of the Chicago White Sox, Wednesday night. Advance sales thus far are reliably reported under $100,000. This is a far cry from the gate of $715,470 paid by 45,500 fans at the same site 12 years ago to watch Joe Louis capture the crown from James J. Braddock.

The speedy Charles, who gained most of his fame as a light heavy, is expected to enter the ring at 185. In preliminary examinations yesterday, he topped 186 1/2.

The hard-hitting Cincinnati Negro currently rules a 7-5 favorite. But Walcott is the sentimental favorite.

After giving the Camden, N. J., Negro a blood pressure and heartbeat test, Dr. J. M. Houston, chief physician of the Illinois Athletic Commission, said:

"I don't know for certain how old Walcott may be, but whatever his age, he is in perfect condition. He is an amazing specimen."

Louis, who at 35 has retired and vacated his heavyweight throne, finds a guy just as old—and probably older—in there battling to gain it.

That's the unique angle about Walcott, twice beaten by Louis and now getting a third crack at a world's title at an age when most of 'em are packing up.

MANGRUM GETS TIE WITH MIDDLECOFF

DETROIT, June 18.—(AP)—Chunky Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., shot a neat 68—three under par—to tie Cary Middlecoff today for the lead at the 54-hole mark of the 72-hole Motor City Open Golf Tournament.

Each has 204.

Middlecoff ran into putter trouble as he had two three-putt greens on the outgoing nine and two-putted all nine incoming holes.

Bob Hamilton, of Landover, Md., who was tied for second place with Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., at the halfway mark of the tournament yesterday, shot 70 today. That put him into a tie with Jim Ferrier of San Francisco at the 205 mark for third place in the tournament.

Ransom had a 72 today and was in sixth place, a stroke behind Jim Turnesa, Briar Cliff, N. Y., who had a 68 today for a 206 total.

WAKE FOREST WINS TO N. C. A. A. FINALS

SOUTH BEND, Ind., June 18.—(AP)—The Wake Forest Deacons slugged their way into the N. C. A. A. baseball finals by beating Notre Dame today, 10-7.

The victory gave the Deacons the regional series, two games to none. They will play in the finals at Wichita, Kas., next week.

A walk and a stolen base started it for Wake Forest. An intended sacrifice was beaten out for a hit, and an error on a double play ball let in a run. Pitcher Dick Vander Clute beat out another intended sacrifice, and then a solid single by Gene Hooks and a double by Charley Teague brought the Demons to 5-0.

The Irish kept pecking away but never got closer than three runs after that.

Charley Teague of Wake Forest, who had a single, a double and a triple today, was voted the most valuable player of the series.

Score by innings:

Notre Dame	001	121	002—7 10 4
Wake Forest	140	210	02x—10 12 1

Campbell, Nemes (5), Lipton (8) and Maher, Boland (6); Vander Clute, Mustian (6) and Batchelor.

SAUL, GRANT ADVANCE TO SOUTHERN FINALS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., June 18.—(AP)—Quiet, bespectacled Arnold Saul of Los Angeles and Atlanta's explosive Bryan (Bitsy) Grant stroked their way into the finals of the Southern Tennis Championships today.

The pint-sized Grant, nine times winner of the Southern and fourth-seeded this year, cut down lanky Jack Teagle of Atlanta in two quick sets, 6-1, 6-3.

5 GOLFERS MOVE UP IN M'QUIRE'S TWIN CITY EVENT

Williams, Green, Shelton, Holt, Shaver Advance In Championship Flight

The battle for the Twin City Golf championship got underway over the McGuire Park Golf Club course in West Monroe yesterday with Wade Williams, J. L. Green, Amas Shelton, Kenneth Holt, and Ed Shaver winning opening campionship flight matches.

Three other first round matches in the title flight remain to be played today.

In title round engagements yesterday Williams defeated E. E. Heblon, 2 and 1; Green stopped Albert Marucheau, 3 and 1; Shelton beat Henry Gilliland, 5 and 4; Holt bested E. B. Peddy, 4 and 3; and Shaver stopped L. F. "Doc" Bennett, 4 and 3.

Remaining first round matches on tap today in the championship bracket are Jackie Doss vs. J. Y. Pipes, Bill Jones vs. E. E. Lawson, and Travis Williams vs. Dick Touchstone.

Losers in the opening round of the title flight wil compose the first flight in which Heblon will play the loser of the Doss-Pipes match, Marucheau plays the laser of the Jones-Lawson match, Gilliland appears against Peddy, and Bennett will be matched against the loser in the Williams-Touchstone round.

First round results in other flights of Pro. C. J. Shirah's event are:

Second fligt—Clyde Nash beat Earl Woods, 1 up in 19 holes; Carbin Turpin vs. Hiller Hesorffer, play today; Ford Hines beat George Scrimsaw, 1 up in 20 holes; and Bernard Scheen stopped C. R. Baur, 2 and 1.

Third flight—W. T. White beat Louis Milner, 1 up; Dr. R. B. Henry vs. Ray Buce, play today; Forest Linquist beat Fred Willis, 2and 1; and Charles Regan downed C. C. Rainwater, 3 and 2.

Fourth flight—Jack May defeated F. L. Ferrell, 2 and 1; Harold Morrison ousted S. M. McReynolds, 4 and 3; T. N. Hudson bested Hilton Heard, 1 up; and A. C. Williams vs. Joe Hearne, play today.

Fifth flight—Dick Watkins vs. E. L. Lancaster, play today;; S. G. Young beat R. F. Coats, 4 ao 4; Dan Cox stopped A. V. Frost, 4 and 3; and Bob Bentz vs. J. L. Hendricks, play today.

Shirah said all first round matches must be completed today, and as many second round matches as possible. The semi-final and final matches are scheduled to be completed next week-end.

BARNES, NEAL IN FINALS OF SOUTHERN AMATEUR

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 18.—(AP)—Tommy Barnes, veteran Atlantan of considerable tournament experience, and Al Neal, 200-pound 35-year-old Marion, N. C., manufacturer, today gained the finals of the Southern Golf Association's 43rd annual amateur tournament.

Barnes moved two up after four holes against Medalist Billy Joe Patton of Morgantown, N. C., and never lost the lead to post a 2 and 1 victory. Neal won by the same score over another veteran, Morton Bright of Atlanta, who had him even at the turn.

WHAT NEXT FOR TRAGIC TEXANS?

(Associated Press News Features)

AUSTIN, Tex., June 18.—The 1941 football team at the University of Texas was tragic in more ways than one.

It was hailed as the greatest team in southwestern history, was picked to win the national championship and to play in the Rose Bowl.

That team had everything—experience, poise, manpower, versatility. Even Coach D. X. Bible said it should be favored.

It swept everything before it like a scythe until a November afternoon when one of the weakest teams in Baylor history rose up to battle it to a 7-7 tie.

That was a shock but the biggest was to come one week later when lowly Texas Christian beat the magazine pin-up boys 14-7.

Rose Bowl hopes flew out the window—football's Gibraltar was a shattered dream.

It came back to beat Texas A. and M., the Southwest Conference champion, and it crushed Oregon. But it proved the deepest hurt in University of Texas athletic annals.

Now four members of that team have met violent death.

Red Goodwin and Chal Daniel were killed while in service with the army air force. Stanley Mauldin died after playing in a professional football game last year. A few days ago Vernon Martin died in an automobile accident.

Martin was the blocking back of that great team. Daniel was a guard. Goodwin, a center and Mauldin, a tackle.

"What next" they ask at the University of Texas where the greatest team in southwestern history left sad memories.

SCHROEDER WINS QUEENS SINGLES

LONDON, June 18. — (AP) — Ted Schroeder whipped Gardnar Mulloy in straight sets, 8-6, 6-0, tdoay for the singles title of the Queens Club Tennis tourney.

Schroeder's victory was marked by a linesman's disputed call and fanned the word-war raging over the repeat performance of these two Americans in the first round of the Wimbledon tourney Monday.

Mulloy, from Miami, Fla., was head, 5 to 4, and needed the point to win the first set when the linesman called his second service out. Mulloy said it was in. They argued. Mulloy lost.

The incident so unsettled Mulloy that Schroeder, whose home is in La Crescenta, Calif., ran out the set. In the second set Mulloy merely flipped backhands into the net and was blanked.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

by Hugh S. Fullerton, jr.

NEW YORK, June 18. — (AP) — When Patty Berg won the Women's Western Open Golf title last year, she presented her $500 winning check to the association for the promotion of golf among the younger girls. That's one reason why the women's western junior championship will be held this year for the first time since 1941 . . . The U. S. Golf Association replies only "no comment" to queries about Bud Ward's amateur status. Story is that its under investigation because of a report that he has applied for a professional job . . . Tickets for the Notre Dame-Michigan State football game November 5 were sold out eight days after they were put on sale June 1 . . . Now that Jake Lamotta has won the middleweight title, how about a title scrap with Rocky Graziano—with Lee Oma as referee.

Misplaced Sympathy

Ernie Lanigan, the baseball historian, tells one about the time the old Pennsylvania League broke up. . . . The teams were broke and the players couldn't collect their pay . . . One team finally found a sympathizer in a local bartender, who couldn't feed them or pay carfare home but did invite all the players to have one beer on the house . . . The athletes gladly accepted—that is, all but one, who plaintively asked: "If you don't mind, could I have five two-cent stamps instead?" . . . Ernie has it figured out this was the only smart one of the bunch. With the stamps and hotel stationery, he could apply for five jobs.

Sportsmention

Fred Hooper is reported to be buying Hoop, Jr., yearlings every time he gets a chance. That might be a tip on something . . . Roland "Kickapoo" Logan, former Red Sox, West Point, etc., trainer has cooked up what he calls a "new type" of school for coaches, teaching them how to cut down on injuries. It will be held at Pepperdine College in August . . . Harry Heilmann, the broadcaster, tells Detroit fans to keep their eyes on Johnny Groth in August and September. By that time, says Harry, he will have seen all the American League pitching and will know how to hit it. . . . Deftly jabbing the needle into his old friend and rival, Clemson's Frank Howard proclaims: "Wake Forest has some fine backs, a good line, good ends and good everything. The Deacons will win the Southern Conference championship in spite of Peahead Walker."

Weak End Notes

Harry Rockafeller, assistant athletic director at Rutgers, is looking for a ball game with the Tigers playing the Yanks and Charlie Berry umpiring. Rockafeller, Berry and Red Rolfe, Tiger manager, were together in Iceland during the war . . . Then four Michigan State baseball players were declared ineligible under Big Ten rules, one of them, Ed Bagdon, promptly signed with the Tigers; Pitcher Buzz Bowers tried out with the Yankees and Ed Sobczak went east for a trial with the Braves . . . Observing that an English race horse has been named Lee Savold, Harry Levenstein of the Paterson, N. J., call asks if the nag will become a member of Bill Daly's stable.

Babe Ruth earned $910,900 in salaries alone during his baseball career which extended from 1914 to 1935 as a player.

CHANNEL SWIMMER — Shirley May France sprints from Mt. Hope Bay, South Somerset, Mass., where the 16-year-old, 177-pound high school sophomore has been under rigid training. Holder of the women's professional five, 10 and 12-mile records, she will attempt to swim the English Channel late next month or early in August, depending upon the tides.

RIGGS, BUDGE TOP SEEDED FOR PRO TENNIS TOURNEY

NEW YORK, June 18.—(AP)—Bobby Riggs is seeded No. 1 and Don Budge No. 2 in the National Professional Tennis Championships starting Monday at Forest Hills.

Jack Kramer, who won the title last year, is not competing this time.

Seeded behind Riggs and Budge, in order, are Frank Kovacs, Welby Van Horn, Carl Earn, Wayne Sabin, Elwood Cooke and John Nogrady. In all 48 money players are entered.

HARDWOOD SPORTS FACE ZACHARY NEGROES TODAY

FERRIDAY, La., June 18.—(Special)—The Hardwood Sports of Ferriday, Negro baseball club, will meet the University Cubs of Zachary here Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Corbett's Field.

It will be the first appearance of the season here for the Zachary club.

It was also announced that the Ferriday All-Stars will play the St. Joseph Tigers here Sunday afternoon, June 26.

MONROE RETURNS TO SEMI-PRO PLAY AGAINST CLIPPERS

Sports At Lake Providence; Other Games At Oak Grove, Winnsboro, Tallulah

The Monroe Sports, taking up where they left off two weeks ago, will be back in action in the Northeast Louisiana League today under new ownership when they journey to Lake Providence for a meeting with the Clippers at 3 o'clock.

E. J. Ruddick, with 15 years of experience in baseball and late of the Oak Grove Rebels, is taking over as manager of the Monroe club backed by P. R. Thaxton, Oak Grove business man, who obtained the league franchise the past week after Shreveport interests had withdrew from the field earlier in the month.

Ruddick last night had not announced his new Monroe roster, but he indicated only two or three members of the original club would be serving under the same flag, and that he expects to present a stronger club with talent recruited from Hattiesburg, Miss., and El Dorado, Ark.

Monroe had a record of four wins and ten losses when the club first folded.

Don Mayer, Winnsboro, league president, has already announced Monroe will return with its same standings with the agreement to make up six games lost durin gthe club's absence from the circuit.

In other league scraps today the Louisiana-Arkansas White Sox will invade Tallulah, the LaSalle Producers visit Winnsboro, and Columbia will be playing at Oak Grove.

Winnsboro currently leads the circuit by two and a half games over the Columbia Ramblers. Lake Providence is a game and a half behind the Ramblers in third place, while LaSalle and the La.-Ark. Sox, tied for fourth, are only half a game out of third to comprise the first division.

NEW YORK, June 18.—(NEA)—His neighbors on The Hill in St. Louis chipped in nickels, dimes and quarters and bought Lawrence Peter Berra a car.

The automobile was presented to him on Yogi Berra Night at Sportsman's Park.

Yogi Berra

Sentimental young Berra choked up, but finally blurted: "I want to thank all you folks who made this night necessary."

The distinctive Yankee catcher, built like a wrestler and looking like a man from another world, became a character.

Paired with Frank Shea in Philadelphia, Berra was first to enter their hotel room. Unable to locate a bed, Yogi telephoned Road Secretary Frank Scott.

"There's no bed in this room, Scotty," he said. "I want a room with a bed."

"There are Murphy beds in the room," explained Scott. "Look in what appears to be a big closet. Open the doors, and pull the bed down."

"Wait a minute," replied Yogi, putting the receiver down, opening the doors, and pulling the bed down.

"You don't expect me to sleep in this thing, do you?" he said, returning to the telephone. "It might snap up with me at night."

Scott had to change his room, give him one with a bed he could see smack dab on the floor.

Just as a key game with the Indians was to begin at Yankee Stadium, an usher advised Scott that Mrs. Berra wanted to see him immediately concerning an important message to her inimitable husband. Scott rushed to the wives' section, contacted young Mrs. Berra.

"Ask Yogi whether he wants pork or lamb chops for dinner tonight," said Mrs. Berra.

Joe Paige and Eddie Lopat were discussing hunting, with Berra listening in. Paige related how he and Country Slaughter of the Cardinals had hunted wild crows during the offseason. He told how Slaughter followed one crow in a crouching position through low brush so long that he wound up with a cyst.

"What kind of a bird is a cyst?" asked Yogi.

A group of Yankees were refreshing war memories. One asked Berra what branch of the service he was in.

"The Navy," said Berra.

"Were you an officer?" a Yankee who was an officer wanted to know.

"Hell no," said Yogi. "I wanted to stay with the boys."

Bucky Harris gave up on Berra as a catcher last season, but, under Bill Dickey this trip, the thoroughly relaxed Italiano already has established himself among the leaders.

He's the best and hardest bad ball hitter to come along since Joe Medwick, and a clever base-runner.

Adding to his importance is the fact that, with Joe DiMaggio out, he is the New York Americans' most magnetic attraction.

"Even bigger than Tom Henrich," say Yankee officials.

"Fans who don't know other players names know his, and they know Yogi by sight—close up and at a distance."

Nobody looks like him. Nobody acts like him, especially with a bat in his hands.

So it isn't hard to pick Berra out of a crowd.

With his delightful naivete, Yogi stories multiply, but Lawrence Berra, only 24 now, is writing the most interesting one himself.

Chance To Drive For $5 Put Holland On Trail Of 500

By Frank Eck

(Associated Press Features Sports Writer)

NEW YORK—Bill Holland has always been a bug for speed. He has been in automobile racing for 14 years and to followers of dirt track racing his victory in the 500-mile Indianapolis Speedway classic came as only a mild surpise.

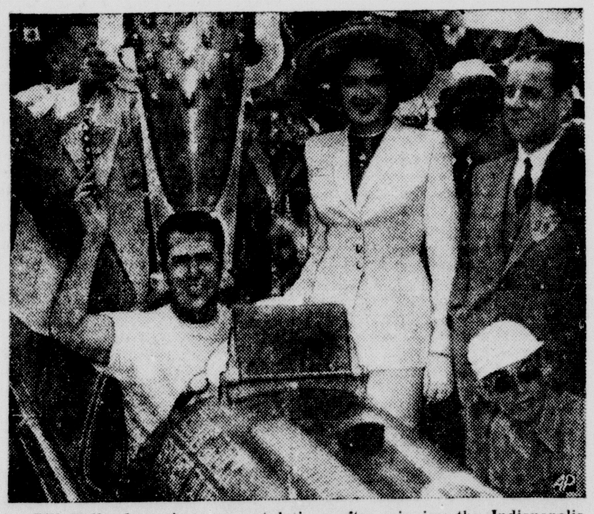

The 41-year-old pilot from Reading, Pa., worked at various jobs from fixing beer pumps to adjust-wheels on roller skates and then become proprietor of his own rinks in Reading and Bridgeport, Conn.

It was while working for $18 a week as a Philadelphia rink floorman that a friend told him he could make from $5 to $15 a Sunday driving a racing car. In the 400 he won $51,000, about 35 per cent of which he retained.

"I still recall my first race," says Willard Holland. "It was outside Philadelphia, just a field without a fence or seats for the spectators. I finished third in the consolation heat."

Before that he was interested in speed on skates, both roller and ice, and in bikes. As a kid of 13 he won a Philadelphia schoolboy championship roller race. In 1931 he was the first Philadelphian to finish in a sectional bicycle trial for the 1932 Olympics. He finished ninth.

During six years in Bridgeport he developed several roller and ice skating stars. He helped his son, Willard, Jr., 17, win the national junior roller speed skating crown in 1947. The boy also plays basketball and competes in track at Ontalaunee High, Leesport, Pa.

To look at the pleasant features of the black-haired Holland one would never believe this roaring knight of the road had been in three serious auto accidents.

In his second year as a driver he fractured a hip at Lancaster, Pa. In a crash at Trenton, N. J., he fractured a vertebra and crushed a shoulder. Three years ago he sustained a concussion during the Rutland, Vt., fair. The scar required 22 stiches on his forehead yet is hardly noticeable.

"It happened when a car ahead of me kicked up a big rock," says Bill. "It was so big that the helmet failed to protect me. It was a ragged wound but the doctors did a wonderful job on it."

Holland has a number of dirt track races lined up for this summer and fall. However, the next race in which he plans to pilot Lou Moore's $32,000 winning Blue Crown Special in the 100-mile championship test at Springfield, Ill., on Aug. 20.

"I may quit the dirt tracks after this year," says Holland. "That depends on what happens. I may become a representative in the auto parts business. At any rate I'll be back in the 500 next Memorial Day."

Though Holland set a new Indianapolis record of 121.327 miles per hour he feels certain that he could have gone "one to one and a half miles an hour faster" but for engine trouble.

"I stopped as a safety measure. It seems the carburetur wasn't getting enough gas. I think maybe it was the fuel pump. During the stop we change two tires—after all I was going all out on the turns—refilled the gas tank although that wasn't necessary, wiped my face, goggles and windshield."

You lost a lot of time then?

"Yes," agrees Bill. "Forty-six seconds."

New Version Of Kerr Gas Bill Rewritten By Senate

By B. N. Timmons
(World Washington Correspondent)

A senate interstate commerce committee Saturday completely rewrote the Kerr Natural Gas Bill and approved the new version unanimously.

The rewritten bill has only one purpose—to prevent the Federal Power Commission from having any jurisdiction or control over independent producers and gatherers of gas who sell at "arm's length"—Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, of Texas, the subcommittee chairman, said.

Integrated pipeline companies and natural gas companies would not be exempt. "This substitute," Johnson said, "is intended to do one thing and one thing only: Continue by law the policy with regard to independent producers and gatherers of natural gas which the federal power commission has practiced throughout its 11 year administration of the Natural Gas Act. No evidence presented to the subcommittee during our recent hearings indicated a compelling need for adding to or substracting from the powers which the federal power commission, under the Natural Gas Act, has actually employed and exercised."

Included among the five senators on the subcommittee who voted unanimously for the new version of the bill was Sen. Francis J. Myers, the democratic whip of the senate from Pennsylvania, who gave every indication that he was looking out for both the consumers and the coal-miners of Pennsylvania during recent hearings on the Kerr-Thomas bill.

The new version differs both from the Rizley-Moore Bill of the 80th congress and the Kerr Bill which was introduced by Senator Robert Kerr of Oklahoma, in the present congress.

Although both the Rizley-Moore and the Kerr Bills were drawn up primarily to guarantee the protection of independent gas producers from FPC control, both bills went considerably further than that.

The new highly-simplified version of the bill was framed in an effort to eliminate opposition of members of congress from the consumer states of the mid-west and the eastern seaboard and to avert the strong possibility of a presidential veto, it appeared here.

Apparently directed at those of consumer states who have opposed the Rizley-Moore and the Kerr Bills, Johnson said in a statement:

"Nothing in this bill as amended would make a rate increase to consumers automatic, necessary or inevitable. For 11 years the commission has, even in the opinion of opponents to the Kerr Bill, been successful in giving tangible protection to the consumer. This has been accomplished without actual or threatened control of independents. No control has been exercised to this hour, and it is our opinion that none should be exercised. If we permit an OPA price to be placed upon the commodity of an independent gas producer through default of our congressional duties, that will be the only instance of our economy where a non-utility prices fixed. No present or foreseeable peril to the consumer exists which would justify such isolated price-fixing. If we can expect continued vigilance on the part of the commission, I believe we can realize further savings for the consumer after passage of this bill."

Besides Johnson and Myers, other members of the subcommittee who drew up and approved the new bill are senators McFarland (D., Ariz.), Reed (R., Kans.) and Bricker (R., O.).

The new bill is now before the full membership of the senate interstate and foreign commerce committee, which may act on it next week.

MEL PATTON RUNS WILD AT N. C. A. A. TRACK MEET

LOS ANGELES, June 18.—(AP)—Mel Patton won his third straight 100-yard dash in the National Collegiate track and field meet today and then equaled the NCAA meet record in capturing the 220-yard dash in 20.4 seconds.

Patton, who coasted to win the 100 yard dash in 9.7 seconds, put on steam to take the 220 and equal the meet record set in 1933 by Ralph Metcalfe of Marquette. Paul Bienz of Tulane was fourth.

Patton won the NCAA 220 last year and went on to capture the Olympic games crown in the 200 meter race.

After 11 events, Patton and his Southern California Trojan team mates has a massed 48 points to lead the field for the team title.

Bienz of Tulane was third in the 220.

SWINE PARITY GETS OPPOSAL

Objectors Agree That Pork Chops Would Be Fat, But Not Cheap

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Brannan's proposal for a production subsidy on hogs was opposed today on the ground it would make pork chops fat but not cheap.

Mark W. Pickell, executive secretary of the Corn Belt Livestock Feeders Association of Chicago, testified to a senate agriculture sub-committee:

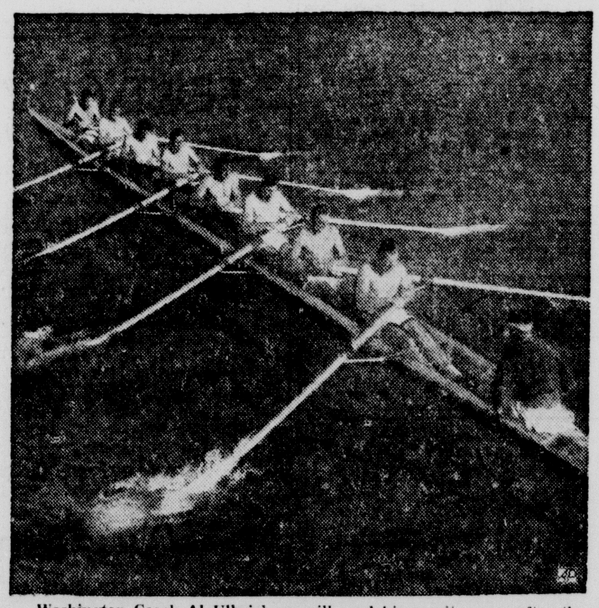

"If Brannan's program of support on the basis of his new parity formula, or from around $18.50, were put into effect, it would produce pork chops that were mostly fat so that by the time they were trimmed down to where they were edible and desirable, the cheapness would disappear."

Pickell contended that consumers are being "deluded" by assertions that adoption of the Brannan plan would lower the cost of meat, especially pork. He said the proposed hog subsidy would ad a minimum of $750,000,000 to the tax bill.

Further, he declared, a hog support without similar subsidies for cattle, lambs and poultry would be "completely and immediately disastrous to the cattle, sheep and poultry industries."

Brannan himself appeared in support of his plan. He told the senators it is aimed only at meeting a possible pork price crisis and is not designed as "an opening wedges" to change the philosophy of price support operations.

The aim of his plan, he said, is "simply to assure farmers that if and when there should be a break in the market they will be protected."

Washington Coach Al Ulbrickson will send his varsity crew after the Huskies' second straight Poughkeepsie regatta on June 25. In addition, Washington will seek victories in the junior varsity and freshman events for a second straight sweep of the Hudson. The three Washington crews turned this feat last year.

CORINTH BEATS JACKSON FOR MISSISSIPPI CROWN

CORINTH, Miss., June 18.—(AP)—The Corinth Warriors won the Mississippi state high school baseball championship today by taking a double header from the Jackson High Tigers.

The scores were 4-3, and 8-3.

The Tigers had previously won at Jackson 4-3.

Clovis Butts, twirled for the Warriors and put them back in the running for the championship by winning the first game of the double header. He started the second game, but gave way in the second inning to Floyd Pratt. Who did not allow a hit for five innings.

ON THE SCENE AT VIRGINIA FLOODS

(NOTE: This account of flood conditions in the stricken Potomac Valley of West Virginia was received tonight from Robert M. Farrington of the Associated Press Bureau in Washington. He accompanied Red Cross officials to the scene of the disaster early this morning, arriving at Petersburg, W. Va., before the city was completely isolated).

By Robert M. Farrington

PETERSBURG, W. Va., June 18.—(AP)—Petersburg late today temporarily bridged the sullen, boiling flood waters that had marooned its 3,000 inhabitants for the past 24 hours.

I rode the first vehicle out of this stricken valley since a vast flood swept down out of the surrounding mountains yesterday afternoon.

The 2 1/2-ton bakery truck bumped over slippery planks laid across a 15-foot gap, but we made it with a lurch.

Behind us lay the desolated land—trees uprooted, crops washed away, dead poultry by ten of thousands.

The grisly task of pulling the dead from the still-surging waters was on. How many died was still not known.

Down near the tannery had stood the modest homes of some 100 families. Slimy, leaking mud churned up from the river bottom was plastered six inches thick on the floors.

Men, women and children, soaked to the skin by the rain which let up only occasionally, poked the saturated bedding and compared watermarks six to eight feet high on the walls.

Red Cross volunteers set up food kitchens in a grade school and rounded up cots to take families out of their wet homes for the night.

But the town had no telephones to the outside. Its only electric power is a diesel light plant lent to the school by the H. C. Price Construction Company, which is digging a gas pipeline through the area.

Charles Ice, Dallas, Tex., superintendent in charge of construction, thought up the fast emergency bridge. He had a 20-foot length of pipe, 26 inches in diameter, split and the two halves laid across the washout on state route 42. Despite heavy timbers topping the narrow structure, it is no bridge for the timid.

Discussing the roaring rise of the river, Ice said, "I've never seen anything like it in my life."

"It rose maybe a foot and a half in one hour. It came fast and it went fast. Six hours later the river was dropping."

Electric power is the most critical shortage. Refrigerators, stoves and gasoline pumps are useless. But the washed out electric poles lie in the lowest sections of the valley, still covered by angry, white water.

The rain poured down constantly from the cloud-shrouded hills. The ground is soaked and the water stands in pools where corn and potatoes flourished two days ago. Now, the littered fields are wasted and rotting.

pulsion, was the star, if not the expert, in a jail baseball game.

Ruth Ann Steinhagen, to whom the popular 28-year-old player was an obsession, summoned him into a hotel room with a note saying she had "something important" to discuss with him. She felled him with a slug from a .22 caliber rifle.

The six foot girl, in jail pending a June 30 hearing on a charge of assault with intent to murder, is writing her autobiography at the behest of a court psychiatrist.

Dr. L. L. Braun, team physician for the Chicago Cubs, who is one of Waitkus' doctors, said he couldn't predict whether the wounded infielder will play baseball again this season. He said that Waitkus should be released from the hospital in about three weeks if he continues his good progress. He said Waitkus probably can continue his career next year.

Dr. Braun said the first baseman's lung cavity probably will be tapped for blood accumulation again tomorrow. The operation, called aspiration, is considered minor. The fluid is drawn out of the lung through a hollow needle inserted through the chest wall.

John S. Boyle, Cook county state's attorney, said he plans to subpoena Waitkus to give his full version of the shooting to a grand jury.

"I want no maudlin sympathy for this girl," Boyle said. "People just can't go around shooting others and expect to get away with it."

thal. The investigation will be resumed Monday.

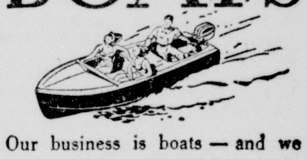

Yesterday Hickenlooper attacked as wasteful a commission project for a gas pipeline to its Oak Ridge, Tenn., Atomic plant at a cost of $10,000,000.

Sumner Pike, commission member, disagreed. He said it would actually save $1 250,000 a year, and that A. E. C. would go ahead with the project despite the committee's disapproval.

McMahon said the cost curb has been under consideration since February and that he believes the committee "is unanimous" that the legislation is necessary. He voiced the hope that Rep. Durham (D-NC), vice chairman of the committee, will sponsor the bill in the house.

McMahon said the committee has been "chewing over" the need for legislation for four or five months and "it came to a head" on a reactor program which is going to cost more than $500,000,000.

LOUISIANA OIL AND GAS NEWS

Three New Oil Producers, Gas Wells Are Completed

Top Oil Yielder Is Found In Urania Field By Arkansas Fuel Oil Company; Drillers Site Eleven New Locations

Oilers in Northeast Louisiana had a busy time of it last week completing three new oil producers and three gas wells, the conservation department's weekly drilling report revealed here yesterday.

An old well was also abandoned and eleven new locations were sited in five parishes.

Top new oil yielder completed last week was the Arkansas Fuel Oil Company's Urania Lumber Company No. F-8 in 24-10-1E of the Urania field in LaSalle parish. Unearthed at 1,556 feet, the new well was brought in with an output of 32 barrels per day.

Another producer, the H. N. Crawford, et al, S. L. Smith No. 1 in 34-22-1W of the Ora field in Union parish, was gauged at 9 barrels per day at 2,159 feet.

The Shell Oil Company's Shell Hunt Frost "D" Unit No. 1, also in the Ora field, was gauged at 21.72 barrels at 2,173 feet.

Gas Producers

The Feazel, et al, and Monroe Drilling Co., Inc., et al, Ford No. 1 in 7-21-3E of the Monroe field, Union parish, was completed with a yield of 454,000 cubic feet of gas.

Also in the Monroe field, the United Carbon Company completed their Hansell Harrell No. 1 in 22-22-3E with a yield of 297,000 cubic feet.

The United Carbon Company's D. Rusell No. 1 in 28-22-3E, Monroe field, was completed with an output of 243,000 cubic feet of gas.

Abandoned

The H. L. Hunt Company's Nebo Oil Company, Inc. No. F-146 in 38-8-3E of a wildcat field in LaSalle parish, was abandoned at a total depth of 5,110 feet.

New Locations

Drillers sited new locations in Cathoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Ouachita and Union parishes last week. They are, as listed on the conservation department's report:

Cathoula parish, Saline Lake field: The Hunt Oil Company, et al, La Del Hrd. Lbr. Co., Inc., et al, No. 12 in 7-4-5E.

Concordia parish, Lake St. John field: The California Company's Applegate-Woods, et al, Unit No. 1 in 12-9-10E.

LaSalle parish, wildcat field: H. L. Hunt Company-Nebo Oil Co., Inc. No. F-147 in 8-8-2E.

EIGHT SECTIONS ADDED TO FIELD

State Department Of Conservation Extends Bodcaw Sand Area

BATON ROUGE, La., June 18.—(AP)—The state department of conservation last week extended the Bodcaw sand area of the Hico-Knowles field, in Lincoln parish, to include egiht sections.

In one of several orders issued, the department approved a request by Carter Oil Co. That the area be extended to include sections 9, 10, 11, 14, 15, 16, 22 and 23 of township 20 north, range 3 west.

A well drilled in the northeast quarter of the southwest quarter of S15-20N-3W, the department found, was proven productive of gas and/or condensate from the Bodcaw sand.

Other orders issued today, by fields, were:

Haynesville-authorizing Ohio Oil Co., to continue their Buckrange water injection program.

North Elton—authorizing dual completion by Lloyd H. Smith of his William Reese well No. 1.

Ora—granting Crawford Drilling Co., permit to drill in S24-22N-1W.

Egan—pooling the 48-acre "Sun-Sohio Eshibit a drilling unit, with Sun-Sohio as operator.

Vinton—granting Union Oil Co., of California permit to drill three wells in the "A Zone" area.

Reddell—adopting Noel unit No. 1 as a Tate sand drilling unit.

Athens—assigning a 160-acre drilling unit to Skelly Oil Co.'s Anne C. Hudson well No. 1.

Iowa—approving use by Shell Oil Co., of liquid meters.

University—reforming drilling units raound the A. J. Bankhead-Kennard No. 1 well.

Northeast Lisbon—revising drilling units in S2-21N-4W.

Lisbon—permitting Midstates Oil Corp., to drill in S14-20-5W.

OIL OUTPUT IN U. S. TAKES DIP

Drop Is Attributed To Downward Revisions And Voluntary Pro-Rationing

TULSA, Okla., June 18.—(AP)—The United States' daily average crude oil production for the week ended June 11 slumped 44,215 barrels under the previous week's figures, The Oil & Gas Journal reported.

The Journal attributed the drop to downward revisions in some states' allowables and voluntary pro-ration by many operators.

The total daily average production was 4,880,750 barrels.

Four states accounted for the bulk of the decline. Oklahoma had the largest loss, 19,300 barrels to 405,750; Kansas was off 18,650 barrels to 270,600, California dropped 11,300 to 923,600, and Mississippi fell 10,850 to 98,500.

Other losses included the eastern area, down 3,300 barrels to 59,000; Colorado, 1,700 to 64,500, and Wyoming, 700 to 124,900.

Texas had the largest increase in production, up 10,025 barrels to 1,908,000.

Other sizeable gains were reported in Michigan, up 3,200 barrels to 41,600; Louisiana, 3,125 to 508,600, and New Mexico, 3,460 to 137,900.

Illinois increased 200 barrels to 176,600, Indiana gained 400 to 26,000, Florida added 125 to 1,400, Kentucky was up 100 to 24,400, Arkansas gained 600 to 80,500, Nebraska increased 150 to 400 and Montana jumped 200 to 27,500.

Production was unchanged in Alabama, 1,200 barrels, and Utah, 500.

	June 11 Crude Oil	B of M June Demand	June 4
Louisiana	508,600	487,000	505,475
North Louisiana	118,600	117,800
South Louisiana	390,000		387,675
Mississippi	98,500	114,000	109,350

OIL OPERATIONS IN OKLA. FALL

Only Sixty-Four New Locations Staked Out; Rains Slow Drills

TULSA, Okla., June 18.—(AP)—Explorations and completions in Oklahoma oil fields have hit the skids, moistened by scattered rains.

Finals for the week, according to the Tulsa World, were down to 93 from 119 a week ago. There were but 64 new locations staked out compared to 81 during the previous seven-day period.

The week's report: 40 producers, 46 dry holes, seven gas wells; initial daily output of oil, 4,265 barrels; of gas, 54,413,000 cubic feet; drilling totalled 276,457 feet.

Twenty-six counties were represented in the 64 starts. Garvin and Stephens led with 12 and nine, respectively.

Prize oiler was the No. 1 tims—SE SE NW of 6-3-5W in Grady county—which was completed at 5,368 feet following 940 barrels of oil in 18 1/4 hours through choke. It belongs to the Ohio Oil Co.

WELL PRODUCING NEAR DOWNTOWN NEW ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—(AP)—A wildcat oil well is producing just 10 miles from New Orleans business district.

Promoters of the test well, Humble Oil and Refining Company, say it is producing about 130 barrels per day. The test was drilled to a depth of 10,029 feet with oil bearing sands encountered around the 8,000-foot level. Oil produced is said to be of 31 degrees gravity with 523 cubic feet of gas being recovered from each barrel produced.

The area, about four miles west of Westwego, was opened early in 1940 by the Titanic Oil Company who brought in a flowing well to the east but abandoned the test after attempts to shut off a salt water flow failed. The new well is the closest strike to New Orleans in many years.

GAS WELL IS FOUND IN GULF OF MEXICO

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.—(AP)—Pure Oil Co.'s first gas strike in the Gulf of Mexico came in this week, gushing 1,049,000 cubic feet daily.

The well is about eight miles off the Vermilion parish shoreline south of White Lake. The well is now shut in.

The hole was drilled to 10,379 feet from the same platform where Pure Oil previously drilled two dry holes.

Far East

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Some government officials expect an increase in the export of United States merchandise to Communist portions of China as a result of the trade regulations which the Reds have just announced. A big back-log of Chinese orders piled up in this country after the Nationalists refused to allow the goods to enter China.

Various Filipino groups are increasing their efforts to collect more war payments from the United States before the present session of congress ends. One of them, the Philippine Ex-Political Prisoners Association, says its members are entitled to reimbursements from the United States amounting to $100,000,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Grains moved upward in fairly brisk dealings toward the close on the board of trade today.

Wheat closed 1/4-1 1/4 higher, July $1.94 7/8-3/4, corn was 1/8 lower to 3/8 higher, July $1.31 1/8-1/4, oats were 1/2-7/8 higher, July 59 7/8, rye was 3/4 higher, July $1.35 3/4, soybeans were 1/2-3/4 higher, July $2.28 3/4-$2.29, and lard was 5 cents lower to 2 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $11.30.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

CHICAGO, June 18.—(AP)—Wheat: Steady; cash prices rise. Corn: Steady with wheat. Oats: Steady in light trade. Hogs: Nominally steady. Cattle: Nominally steady.

120 BOY SCOUTS IN THEIR CAMP

Ki-Ro-Li Scene Of Lively Interest; Eight Troops Represented

Camp Ki-Ro-Li, the Ouachita Valley Council Boy Scout camp, has been filled with activity this past week as one hundred and twenty enthusiastic scouts jammed its facilities to the limit. These boys were representatives of eight different troops from several communities in the council and attended the camp under the leadership of their own scoutmasters.

Throughout the week these troops took advantage of the many program activities which the camp offers. Some found the rifle and archery range of great interest, while others enjoyed the nature trail, tracking and trailing area, axe yard, rope yard, outpost camp, handicraft lodge, and other scoutcraft features. The swimming pool was also very popular, and every boy in camp who was not already a swimmer, learned to swim.

Several troops also took part in special events which were conducted, including a gold rush, compass hikes, stalking games, star study, and special campfires. The closing campfire on Friday night featured an unusual order of the arrow ceremony, in which new candidates for the National Honor Campers' Society were called out. After the campfire, a large number of campers were given camp honor awards in a special Indian ceremony.

Needless to say, the camp dining hall was the most popular spot in camp. Here the boys put away enormous quantities of food to provide energy for their unusual amount of activities during the week. The camp trading post was also a very popular spot for the scouts. Here they obtained materials for handicraft work, post cards, camp T-shirts, emblems, candies, and other notions which are a necessary part of the camp life.

The camp closed Saturday afternoon as scouts were busy completing projects which they had been working on during the week and staff members were busy making ready for another big week of camp, providing everything that a boy could desire in the way of wholesome fun and scoutcraft.

The camp staff, which is very well trained and thoroughly qualified to direct the program at Camp Ki-Ro-Li this summer, includes: Gerry Harrigill, camp director; Ray Owens, activities director; Joe Anderson, assistant activities director; Leon Pratt, assistant activities director; Hal Bynum, waterfront director; Arthur Hugh Matthews, Troop 28, Monroe; Frank King, Troop 99, Winnfield; John Hall, Charles Wyly, Troop 57, Delhi; Ernest Whitman, Jack Ensminger, Jerry Furr, Jay Pierron, Troop 54, Wisner; W. A. Bradshaw, Lytle Matkins, Troop 67, Sterlington; Bill Wheelis, Troop 32, Monroe; Jerry Garner, Troop 26, Monroe; Frank Mobley, Troop 34, Monroe.

The public is invited to drive out to Camp Ki-Ro-Li, located just off the old Arkansas road about five miles west of West Monroe, at any time in order to see the scouts of the Ouachita Valley Council in action.

WILDLIFE GROUP TO MEET JUNE 21

FERRIDAY, La., June 18.—(Special)—A meeting to form a Concordia parish chapter of the Louisiana Wildlife Conservation Federation will be held at the Ferriday High School auditorium on June 21 at 8 o'clock.

Announcement of the meeting was made by Lloyd Love, of Ferriday, who urged all parish citizens to attend in an effort to save the parish's wild life from total destruction by visiting hunters.

He said an official from the state federation will be present and a group from the LaSalle parish chapter will also be on hand. Wild life movies will be shown.

The Babylonians developed banks as early as 2,000 B. C.

WITH THE FESTIVAL OVER, OUR ENSEMBLE TAKES OVER LONDON

Having won fourth place among 64 choral groups in the famed music festival at Llangollen, Wales, the ensemble of Ouachita Parish High School sets out on a sightseeing tour of western Europe. Here they are pictured on a trip through London. In the top photo, the 17 boys and girls from Ouachita parish are outside historic Prince Albert hall, and, below, a part of the group stops to chat with a good-natured London bobby on a busy street in the British capital. The expressions on the faces of both parties indicate that each is wondering "What's this all about?" Following their stay in London and other parts of England the local youngsters will visit The Netherlands, Belgium and France before returning to the British Isles for the flight by Pan American clipper back to the United States on June 27.

ENRIGHT ELECTED POST COMMANDER

JONESVILLE, La., June 18.—(Special)—Martin Enright was elected commander of the Sicily Island post of the American Legion at the regular monthly meeting held on Thursday of last week. He succeeds M. I. Saltzman, who served the legion as chief officer during the past year.

Elected to serve with Enright for the coming year were Barney Thompson, vice-commander; H. T. Young, chaplin; George Punchard, sergeant-at-arms, and J. C. Gilbert, adjutant.

"Some very important legion business was discussed at the meeting Thursday and was tabled until the next meeting," according to Gilbert. "This next meeting will be on Thursday, July 7, and we would like for all members of the post to be there."

HOSPITAL GROUP AT CONVENTION

Director Burgoyne Of St. Francis And Supervisors Attend Sessions

During the past week, three members of the administrative staff at St. Francis Sanitarium, Monroe, were present at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Catholic Hospital Association of the United States and Canada, in St. Louis, Mo. Sister Patrick, supervisor of the fifth floor, Sister Michael, a supervisor on the second floor, and S. E. Burgoyne, business director of the sanitarium, were privileged to attend the sessions of the convention in the Kiel auditorium from June 13th through June 16th.

Some 3,000 delegates, members and visitors were present at this annual meeting for the purpose of discussing hospital problems and offering practical solutions to these problems. Outstanding and prominent administrators and executives of the Catholic hospitals of the United States and Canada were present and gave the members in attendance the benefit of their knowledge and experience in the efficient operation of hospitals.

Among the authorities in the hospital field making addresses at the meeting were Rt. Rev. Msgr. George L. Smith, president of the convention; Dr. E. L. Crosby, director of Johns-Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore; Joseph G. Norby, president of the American Hospital Association; John J. Griffin, vice-president of the Industrial Bank of St. Louis, and many others of equal prominence and ability. The theme of the convention for 1949 was "Meeting the Crisis In Health Care" and this theme was expertly developed from all angles by the speakers of the convention.

Another outstanding event of the meeting was the technical exhibits by manufacturers and dealers in hospital equipment and supplies. Some 180 exhibitors showed hospital delegates and visitors the latest in equipment for hospital use and supplies for hospital consumption. These displays are one of the important features of the convention, since it enables hospital executives and those in charge of purchases to view all the latest equipment and supplies at once time and under one roof. All manufacturers have experienced personnel present to explain to those interested the latest improvements in equipment and technical supplies. Thus one of the primary purposes of the annual meeting, namely to keep all members informed of all late developments in the hospital field, is accomplished in an efficient manner.

All hospitals have a common aim and purpose of existence, to take care of those in distress and to alleviate pain and suffering with every modern and technical help provided by the medical and hospital world; such meetings provide a method for keeping abreast with the times in this ever- changing scientific and medical field.

REBEKAH LODGE TO MEET ON MONDAY

Monroe Rebekah Lodge No. 66 will hold the regular meeting in the Woodmen of the World hall June 20 with Mrs. Mattie Edney, noble grand, presiding. This will be the last meeting night of the attendance contest. It also will be the last meeting before the joint public installation of officers.

On the night of July 2 there will be a joint public installation with Ouachita Lodge No. 2 and Fort Miro Encampment No. 15.

All grand lodge officers, grand encampment officers and officers of the Rebekah assembly are expected to be present.

U. S. Could Step Quickly Into Missile Production

By Elton C. Fay

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Should war come tomorrow the United States probably could step right into mass production of guided missiles able to seek and strike the highest and fastest flying bombers.

Reporting this today, exponents of the new anti aircraft weapon told a newsman however, that unless compelled to begin production immediately, further improvement of design is desirable. The suggestion was that several years would be needed for perfection of the missiles under peacetime conditions.

If development of this top-ranking defensive weapon has progressed to the point claimed by some guided missiles men, it can have profound effect on the current controversy over the relative capabilities of fighter planes and long range bombers, such as the B-36.

Some saw in it the comparative relegation of the interceptor-fighter to a secondary position and a challenge to strategic bombers more serious than any imposed by ordinary, manned jet fighters.

Of equal importance, there is in these tactical robot rockets hope for at least some degree of interception of long range intercontinental guided missiles of the future which would travel too swiftly for even the fastest jet fighter.

The guided missiles experts hasten to explain that this progress with anti-aircraft rockets does not mean any nation is at a corresponding stage of development in the intercontinental strategic rocket. That, most responsible authorities believe, is still a decade or two away.

On the basis of information already made known by the armed forces and rocket experts, development of the robot bomber-killer appears to have followed these lines:

The missile, rocket-powered, would be capable of speed well beyond sound (760 miles an hour at sea leved) and perhaps actually around 2,000 miles an hour. While the ram-jet engine offers hope for eventual propulsion of the missiles, scientists are encountered difficulties at present. (The ram-jet is an ultra-simplified gadget, a "flying stove pipe" which uses its forward speed to compress air for feeding into the combustion of fuel to produce thrust. It must be brought up to speed above that of sound to start the ram-jet effect).

MANY TAKE RANK OF KNIGHT

Stonewall Lodge No. 8, Knights of Pythias, held a very interesting meeting Thursday night, June 16, in the Castle Hall, 127 1/2 St. Johns street. There was a large class for the rank of knight. There were many other things of interest which came up at this meeting. The fifth Thursday meeting which will come up on June 30 was discussed. It is understood the Pythian sister from Friendship Temple No. 3 will give the Knights a new view of the Pythian work.

MIN SAM KIH TO RECEIVE DEGREE UNDER AUSPICES OF LA. FEDERATION

A Korean girl may be the first of her generation to receive a doctor's degree in the United States as a result of the Louisiana Federation of Women's Clubs' program to strengthen friendly relations with women of the world and to help them rebuild their countries, according to Mrs. Samuel Levy, state president.

Min Sam Kih, a lovely young Korean girl was awarded a scholarship by the federation. Another Korean woman, Dr. Monika Kehoe, a staff counselor for the United Nations, Lake Success, N. Y., arranged Miss Kih's trip to the United States and her enrollment at Hofstra College, Great Neck, Long Island.

The New York State Board of Education recently declared Miss Kih eligible to enter graduate school in the fall. She has transferred to Adelphi College in the same Long Island county, and will there initiate her studies at the graduate level in the fall.

The federation's members last November contributed to a fund which was to enable Miss Kih to visit Louisiana during the Christmas season. Because of the press of her studies, Miss Kih was unable to make the trip, however, gifts were sent to her from the various clubs at that time.

Mrs. J. L. Blair Buck, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, national organization, visited Miss Kih's home in Korea last year. She will report to the Louisiana Federation in the fall on her trip to Korea and her visit to the family of Miss Kih, according to Mrs. Levy.

Mrs. Esther Wong Park, president of the Korean Federation, attended the national federation meeting at Hollywood, Florida, recently. The Louisiana Federation is aiding in sending Mrs. Park to New York School of Social Work, according to Mrs. Levy. The Louisiana delegates to the national convention visited Mrs. Park and discussed the education of Miss Kih, whom she knew well, Mrs. Levy said.

Mrs. Levy expects to visit Dr. Kehoe and Miss Kih in the fall when she attends the general federation board meeting and the Herald Tribune Forum in New York.

COLLINSTON

Mrs. Jack Dawson Langston and sons, J. D., Jr., and Russell Lee, visited recently in Minden in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Norman. The pleasure of Mrs. Langston's visit was enhanced by the presence of her sister, Mrs. George Behuniak, and little son of Peekskill, N. Y.

The W. S. C. S. met in the home of Mrs. Alton Norsworthy for its monthly study. Mrs. Nortsworthy reviewed the closing chapters of Kathleen MacArthur's book, "The Bible and Human Rights." The themes of these chapters were on the right to freedom of conscience and expression.

Mrs. A. H. Harper opened the preceding business session by reading from Acts 2:37-42. After the regular order of business and several interesting reports and making of pledges for the new church year, the meeting was closed with prayer by Rev. E. W. Corley.

Mrs. Norsworthy refreshed her guests upon arrival with iced colas and served at the close of the meeting a delicious congealed salad course with iced tea. Present were Mrs. A. H. Harper, Mrs. A. J. Tarver, Mrs. Torris Eldridge, Mrs. John Gobble, Mrs. Guy Boyd, Mrs. B. W. Hopgood, Mrs. R. O. Richards, Mrs. Dale Lowrey, Mrs. Windsor Puckett, Mrs. Fannie Higginbotham, Mrs. E. W. Corley, Rev. Corley, Miss Marie Hodges, and the hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Thompson and family had as recent guests her mother, Mrs. B. C. Kimble, and Mrs. P. R. Ferguson and daughter, Jean, of Winsner.

Mr. and Mrs. Olan Dawson and infant daughter, Peggy, of Monroe, stopped in Collinston for a brief visit with Mrs. Dawson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gobble, when they made their return trip from a vacation spent in Ohio.

An outstanding event in Collinston was the recital given by Mrs. B. W. Hopgood's piano class. The all-girl class presented a lovely picture in pastel floor-length frocks. The music itself was impressive for the taste and fitness of the selections for each student.

The students' music portfolios were displayed for judging. The highest number of votes was cast for the one belonging to little Miss Donna Mae Nash.

A delightful social hour followed in recital. Mrs. Hopgood and her class served punch and cake to the guests.

MRS. W. D. WOMACK FETES GARDEN CLUB MEMBERS AT MEETING

Members of the College Heights Garden Club assembled last week for a short business session in the home of Mrs. W. D. Womack, with Mrs. J. Y. Brooks as co-hostess.

At this time new year books were distributed by the program chairman and a vote of thanks was given the committee which planned them.

Mrs. W. W. Stevens, president, told of recent developments on the current club project, and attention was called to the blooming crepe myrtles in the mass planting down the boulevard on College avenue which was sponsored by this club in the early spring.

The horticulture chairman, Mrs. Culbert Lee, gave a report of what can be planted during this month.

Mrs. E. C. Rowan was welcomed as a new member.

Dispensing with the scheduled program, the meeting was adjourned in order that members might go in a body to a flower show in West Monroe through invitation of the Welcome Garden Club.

Those in attendance were: Mrs. Faheam Cannon, Mrs. J. M. Gilstrap, Mrs. Raymond John, Mrs. Culbert Mrs. G. W. Levert, Mrs. John Loftin, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Jr., Mrs. George Pearce, Jr., Mrs. C. R. Peterson, Mrs. Vann Pratt, Mrs. H. P. Primm, Mrs. E. C. Rowan, Mrs. R. F. Seiler, Mrs. H. F. Shepard, Mrs. W. W. Stevens, Mrs. J. H. Walker, Mrs. Sidney Williams, Mrs. J. Y. Brooks and Mrs. W. D. Womack.

Miss Garelick Is Graduate At Eastman

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Garelick are in Rochester, N. Y., to attend the graduation of their daughter, Miss Bennie Garelick, from the Eastman School of Music.

Miss Garelick mastered in violin and has won acclaim as a soloist with the Rochester Symphony orchestra. She gained her "performer's certificate" on the basis of her outstanding work with this group of talented musicians.

Mr. and Mrs. Garelick will be joined by their daughter, Maryanna, of New York City, for the graduation exercises at the music school at Rochester.

RECENT GRADUATE

Miss Gene Courtney, daughter of Mrs. E. G. Courtney, Jr., and the late Mr. Courtney, is a recent graduate of Louisiana Polytechnic Institute at Ruston.

AVE NELL LANKFORD IS WED TO MR. DOUGLAS EUBANK OF MER ROUGE

Scene of the wedding of Ave Nell Lankford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Calk, of Bastrop, and Douglas Eubanks, of Mer Rouge, son of Mrs. Albert Eubanks, on June 5 at 5 p. m. was the Mer Rouge Baptist Church. The Rev. Alfred Schwab conducted the impressive double ring ceremony.

Beautiful white daisies and roses intermingled with shadowy green southern smilax in tall floor standards, blended to form an impressive setting for the nuptials. Wreaths of trailing smilax placed at vantage points further adorned the altar. Indicating reserved pews were stately magnolia blossoms encircled by daisies and greenery.

Music was rendered by Miss Margaret Garrett at the piano. She also accompanied E. M. Wooten, tenor soloist of Monroe, who sang, "Oh, Promise Me" and "Because." The traditional wedding marches from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn were used as processional and recessional.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Bill Givens, sister of the groom. Her informal costume was created of pale yellow shadow organdy with dainty scalloped neckline and sleeves. Featuring the diaphonous skirt was a circular scalloped peplum. The costume was complete with a large picture hat and accessories of white. Victoria asters entwined with maline in delicate shades of orchid and tied with chartreuse ribbon formed the nosegay bouquet carried by the attendant.

Miss Margaret Jacobs, who served as bridesmaid, was similarly attired in pale pink shadow organdy. Her orchid-tinted bouquet was tied with shaded pink ribbon and turfts of pink maline.

Best man to the groom was Johnny Myers. J. J. Fitch attended as groomsman.

Guests were received in the living room by the bridal party. For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother chose a distinctive aqua model complemented by a picture hat of black maline and white and black combined accessories. Her corsage was of pink sweetheart roses. The groom's mother was clad in navy blue sheer with pink trim. A pink hat and gloves with other accessories of navy enhanced her costume. Pink carnations formed her corsage.

Approximately 25 guests were present for the reception.

The bride's traveling ensemble was designed with a navy blue skirt and white and blue flowered waist. A lovely navy cape was lined with similarly-figured material. White lace gloves and accessories and the addition of a white close-fitting hat ornamented by flowers and veiling of white completed the costume. The orchid from the bridal bouquet formed her corsage.

Following a wedding trip to New Orleans the couple are currently at home in Mer Rouge.

The bride attended Ouachita Parish High School and Bastrop Commerical School and is presently employed at the Louisiana Power and Light Company.

A graduate of Mer Rouge High School, the groom attended Louisiana Tech and L. S. U. He is now associated with the Bastrop Bank and Trust Company.

BRIDE

Miss Frances Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Williams of Huttig, Ark., who became the bride of Mr. Jack Molnaird, son of Mrs. L. C. Molnaird of Haile, at the home of her parents yesterday.

TALLULAH

The Madison Parish Garden Club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Dave Kaufman, with Mrs. Kate Watson and Mrs. M. Saewitz as co-hostesses. Mrs. A. E. Sparling presided, and Mrs. Claude Grimes served as secretary. As leader of the program, Mrs. S. B. Bettis introduced Mrs. J. H. Devine, who gave an informative talk on the control of insects and fungus.

The floral arrangement of the hostesses served a delicious frozen fruit salad course. There was a large attendance of members. Mrs. Chris Keller and Mrs. O. D. Bratton of Memphis, were welcomed guests.

The Town and Country Club enjoyed a potluck supper at the home of Mrs. Maurice Ursery on Friday evening. At the close of the meal, bingo games were enjoyed.

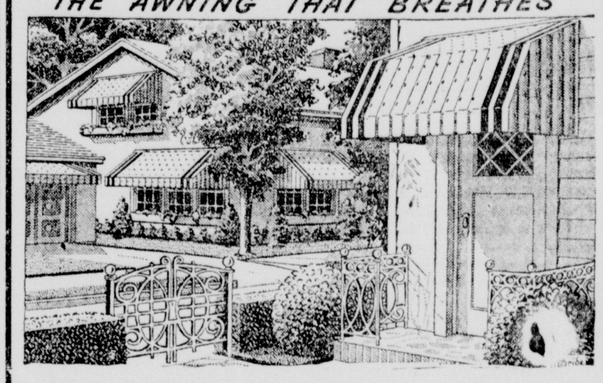

Mrs. A. L. Lane, who has been spending the winter months in Lake Charles, has returned to Tallulah and is a guest of her daughter, Mrs. W. B. Williams and family.

Mrs. Paul Barber, Mrs. Richard Almond and Bernard Frierson, left recently for a trip to Houston and Freeport, Tex., where they will visit relatives.

Friday

A dinner for the men of the First Methodist Church will be held at 7 p.m. to be followed by a program on missions for all church members.

Make a quick chicken paprika dish by adding about a half cup of diced onions and a tablespoon of paprika to a large frying chicken when you are browning it; then add a cup of stock cover the pan, and cook until tender. Just before serving mix a cup of sour cream into the gravy, correct the seasoning, heat thoroughly, and serve over poppyseed noodles.

MISS GENELLE KENNEDY IS WED TO THE REV. DOWELL PRENTICE WORSHAM

In an impressive double ring ceremony at the First Baptist Church in Farmerville on Tuesday evening, June 7th at 7:30 o'clock, Miss Genelle Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Kennedy, became the bride of the Rev. Dowell Prentice Worsham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Worsham of Georgetown. The Rev. Luther B. Hall, pastor, officiated.

A heart covered with southern smilax interspersed with white roses, flanked by seven branched candelabras, floorally adorned, formed the background for the ceremony. The same flowers and greenery with tall white tapers at intervals covered the chancel railing, and bowls of shasta daisies were placed on the newel posts. Baskets of peonies, lilies and gladiola graced the rostrum and each side of the steps leading to the altar.

The ushers were Mr. Lonnie Black, Jr., Mr. Olin Clements, Wayne Strother of Georgetown and the Rev. Eugene Langford of DeBerry, Texas. While they were seating the guests and lighting the candles, a program of prenuptial music was rendered by Mrs. Frank Yelton. She also accompanied Mr. Fred Ellerbe, of Winnsboro, who sang "Because" and "Always."

The bridesmaids, Mrs. Lonnie Black, Jr., Misses Jean Phelps, Ruth Hartman and Miss Anita Health of Baton Rouge, wore off the shoulder dresses of green organdy, with ruffled berthas and two wide ruffles on the skirts. Their large crownless picture hats were of the same material, trimmed with double ruffles. Miss Jean Dawkins, maid of honor, was similarly gowned except that her skirt was formed entirely of ruffles. They wore single strands of pearls and their ear screws were gifts of the bride. They carried colonial bouquets of shasta daisies and green tulle with long streamers of dark green ribbon. The maid of honor's bouquet was all of white.

Master John Lloyd Albritton served as ringbearer, carrying the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow.

The flower girl, Dorothy Ann Burnside of El Dorado, was in white, her dress and hat being replicas of the bridesmaids'. She scattered rose petals in the path of the bride, who entered with her father, as Mrs. Yelton played the wedding march from Lohengrin. Her dress of shimmering satin was made with high net yoke joined to the bodice with a scalloped bertha. The close fitting sleeves came to points over the hands and the skirt, long and full, ended in a train. Her fingertip veil of French illusion, was caught to the hair with a tiara of pearls. Her only ornament was an antique gold locket, a family hairloom. She also wore something new, borrowed and blue. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid, gardenias and tuberoses with streamers of white satin robbin.

The groom, awaiting at the altar, was attended by Mr. Bill Hunt, of Minden.

During the ceremony "Traumerei" and "Romance" were softly played, and for the benediction, Mr. Ellerbe gave a beautiful rendition of "The Lord's Prayer."

Mendelssohn's wedding march was used as recessional.

The bride's mother, was becomingly gowned in grey crepe with corsage of pink carnations and pink flowers on her hat.

A reception was held in the Men's Bible Class room of the church. Mrs. A. C. Buckley, Jr., presided over the bride's book, in which the guests registered.

The bride's table, overlaid with a handsome embroidered linen cloth, bore an artistic arrangement of gardenias in a low crystal contained with tall white tapers burning in silver solders. Gardenias surrounded the three-tiered wedding cake, which was embossed with rosebuds and topped with a miniature bride and groom. After the bride cut the first slice, it was served, together with individual embossed cakes by Miss Margie Beale, Miss Peggy Brashier, of El Dorado, poured punch from a crystal bowl, encircled by gardenias.

Magnolias, gardenias and mixed flowers were used on the piano and tables. Floor baskets of these and other fragrant blossoms completed the decorations. Following the reception, the couple left for a short bridal trip. Mrs. Worshaw changed to a dress of navy blue taffeta with accessories of navy and pink and corsage of orchid.

Rev. and Mrs. Worsham are graduates of Louisiana College and for the present will make their home in Pineville.

This is your day, Dad. Will you take time out to listen to some of the things I want very much to say? You are always deep in doing something; somehow there's never a right time for handing you bouquets. I am afraid we'd both act foolish if I tried to tell you, face to face, out loud, fancy words of gratitude and praise. Even on paper I can't use sticky adjectives for you, Dad... that's not your dish. Orchids, adjectives... Mother loves them, God bless her!... but for you, Dad, I'll put it to you straight: YOU ARE AN OK GUY, THROUGH AND THROUGH.

I am beginning to see what it takes to hold up your end of the plank, Dad ... to keep plugging along, day, after day, facing the same old grind, taking the licks from a crabbed public, juggling living expenses, figuring what's best to do now and planning for a family's future. STAMINA, DAD, FORTITUDE; THOSE ARE WORDS FOR YOU.

I am beginning to notice that it is a long time between shoes with you, Dad, that you postpone buying a new hat, that you manage to make one suit serve for several, that you don't buy yourself books any more. You don't look as slick as you used to. The rent is never overdue. There are no collectors banging our door. There's always good food on the table. Mother belongs to clubs and wears pretty clothes. Sister and Brother and I have everything we need... without a hitch; we haven't known any money shortage. You fight that battle for us, Dad, without one word of complaint. That's LIVING LOVE, UNSELFISHNESS.

There's something else I've learned: All Dads are not like you, and I am glad you are mine. I visit some friends and see their Dads drinking; I hear them cursing and swearing, and squabbling over money. It means a great deal to me, Dad, that I had to leave home to find that ugliness. CLEAN, DAD, THAT'S ANOTHER WORD FOR YOU... AND FINE. Thank you, Dad; my heritage is rich.

BRIDAL COUPLE

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Roberson, Jr., photographed at a reception at the home of the bride's parents, following their recent wedding at the Sterlington Baptist Church. The bride is the former Miss Helen Hutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Hutson. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. R. C. Roberson of Haile.

TALLULAH

Mrs. G. L. Garrison and Miss Alta Gwynne Garrison left Tuesday for Washington, D. C., where they will visit relatives.

Mrs. B. D. Capshaw of Lawton, Oklahoma, and Mrs. Charles Beckett of Memphis, Tenn., were honorees at a rummy party on Tuesday afternoon at the Henry Sevier home with Mrs. Rufus Yerger and Mrs. E. B. Towne, Jr., as co-hostesses. Many lovely flower arrangements added to the pleasure of the occasion.

At the close of the games tempting refreshments were attractively served. The guests included Mrs. Capshaw, Mrs. Beckett, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Jr., Mrs. Fred Edgerton, Mrs. Bill Pippin, Mrs. William Bray, Mrs. Mac Cagnolatti, Mrs. Harry Holt and Mrs. Edward Williams of Baton Rouge.

Mrs. J. R. Linton and Mrs. C. S. Pierce entertained with a lovely miscellaneous shower on Friday afternoon complimentary to Miss Ruth Read, a bride-elect whose marriage to John D. Calhoun of Ruston took place June 6. The Linton home had been made especially attractive for the occasion, a pink and white color theme predominating in the decorations of pink hydrangeas, daisies and other flowers.

Guests were seated on the spacious porch where a table holding the gifts was placed near the center. The happy bride-elect, wearing a two-piece dress of white pique was presented with a corsage of pink carnations, a gift of the hostesses. As she unwrapped each package, Miss Frances Ruth Henry, her maid of honor, who wore an afternoon dress of pale pink broadcloth, recorded the gifts which were then passed to the guests. Many beautiful and useful articles in the bride's chosen patterns of silver, crystal and china were received as well as linens and kitchen ware for her new home. Mrs. W. S. Pierce presided over the guest book.

Following the opening of gifts refreshments of ice cream and individual embossed cakes bearing the initials R. and J. were served from the beautifully appointed table with its lace cover and centered with an arrangement of pink asters, shasta daisies and pink hydrangeas, flanked by tall white tapers in crystal holders.

A large number of guests called during the appointed hours.

Mrs. James Holloway of Dallas, Texas, is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. D. Martin.

Mrs. Webb Williams and Mrs. Maurice Ursery were hostesses at the Williams home when they entertained with a delightful buffet supper on Saturday evening following the rehearsal for the Calhoun-Read wedding.

The refreshment table with its handmade lace cloth held a lovely flat arrangement of cape jasmine and English ivy surrounding a group of white candles in silver holders. The nuptial theme was emphasized in the attractive place cards decorated with wedding bells and the individual cakes, each embossed with the same symbol.

A delectable supper was served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. G. L. Garrison and Mrs. W. W. Pippin. Those in attendance were Miss Read and Mr. Calhoun, Miss Frances Ruth Henry, John Wantland and L. R. Daniels of Ruston, Tom Nelson of Seattle, Washington, Mrs. John D. Calhoun and Miss Gussie Calhoun of Benton, Rev. and Mrs. John F. Kilpatrick, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Williams of Vicksburg, Mrs. Erle Read, Erle Read, Jr., Mrs. V. R. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Williams of Baton Rouge, Warren Williams, Webb Williams and Maurice Ursery.

Friends here will be interested to Mrs. George McGuire and children Ed, Will and George and Betty are visiting Mrs. McGuire's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Gilfoil.

Mrs. O. D. Bratton of Memphis, who is the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Myles Hopkins, was delightfully complimented on Wednesday by Mrs. R. E. Gilbert and Mrs. C. E. Speed who entertained at the latter's home with three tables of bridge. Mrs. Bratton was presented with a guest prize and the high score prize which she presented to Mrs. M. A. Phillips, winner of the second high score. The consolation prize was won by Mrs. Myles Hopkins.

A delicious salad course was served after the games to Mrs. J. R. Linton, Mrs. A. L. Sevier, Mrs. Henry Sevier, Mrs. Mason Spencer, Mrs. J. H. Devine, Mrs. V. K. Scott, Miss Frances Alexandrer, Mrs. Richard Alexander, Mrs. Myles Hopkins, Mrs. Z. L. Chambliss, Mrs. M. A. Phillips and Mrs. Bratton. Mrs. Mae Curtis was a tea guest.

Miss Ruth Read and John D. Calhoun, whose marriage was celebrated on Monday afternoon were delightfully complimented on Sunday afternoon when Mrs. Gus Willett entertained with a family gathering at her lovely home on Johnson street. Relatives of the bride and groom elect were privileged to meet and enjoy a delightful informal conversational hour as they mingled throughout the reception rooms, the pleasant porch and in the yard.

Miss Leo Adams presided in the dining room serving delicious sandwiches, individual embossed cakes and mints from the beautifully appointed lace draped table centered with a large bowl of pink hydrangeas.

There were a number of guests in attendance including those from Rayville, Benton and Bossier City.

HELEN HAYES AND JAMES P. NORRIS TO BE WED ON AUGUST SIXTEENTH

Mr. and Mrs. Howard R. Hayes announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Helen, to Mr. James Pascal Norris, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Pascal Norris, of West Monroe. The wedding will be celebrated Tuesday, August 16, at St. Matthew's Catholic Church.

Miss Hayes, an instructor in commerce at Northeast Junior College for the past three years, is a graduate of N. J. C. and Louisiana Polytechnic Institute. She has done graduate study at the University of Denver and Columbia University. As a student at the local college, she held membership in Phi Theta Kappa, national junior college honorary scholastic fraternity, Pow Wow staff, Purple Jackets, E. H. S. Club, and the Wesley Foundation. At Louisiana Tech she was active in Y. W. C. A. work and the Sigma Kappa sorority.

Miss Hayes is affiliated with the Young Women's Business and Professional Club, the United Business Education Association, and the Southern Business Education Association.

Mr. Norris, a senior in the law school of Louisiana State University, also is a graduate of Northeast Junior College, which he attended just prior to entering military service. At N. J. C. he held membership in the Men's Chorus, Delta Psi Omega, national honorary dramatic fraternity, Phi Theta Kappa, Newman Club, E. H. S. Club, and Pow Wow. At the university he is a member of Phi Delta Phi, honorary legal fraternity, and the student educational board of the Louisiana Law Review, quarterly publication.

His military record includes three and half years of duty in the army air force. Holding the rank of a first lieutenant, he served in the Pacific area as a B-29 pilot.

In making a white sauce melt the fat in a saucepan, then remove from the heat before adding the flour. Now add cold milk gradually, with the saucepan still off the heat, stirring as you do so. After all the milk has been added continue to stir well until there are no more lumps. A whisk is excellent to use for the stirring, but if you do not have one use a wooden spoon. A half teaspoon of salt is usually plenty for two cups of the sauce.

RIGHTS-OF-WAY TO BE SECURED

Jonesville Ring Levee Plans Getting Well Under Way There

JONESVILLE, La., June 18.—(Special)—With the U. S. engineers to open bids next Tuesday in New Orleans on two phases of work for the Jonesville ring levee, local preparations got well underway this week.

W. C. Brown, Catahoula member of the Tensas basin levee board, with Tom Hicks of West Monroe, board president, and J. W. Smith of Tallulah, resident engineer of the state department of public works, on Wednesday made arrangements with owners of property along the Black river, from the Magnolia Hotel to the Louisiana Midland Railroad, for moving of houses within the right-of-way.

"The cooperation we got was wonderful," Brown said. "There wasn't a bit of opposition from anyone, and we reached definite agreements about where each house will be moved. All the land-owners cooperated splendidly, and we certainly appreciated it, because by their doing so, Jonesville will probably get more benefits through the levee board than if costly legal measures had been necessary to get the houses moved."

The levee board will move out some equipment in next week to start work, Brown said, and on Monday, June 27, house movers will begin their job of moving residences on the right-of-way.

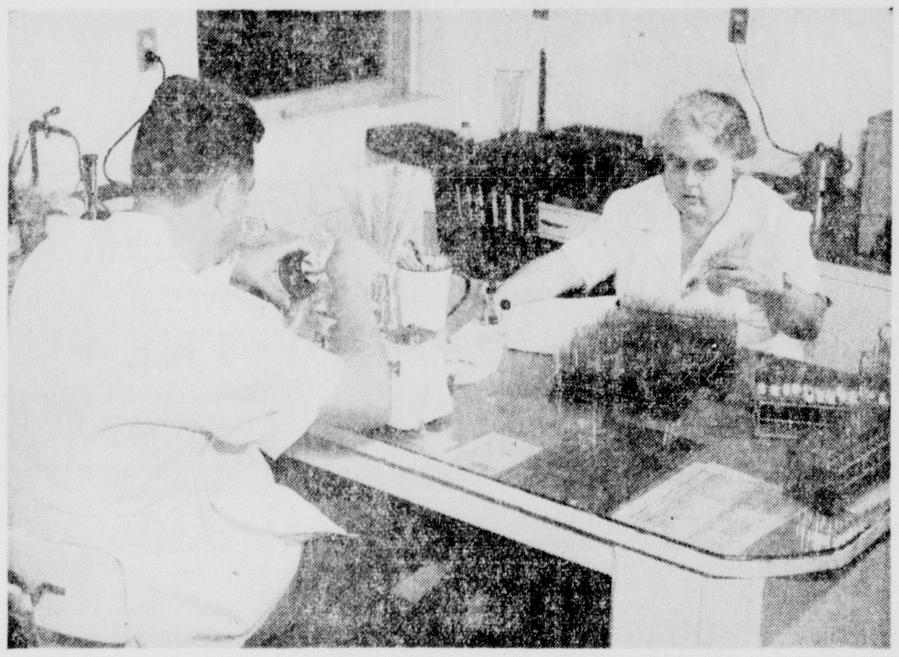

"By August," Brown said, "we should really be going good on the ring levee."

UNCLAIMED DOGS

Unclaimed dogs in the pound are reported by Dr. Boaz, acting director of the Ouachita Parish Health Unit, as follows: One red cur, one red pointer pup, one brown and white striped pointer bird dog, one red cur registered dog, one white liver spotted dog. The pointer bird dog and the white liver spotted dog are females, the other dogs listed are males.

VIEW IN LABORATORY SEROLOGY ROOM

Public Health Safeguarded By Model State Laboratory

The health of hundreds of thousands of people, residents throughout the fifth congressional district, is protected every day in the year by the Monroe branch laboratory of the state board of health. On the top floor of the parish health unit building water and milk are constantly analyzed to prevent impurities. Types of blood are determined; heads of animals believed to be affected with rabies are examined, and a general bacteriological test made in thousands of cases, all for the welfare and health of the public.

Complete redecoration and overhauling of the laboratory has been recently completed, states Miss Florence C. Drach, director.

The latest of equipment has been installed in the various rooms and departments of the institution which comprises the Northeast Louisiana Branch of the State Board of Health.

Eight rooms of the top floor are devoted to the use of the laboratory. One room is equipped for the serology department; nearby is the water and incubator room; a milk room is well-equipped; and the microscopic room has latest facilities for this line of work; the kitchen and sterilizing room, office and storage, complete the floor's facilities.

In the 19 years that Miss Drach has served as director, the laboratory has gone a long ways. Only 300 specimens were listed as the month's turnover when she took charge. Last month the figures were 15,500, she stated.

To carry on this important work which necessitates daily bacteriological examination of the city's drinking water and frequent milk inspection, Miss Drach has three technicians; three workers in the office and three colored helpers.

Originally the laboratory was supported by Ouachita parish, but eight years ago it was taken over by the Louisiana state board of health and its facilities and activities were at once greatly expanded. It now serves the area from here to the Mississippi river and virtually all parishes of the fifth congressional district.

Much of the blood examination work done originates from the various clinics operated in connection with the health units. The blood bank and practicing physicians' requests are numerous for blood analysis. This is likewise true of the diphtheria, meningitis and other communicable disease work which is in the service offered by the state department laboratories.

Municipal water supplies from the northeast district are run once or twice per month and the city of Monroe supply is run daily. Swimming pool samples from Monroe are run weekly and from other municipal pools usually monthly.

All milk supplies are run for bacteriological analysis at least four times for a grading period of six months and retail supplies are analyzed for bacteriological findings, butter fats and solids and added water.

Dog and other animal brains are examined for rabies. Recently very few have proved positive. Only 11 have been examined thus far in 1949 with no positive findings. In 1947 there were 52 examinations made with 16 positive findings and in 1948, there were 32 examinations which showed six positive findings.

There are five branch laboratories and the central laboratory comprising the laboratory division. The central laboratory is in New Orleans and branch laboratories are located in Shreveport, Alexandria, Franklin, Jennings and Monroe.

Miss Drach received a master of science degree in bacteriology and public health from the University of Chicago and has done special work at the tropical disease center in Atlanta. Before affiliating with the state health department, she taught bacteriology at the State College in Alabama and the State College in Virginia.

Caramel or chocolate sauce is delicious served over a simple and inexpensive vanilla cornstarch pudding. The sauce may be homemade or it can be had ready-prepared.

WOMEN VOTERS TO MEET ON TUESDAY

A large attendance is expected at the last general meeting of the League of Women Voters this season. It will be held at the Virginia Hotel Tuesday at noon. All members who have not yet made a reservation for this luncheon are urged to contact Mrs. John Fox before Tuesday. It is suggested that each member bring a visitor who is a prospective member.

Several important issues will be discussed and voted on at the luncheon which is expected to be a very enjoyable social event of the league.

FAMILY ASSEMBLES TO HONOR MOTHER

Mrs. Lillie May Harper, 1314 Nat street, celebrated her 80th birthday June 13 at her old home at Crowville.

Not only was it Mrs. Harper's birthday but it also proved a joyful reunion as all seven sons and daughters attended, with 28 grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and eight visitors also helped too complete the party.

This was the first reunion and it is to be an annual affair hereafter it was decided.

Mrs. Harper is the widow of D. E. Harper. She now lives with her daughter in West Monroe but had spent most of her married life in Crowville.

Hamburger steak is good broiled with tomato halves, mushrooms, slices of boiled sweet potato, and bacon slices. This makes a good "one-dish" dinner. Serve a green salad with it and a fruit-and-cooky dessert.

NAT'L QUALITY AWARDS GIVEN

Three Members Of Northeast La. Association Receive Recognition

National quality awards for the year of 1948 were presented to three Monroe members of the local Association of Life Underwriters at a recent meeting.

J. Arthur Smith, Jr., Julius E. Nelson and Edwin W. Crowley, received this award in recognition of their superior quality of life underwriting as judged under the standards of the National Association of Life Underwriters and the Life Insurange Agency Management Association.

Past presidents of the local organization, C. S. Walker and Joseph Preddy, made the presentation of this much-coveted award.

Qualifying for four successive years, J. Arthur Smith, Jr., has received double honors this month, with his election to presidency of the local association.

The national quality award is only presented to life underwriters who conduct themselves according to the highest standards of ethics; who place the best interests of their clients above themselves; who maintain a high standard of competence by means of continuous study and practice; who render the best possible life insurance service of which they are capable; who live as good citizens in their communities; and who conduct themselves so as to bring honor and prestige to themselves and others in the field of life underwriting.

Building Permits

Permission was granted S. W. Williams to construct a duplex apartment house at 1415 and 1417 South Grand. Cost is estimated at $8,000 and Murlin McRee will be contractor.

Miss Julia Wossman was given a permit allowing construction of a garage apartment at 1205 St. John street. Cost will be $2,075 and day labor will be utilized.

NEW INSURANCE OFFICERS

Northeast Louisiana Association of Life Underwriters recently elected the above local insurance agents to serve as the officers of the organization for 1949-50. Seated at table in a local hotel planning the programs for the coming year: (Left to right), L. A. Materne, 1st vice-president; J. Arthur Smith, Jr., president; R. H. Oliver, Jr., second vice-president, and R. B. Mullins, secretary and treasurer. The newly elected president, J. Arthur Smith, Jr., a veteran of World War II and past commander of the L. B. Faulk post of the American Legion, has been a life underwriter for the past 18 years in the city of Monroe.

3 SOUND MOVIES WILL BE SHOWN

Trinity Lutheran Church Will Have Night Program Today Of Interest

Tonight at 7:30 p.m. three sound movies will be shown at Trinity Lutheran Church, 300 D'Arbonne avenue, just south of N. J. C. Heading the list will be the familiar Bible story of the Prodigal Son as told vividly in a 22-minute film produced in Hollywood by Cathedral films and directed by the Rev. James K. Friedrich. Other titles for tonight include two color films, "Unfinished Rainbows," and "San Diego Zoo."

The film "The Prodigal Son" is not an interpretation, but the story itself as Jesus told it (St. Luke 15:11). Through the medium of the motion picture, the audience gains a marvelous insight into the manner of living at the time of Christ, and the full emotional impact of this famous story imparts a far more effective lesson than through any other method of teaching.

The shorter film (15 minutes) will be a color picture on the San Diego zoo, showing one of the world's greatest collections of wild animals, birds of amazing types and colors, and strange reptiles. With comments by Belle Benchley, executive secretary of the zoo, the film is expected to be one of interest to both adults and especially children.

Third picture scheduled for showing this evening is titled "Unfinished Rainbows," and presents in color a historical account of the development of aluminum. Total showing time of all three will be about one hour, and visitors are welcome to attend. There is no admission charged.

Morning worship is announced at 8:15 a.m. The sermon theme: "The Sinner's Return." Sunday School and Bible class will be at 9:30 a.m.

Lutheran hour is each Sunday at noon over KWKH and WRBC at 1 p.m.

Sunday at 5:30 p.m. there will be an outdoor supper sponsored by the Ladies Aid Society.

WIFE IN ENGLAND SEEKS TO LOCATE HUSBAND IN CITY

Does anyone in the Twin City area know a Lonnie T. Clark, age around 30, and a veteran of World War II who was stationed in England?

If so, the wife he left behind—in England—would be grateful for his address. She wants a divorce—and soon.

Mrs. Clark, who gave her name as Norma Lilian, wrote the Morning World, seeking information of her husband who she says left her in 1944. For a year he wrote and answered her letters.

Then suddenly, on December 20, 1945, she says, he sent his last letter. Mrs. Clark has been left literally in the dark since that time, she writes.

Her letter requesting aid of the paper in locating her vanished spouse reads as follows:

June 13, 1949,
Dear Editor:

This letter comes to you from many miles away and I am hoping with all my heart that you will not ignore its presence. Can you please help a young lady who is in great distress? I wish to trace my husband or his relatives who are supposed to have resided in Monroe, La., during 1945. December 20, 1945, was the last time I heard from my husband and his name and address was as follows:

Mr. Lonnie Tarelton Clark,
c/o P. O. Box 495,
Monroe, La.

I am unable to obtain a divorce in my country until I know the whereabouts of my husband. I cannot afford to advertise for my husband as I am only an assistant on a soda fountain and I have a small son to bring up, but if you do need a fee I will try and pay installments the best way I can.

I am enclosing one of my husband's envelopes to prove to you that he did reside in Monroe. (Editor's note: This was dated September 24, 1945). If you could but advertise for him in your popular Sunday paper I would be so very, very grateful to you and your office.

I need my divorce more than anything in this world and until I procure it my happiness and health are at stake. Please don't ignore my plea.

I have written to a great many officers but all I receive is sympathy—no help. I have written to your great President Truman but that was several weeks ago and I have had no reply. I wish that dear President Roosevelt was living as I know he would have helped me.

Hoping that you are able to help me I will close and patiently wait for your reply.

Yours very truly,
NORMA L. CLARK.

Lonnie T. Clark, if he is in Monroe, is very hard to locate—that is the right one. He cannot be found in the city or telephone directories, nor do the two largest utility companies number him as a customer.

So if you have any knowledge of a Lonnie Clark fitting this pattern please communicate same to the editorial department of News-Star—World.

BRUSSELS TREATY COUNTRIES AGREE

France's Minister Says Vishinsky Could Take A Lesson From Group

By Joseph E. Dynan

LUXEMBOURG, June 18.—(AP)—The five Brussels treaty nations of western Europe are in complete agreement on their combined role in future world affairs.

The foreign ministers of Britain, France, Belguim, Holland and Luxembourg ended a speedy two-day conference today on a note of full harmony.

When their consultative council session ended French Foreign Minister Robert Schuman told newsmen there had been no disagreements.

"There were no majorities," Schuman said. "Mr. Vishinsky could take some lessons from us."

Andrei Vishinsky, foreign minister of Russia, has been negotiating for a month in Paris at the near-deadlocked big four conference on Germany and Austria.

During their conference, the five diplomats discussed, among other things:

Financial aspects of a joint military program which later will be integrated with U. S. and Canadian programs under the north Atlantic pact;

Germany's future, and the part the Brussels treaty countries can play in shaping it.

When the meeting ended the five foreign ministers emerged smiling from the Luxembourg chamber of deputies. Tonight they will attend a reception at the Royal Palace given by the grand duchess Charlotte, sovereign of Luxembourg. Tomorrow Schuman and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin will fly back to Paris to resume their roles at the big four conference.

In a radio speech today, Bevin said of the Paris meeting.

"For four weeks we have been engaged in discussing complex and difficult questions. We have been trying earnestly to reach an understanding with the Soviet government to relieve international tension. Some progress has been made but a final conclusion has not been reached."

FATHER RIVOIRE IN FIRST MASS

Local Priest, Recently Ordained, Will Officiate Sunday In St. Matthew's

The Rev. Sylvester Joseph Rivoire, S. J., son of the late U. V. Rivoire and Mrs. Alice Rivoire, ordained June 14 at St. Marys, Kans., will sing his first solemn high mass Sunday, June 19, at 11 o'clock in St. Matthew's Church here.

The right Rev. Msgr. John C. Vandegaer, pastor of Immaculate Conception Church, Natchitoches, will deliver the sermon. The assistant priest at the mass will be Father D. G. Schisler, S. J., professor at St. John's High School, Shreveport. Father Martin F. Wlash, pastor of St. Theresa's Church, Shreveport, will participate as deacon. The subdeacon will be Father William J. Rimes, S. J., who was ordained last Tuesday, June 14, with Father Rivoire. Mr. Salvador Danna, of Notre Dame Seminary, New Orleans, will act as master of ceremonies during the services.

Robert Rimes, the brother of Father William Rimes, a Jesuit scholastic who has been teaching at Spring Hill College, Mobile, Ala., will serve as thurifer. Ulysse Rivoire and Charles Amman will serve as altar boys.

A dinner at the Cajun room of the Rendezvous for the officers of the mass, the clergy and members of the family will follow immediately after the mass.

Sunday evening a reception for Father Rivoire will be held from 7 until 10 o'clock at the home of his cousins, Dr. and Mrs. Fred C. Amman, 2109 Island drive.

Bamboo plants have been known to grow as much as 16 inches in a single day.

ARREST NEGRO MAN WHO CAUSED WRECK

A 37-year-old Negro, who ran a stop sign and crashed into a car driven by T. R. Woods, 47, at the intersection of North Fifth and Breard streets at 11 a. m., was free on $100 bond late Saturday.

Police charged the Negro, C. H. Ward, Marion, with running a stop sign, causing personal injury and property damage.

Woods' family, his wife, two daughters, Mary Jo Woods, 22, and Eloise Woods Gilmore, 20, and Mrs. Gilmore's infant daughter, Carol Ann, escaped injury in the wreck. The tiny girl, however, was taken to the St. Francis Sanitarium where X-rays revealed no injuries.

Woods told police that he was driving north on North Fifth when the Negro smashed into the right side of his 1940 Plymouth with his Dodge automobile while driving west on Breard.

Woods brought his car to a halt, police said, and leaped out. He snatched up a piece of running board and chased Ward from the scene. Ward did not return until they arrived to investigate the accident, police said.

ATTACK ON WAR VETERANS SEEN

National Commander Reports Attempts To Take Away Benefits

WASHINGTON, June 18.—(AP)—Perry Brown, national commander of the American Legion, said today a "dangerous, irresponsible and, in some cases, greedy attack" is being made on benefit for war veterans.

Brown said he has found signs of this attack in newspaper and magazine articles and in recommendations of the Hoover commission and the American Hospital Association.

Writing in the current issue of the American Legion magazine, Brown said:

"It is my unhappy duty to call to the attention of Legionnaires and all veterans of both great world wars certain unmistakable evidence that our hard-won benefits are under * * * attack from many sides.

"For the second time in 16 years, opposition to establish veterans benefits by special and powerful groups contains elements of a real crisis for all war veterans. It represent a challenge which may call for the full fighting strength of the American Legion."

Brown likened the situation to 1933, when he said the "infamous, callous and cold-blooded economy act"—repealed a year later—and other legislation closed army and navy hospitals to veterans and reduced other benefits.

He criticized particularly recommendations of the commission headed by former President Herbert Hoover for reorganization of the federal government.

The commission proposed that a general federal hospital system be set up to take over hospitals now operated independently by the veterans administration, the army, the navy, the marine corps, the public health service and other agencies.

"It is the experience of the American Legion and of thousands of veterans and many VA employes that there is already too much red tape confronting the veteran who is eligible under law for VA hospitalization," Brown declared.

"Removal of VA hospitals to a brand new bureau will throw another wall of expensive paper work, inter-office memoranda and bureaucrats between the sick veteran and his hospital bed."

Brown also attacked an American Hospital Association proposal to close VA hospitals to some non-service-connected disabled veterans and provide those veterans with health-insurance policies providing for care in private hospitals.

He said the plan has been supported also by some officials of the American Medical Association.

"The way to solve the hospital crisis in this country is not to rob Peter to pay Paul," Brown said.

"There is no economy in the AHA plan for moving some veterans into the already crowded private hospitals. * * * Treatment of government beneficiaries in private hospitals costs the taxpayer more and serves the government beneficiary less."

Senator Murray (D-Mont.), in the final speech of yesterday's session, called the Taft proposals "anti-free enterprise." He said they "will lead us along the road to . . . totalitarianism."

And Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) winding up a speech he began last Friday, said the Taft-Hartley act of two years ago made 100 "corrupting changes" in the Wagner act, and the new Taft proposals would remedy only about one-fourth of them.

IN MOVIELAND

By Bob Thomas

HOLLYWOOD, June 18.—(AP)—Admitting he was a "confused boy" six months ago, Actor Robert Walker today praised the mental treatment which he said has made him a new man.

The 30-year-old former husband of Jennifer Jones talked freely of his experience at Topeka's Menninger Clinic in Kansas.

"If an actor can speak frankly of his solution to mental troubles, perhaps it will encourage others to seek psychiatric help," he said.

Walker admitted a "torch" for his ex-wife had something to do with his previous troubles, which involved public drunkenness and scrapes with the law. Miss Jones has been reported engaged to her boss, David O. Selznick.

"At the time—in the pre-clinic days—I felt it very deeply," he said. "I was a very unhappy character.

"But now I know it is not important. And what's more, it's not important to the kids either."

Walker is caring for his two children while Miss Jones is in Europe. "They're getting a lot of love from their pop," he said. "And I'm getting a lot of love in return. It means a lot to have a couple of kids who idolize you."

The actor said M.-G.-M. Head Producer Dore Schary talked him into visiting the Menninger Clinic.

"I didn't want to go," he related. "I thought it was a horrible shame to go to a mental clinic. I thought the way many people do—that it meant something like an insane asylum. Now I know differently."

Walker said he made no progress in his first two months there.

"I was fighting it," he said. "But for the next four and a half months I went through an exciting, wonderful experience. I spent an hour each day with my psychiatrist and slowly relived my whole life.

"I was so starved for the information that I gobbled it up. I found out that everything stems back to how you were treated and how much you were loved when you were little."

Before the treatment, Walker said he had felt that "everybody hated me, that I was unworthy of happiness." But now he feels "unbelievably good: it's the difference between night and day."

Does he think the experience will make him a better actor?

"I've thought about that; maybe it will. I now like people—I'm not afraid of anybody. Maybe that will make me a better actor."

Walker starts a picture July 15 and will do another one immediately thereafter. After that he intends to return to Menninger's. "Psychiatry is a fascinating study and I want to know more about it," he said.

Informed that reports from Europe hinted a rift between Miss Jones and Selznick, Walker had this answer:

"Never a dull moment."

Animal hoofs, whether one-toed as in the horse, two-toed as in the cows, pigs and sheep, or four-toed as in the hippopotamus, are modifications of a five-toed arrangement.

LOUISIANA ADOPTS NEW MILK CODE

NEW ORLEANS, June 18.— (AP) — Louisiana has a new milk code today based on the U. S. public health service's system of grading.

It was made official yesterday by the board of health after "many months of intensive work," resigning State Health Director William V. Garnier said.

R. L. Bolton, Mount Hermon board member, pointed out the adopted code will strengthen provisions on milk imports and assure Louisi "only the best milk" from state.

The revisions now call fo be grade A, B or C.

Dr. Garnier, who has resi July 1, said "about 2,000— many as 3,000 milk producer okay as supplies for New They're putting out grade A

He added that "now what' straighten out the distribu shouldn't be difficult."

Board members said the c not become law until 20 day ficial publication in the Ba State Times. The code wil to the newspapers Monday.

YOU KNOW, ALICE, PEOPLE WOULD BE SMART IF THEY BUILT NEW NESTS EACH YEAR LIKE WE DO!

POP GOT US A LONG DOG, SO WE COULD ALL PAT HIM AT ONCE!

DOES HE ALWAYS SAG LIKE THAT?

RUN OUT AND GET THAT BLACK BAG OUT OF THE BACK SEAT. I NEED IT RIGHT AWAY!

BUT, FREDDIE, DIDN'T YOU ASK THEM ABOUT CHILDREN?

I NEVER THOUGHT OF IT!

WE KNOW THE OWNER AND I'M SURE WE CAN GET HIM TO PAINT FOR YOU!

I'LL PUT YOUR NAME IN FOR OUR GARDEN CLUB, SO WE CAN VOTE YOU IN RIGHT AWAY!

ARNOLD! STAY BACK HERE AND KEEP YOUR TRAP SHUT. WE'LL KNOW MORE ABOUT THESE FOLKS WHEN WE SEE 'EM HANG OUT THEIR WASHING!

WE NEED ANOTHER COUPLE IN OUR BRIDGE CLUB. DO YOU PLAY BRIDGE?

SNIFF SNIFF

SHALL WE TELL 'EM THE BASEMENT FLOODS?

HEY, SAMPSON! I THINK WE'RE GOING TO GET SOME NEW NEIGHBORS

JUST PARK THE TRAILER HERE IN THE FRONT YARD. THERE WON'T BE ROOM FOR IT IN THE GARAGE!

IF THAT'S THEIR FURNITURE, I DON'T SEE WHY THEY DIDN'T LET THE STORAGE MAN KEEP IT!

I GUESS I WAS A LITTLE HASTY IN ASKING THEM TO JOIN OUR BRIDGE CLUB

FORGET IT, BESSIE! THEY WON'T HAVE TIME TO PLAY BRIDGE!

Little Orphan Annie

THEY USED TO SAY, "THEM AS HAS, GITS." BUT ACCORDING TO ANNIE, IT'S, "THEM AS HAS, GIVES!" HM·M·M···THEY'RE THE ONLY ONES WHO CAN GIVE, COME TO THINK OF IT!

WOW! WE'RE SURE MOVIN' FAST, MR. LOCUST! BOUGHT THIS WHOLE BIG BEAUTIFUL VALLEY··· RIVER, RICH FIELDS, WOODED HILLS, TH' WHOLE SHEBANG FOR CASH···

THAT'S RIGHT! CASH TALKS! AND THE ARCHITECT HAS A WHOLE MODEL CITY READY FOR YOUR APPROVAL···

LEAPIN' LIZARDS! A TOY TOWN··· ONLY IT WON'T BE ANY TOY WHEN WE GET DONE, EH?

IF YOU O. K. THE PLANS, MISS ANNIE, WE CAN THROW IN TEN THOUSAND MEN TO START TOMORROW···

THIS IS THE HEAD OF THE LARGEST CONSTRUCTION COMPANY IN THE COUNTRY···

YEAH? WELL, WHAT ARE WE WAITIN' FOR?

OH·OH···THOSE REPORTERS AGAIN! BUT THERE'S NO DODGIN' 'EM, I GUESS···

YOU CAN'T AVOID PUBLICITY ON A PROJECT OF THIS SIZE···

THIS IS THE BIGGEST STORY FOR YEARS···

FABULOUS FORTUNE FOUND BY ORPHAN···

ORPHAN MAKES PIKER OF ALI BABA···

THERE SHE IS NOW!

HOLD IT, ANNIE! IT A GIRL!

ROBBER HOARD TO HELP HAPLESS WAIFS···

NATURALLY I CAN'T GIVE THE SECRET LOCATION OF THE ROBBER CAVE AT THIS TIME···YOU HAVE SEEN SAMPLES···ALL I CAN SAY IS, THERE ARE TENS OF MILLIONS MORE WHERE THAT CAME FROM···

I PLAN TO SPEND EVERY CENT TO BUILD AND ENDOW THE FINEST HOME FOR ORPHANS EVER DREAMED OF···A REAL COMMUNITY THAT WILL BE THEIRS···TO LIVE IN··· ···TO ENJOY···AND TO RUN···ALL BY THEMSELVES···

HAVE YOU ANY IDEA WHERE ALL THAT FORTUNE IN THE CAVE CAME FROM?

Copyright, 1949, by News Syndicate Co., Inc.

NO! NO WAY TO TRACE ANY OF IT NOW···I FOUND IT···"FINDERS KEEPERS," TH' WAY I FIGGER··· WHO'S GOT A BETTER RIGHT TO IT? WHO'D SPEND IT BETTER?

YOU'RE RIGHT BOTH TIMES, ANNIE!

HM·M···HAVE YOU CHECKED THE TAX ANGLE?

HAVE YOU HEARD? THAT ORPHAN! A HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS!

THE ORPHAN WHO'S BEEN LIVING OUT AT JITTERS'!

OF ALL PEOPLE!

WHAT RIGHT HAS SHE TO ALL THAT MONEY?

WHAT RIGHT HAS ANYONE TO SO MUCH?

IMAGINE! GOLD! JEWELS! AN ORPHAN!

I HEAR SHE'S SPENDING IT ALL TO BUILD A MARVELOUS HOME FOR ORPHANS···

HUMPH! THINK OF THAT! BUT WHAT CAN YOU EXPECT FROM THAT TYPE?

IT SHOULD BE TAKEN OUT OF HER HANDS!

MY·MY! THE THINGS I COULD BUY WITH JUST A THOUSAND OF THAT MONEY···
